Providing competitive non-conventional natural gas service sector is the Company's business highlight and competitive advantage in future and the Company will compete with Anton Oilfield Services in the sector. Since the sector is in the stage of demand outbreak and technical threshold is fairly high, lack of high-end oil and gas service provides limited competition for SPT Energy and Anton Oilfield Services, and the two companies will be able to realize leaps and bounds with the explosive growth of the sector in the next five years.

With the explosive growth of the non-conventional natural gas services sector and the Company's strong competitive advantages, such private high-end oil and gas service providers as SPT Energy and Anton Oilfield Services will enjoy high valuation in the coming few years. We believe certainty of industrial growth, high growth in the Company performance and its competitive advantages enable investors to afford high valuation premium to the two companies provided that performance growth will continuously meet and be beyond market expectations.

We believe SPT Energy is on the rising pass way of performance and valuation. Despite effect of lower-than-Anton performance growth on valuation, we are confident in SPT Energy valuation increase. Anton Oilfield's recent beyond-expectation mid-2012 performance has positive influence on the Company's valuation increase. We for the first time afford SPT Energy "Buy" rating, 12-month target price is HKD 2.10, equivalent to 8.5-time 2012 expected P/E ratio
