Market and Credit Risks
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> You are exposed to market risks. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> The value of securities will fluctuate depending on the general trend of the stock market, prevailing interest rates, the economic environment and the political and regulatory uncertainties in Asia. You are exposed to risks of investing in emerging markets. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Securities in emerging markets and some Asian markets may be more volatile than those of developed markets. Changes in government policies in some of these markets may affect the ability to repatriate capital, income and proceeds. The regulatory, disclosure and financial reporting standards may differ significantly from and offer less investor protection compared to internationally recognised standards. The Sub-Fund invests in the securities of smaller and emerging growth companies, which prices tend to be more volatile, and subject the Sub-Fund's NAV to a higher volatility. You are exposed to credit and counterparty risks. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Fixed income securities are subject to credit risks, such as risk of default by issuers. The insolvency of a counterparty could adversely affect its ability to meet payment obligations to the Sub-Fund.

securities may be subject to more abrupt price movements.

- You are exposed to risks of using FDIs.
 - The Sub-Fund may use FDIs including foreign exchange forwards for hedging. The use of FDIs may involve risks greater than those of more traditional investments as its prices are more volatile.
- You are exposed to risks of investing in illiquid and volatile securities.
 - Unlisted securities are less liquid than listed securities and may not be subject to the same disclosure and investor protection measures as listed securities.
 - Investments in warrants may involve higher risks than investments in ordinary shares due to greater volatility of warrant prices.
- You are exposed to the risks of a regional fund.
 - Investments in a regional fund may be subject to higher risks as it may be less diversified than a global portfolio.
- You are exposed to tax risks.
 - The Sub-Fund may be subject to tax exposure on its investments.
- You are exposed to risks of relying on credit ratings.
 - Credit ratings of instruments are not a guarantee of quality. Rating methodologies generally rely on historical data, which may not be predictive of future trends and adjustments in response to a subsequent change of circumstances may take time.
- You are exposed to currency risks.
 - The assets and income of the Sub-Fund may be denominated in a number of different currencies other than the Singapore Dollar (some of which may not be freely convertible) and will thus be subject to fluctuations in currency exchange rates and in certain cases, exchange control regulations. The foreign currency exposure of the Sub-Fund may not be fully hedged.
- You are exposed to the risks of investing in bonds and other fixed income securities.
