Annual Report – 1 May 2009 to 30 April 2010

Directors' Report

I Introduction

Fidelity Funds (the "Company") is an open-ended investment company established in Luxembourg as a société d'investissement à capital variable ("SICAV"). It has an umbrella structure and its assets are held in a number of different funds ("sub-funds"). Each sub-fund is a separate portfolio of securities managed in accordance with specific investment objectives. Separate classes of shares in the Company (the "Shares") are issued in relation to the sub-funds. Each sub-fund provides an investment opportunity in professionally managed pools of securities in different geographical areas and currencies, with the investment objective of capital growth, income or a balance between capital growth and income.

Shares are authorised for sale in a number of jurisdictions and are generally listed on the Luxembourg Stock Exchange, except for the Reserved Funds, the Institutional Reserved Funds and the class E Shares.

II Financial Statements

The Directors submit their report and the audited financial statements for the year ended 30 April 2010.

The audited financial statements are set out on pages 134 to 716 of this Annual Report, with results for the year appearing in the Statement of Operations and Changes in Net Assets on pages 676 to 696. Dividend information for the sub-funds is detailed on pages 711 to 713.

A copy of the Annual Report may be obtained upon request from the offices of companies registered as distributors or from the Registered Office of the Company. Comparative figures for the previous year can be found in the Annual Report of the Company for the year ended 30 April 2009. Alternatively, please go to www.fidelity-international.com, choose your country of residence and select Fidelity Funds' Annual Report & Accounts.

III Activities during the year

During the year the Company followed the normal activities of an open-ended investment company. The Investment Manager's Report that follows gives an overview of performance. As at 30 April 2010, the number of registered Shareholders worldwide totalled in excess of 120,000. However, the total number of investors in the Company is much greater than the number of registered Shareholders due to the fact that certain registered Shareholders may represent the holdings of many underlying clients. Assets at 30 April 2010 equalled USD 71.5 billion. At the year end, there were 126 sub-funds in the Fidelity Funds range. Details of changes to the composition of the sub-fund range during the year are provided in the Notes to the Financial Statements on pages 707 to 715. The Directors may from time to time close sub-funds as well as add further sub-funds with different investment objectives, subject to the approval of the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier ("CSSF").

Extraordinary General Meetings of Shareholders of the FPS Defensive Fund, Japan Dividend Growth Fund and MoneyBuilder Asia Fund, held on 24 July 2009, approved the following mergers: FPS Defensive Fund into Multi Asset Strategic Defensive Fund, Japan Dividend Growth Fund into Japan Advantage Fund and MoneyBuilder Asia Fund into Pacific Fund. The mergers took place on 18 September 2009. The FPS Defensive Fund, the Japan Dividend Growth Fund and the MoneyBuilder Asia Fund were subsequently closed.

IV Board of Directors

The Directors of the Company are listed on page 5. Seven of the thirteen Directors, serving as at 30 April 2010, are considered by the Board to be independent of the Investment Manager and free from any business or other relationship which could materially interfere with the exercise of their independent judgment. There are no service contracts proposed or in existence between any of the Directors and the Company. FIL (Luxembourg) S.A. ("FILUX") is a corporate Director of the Company and has a contract with the Company in its capacity as Central Administrative Agent as described below. In accordance with the Articles of Incorporation of the Company all current Directors will retire at the Annual General Meeting. All of the retiring Directors, being eligible, are standing for re-election.

On 1 January 2010, Mr Alexander Kemner was appointed Director of FIL Limited, the holding company of the Investment Manager, and as a consequence has stepped down from his position as Chairman of the Audit Committee. The Directors are pleased to report that Dr Erhard Schipcoreit has accepted the position as Chairman of the Audit Committee with effect from 1 January 2010. After the year end, Sir Charles Fraser, Mr Hamilius and Mr van den Hoven have stepped down from the Audit Committee and Mr Al-Awadi has joined the Audit Committee.

Directors' Responsibilities

The Board of Directors has overall responsibility for the Company's affairs and the Board has established contracts with key service providers under which it delegates the day-to-day management of the Company to the Investment Manager and the Central Administrative Agent as described below and receives regular reports from these organisations. The Directors are formally responsible for the Report and Accounts of the Company for each financial year, which are required under general principles to give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Company. In accordance with those same principles, the Directors are responsible for:

- selecting suitable accounting policies and applying them consistently;
- preparing the accounts on a going concern basis;
- maintaining proper accounting records which disclose, with reasonable accuracy, at any time the financial position of the Company; and
- complying with both the Luxembourg Law of 10 August 1915 on commercial companies and the Luxembourg Law of 20 December 2002 on undertakings for collective investment, as amended.

The Central Administrative Agent, as delegate of the Board of Directors, is responsible for the Company's system of internal control and for reviewing its effectiveness. The system is designed to manage rather than eliminate the risk of failure to achieve business objectives and can only provide reasonable and not absolute assurance against material misstatement or loss. The duties of the Investment Manager and Central Administrative Agent include the design, implementation and maintenance of controls and procedures to administer the assets of the Company and to manage its affairs properly. The system extends to operational and compliance controls and risk management. Regular reports on controls and compliance issues are provided by the Supervisory Officers to the Audit Committee and/or the Board.

V Supervisory Officers

The three Supervisory Officers (the “SOs”) serving during the financial year were Mr Nishith Gandhi, Mr Andrew Steward and Mr Charles Hutchinson.

Mr Steward tendered his resignation from his position with effect from 4 May 2010 and the Directors are pleased to report that Mr Stephan von Bismarck has been appointed as a Supervisory Officer of the Company, with effect from 12 May 2010.

Mr von Bismarck heads up the FIL Investment Management Risk team with responsibility for investment management related risk management processes. Before joining FIL in 2004, he was Deputy Head of Global Risk Management for AXA Investment Managers.

The SOs have a duty to ensure that the tasks of the General Distributor, FIL Distributors (“FID”), and the Investment Manager and the Central Administrative Agent are performed in compliance with Luxembourg law, the Company’s Articles of Incorporation and current Prospectus. Amongst other things, the SOs ensure compliance with the investment restrictions of the Company and oversee the implementation of the investment policy of each sub-fund by the appointed Investment Manager, FIL Fund Management Limited (“FFML”). They also ensure that the risks linked to the activities carried out by FFML, FILUX and FID are correctly managed, monitored and reported to the Board of Directors of the Company.

VI Role of Investment Manager and Central Administrative Agent

FFML provides day-to-day investment management of the Company, under the supervision and subject to the control of the Board of Directors. FFML is authorised to act on behalf of the Company and to select agents, brokers and dealers through whom to execute transactions and is required to provide the Board of Directors with any reports it may require.

FFML may receive investment advice from, and act upon the advice of, any company within the FIL Limited (“FIL”) organisation, including affiliate companies of FFML, and may execute, transact and otherwise carry out its functions, duties and obligations with or through any of these FIL companies. FFML remains responsible for the proper performance by such companies of those responsibilities.

FILUX continues to act as the appointed Registrar, Transfer Agent, Administrative Service Agent and Domiciliary Agent for the Company and its sub-funds and Share classes. FILUX processes subscriptions, redemptions, conversions and transfers of Shares and enters these transactions in the register of Shareholders of the Company. It provides services in connection with keeping the Company’s accounts, determination of the NAV of Shares in each sub-fund, class of Shares and currency on each valuation date, dispatch of dividend cheques to Shareholders, preparation and distribution of Shareholder reports and provision of other administrative services.

In addition, the Company has appointed FIL to provide services in relation to the investments of the sub-funds including valuation, statistical, technical, reporting, and other assistance.

VII Corporate Governance

The Board applies a clear and transparent corporate governance framework for the management of the Company’s affairs.

1. The Board has adopted the ALFI Code of Conduct issued in September 2009, which sets out the principles of good governance, and considers that the Company has been in compliance with it in all material respects throughout the financial period ended 30 April 2010. Any subsequent amendment to the ALFI Code of Conduct will be considered by the Board prior to adoption and necessary disclosure will be made in the annual financial statements.
2. There are contractual arrangements in place governing the relationships with FFML, FILUX and FID as well as other third party suppliers to the Company.
3. The Directors take decisions in the interests of the Company and its Shareholders and refrain from taking part in any deliberation or decision which creates conflict between their personal interests and those of the Company and its Shareholders.
4. The Board and, where appropriate, its Committees meet at least four times a year. The Board requests and receives reports from the relevant Committees, the SOs, FFML, FILUX and FID on the various activities including compliance controls and risk management undertaken by the relevant FIL companies. Senior representatives of FFML, FILUX and FID attend meetings by invitation, thus enabling the Board of Directors to question the reports presented to it.
5. As part of the control framework within FIL, all FIL group employees are subject to a Code of Ethics, which, among other things, sets out procedures for personal account dealing in securities. The Board receives regular reports on the Code of Ethics to ensure that any conflicts of interest between personal accounts dealing by FIL group staff and the interests of the Company are properly managed.
6. The Board of Directors has established an Audit Committee which consists exclusively of independent Directors and which is charged with reviewing the annual accounts, the external audit process, sub-custodian arrangements and the relationship with the external Auditor, including the recommendation to Shareholders of its appointment and level of fees. The Audit Committee meets at least twice a year and reports to the Board of Directors, making recommendations where appropriate. The Audit Committee meets with the external Auditor in the absence of representatives of the FIL group at least once a year.
7. The nomination of new Directors is considered by the Board and is subject to the approval of the CSSF and ultimately the approval of Shareholders at the Annual General Meeting. The level of Directors’ fees is put to Shareholders for approval, in accordance with the Articles of Incorporation. The Directors’ remuneration earned for the year ended 30 April 2010 was in aggregate USD 361,723 subject to Shareholder approval, as set out on page 710 of this Annual Report. Such remuneration is earned and paid in EUR and for comparison purposes was EUR 255,933. Directors who are affiliated with FFML or its holding company FIL Limited have waived their fees for the year ended 30 April 2010.

8. The Directors are committed to ensuring that Shareholders are kept informed of matters relevant to their investment and that all Shareholders are treated fairly. The maintenance and integrity of information concerning the Company on the Fidelity website is the responsibility of FIL. FILUX is responsible for the accuracy of translations of documents which may be available to investors in languages other than English. The Directors approve the English form of the financial statements presented to them at Audit Committee and Board meetings.

The external Auditor, PricewaterhouseCoopers S.à r.l., being eligible, offers itself for re-election for the year from 1 May 2010 to 30 April 2011.

VIII Other Information

Proxy Voting

FFML has a policy of voting on equity securities in all markets where it is possible to do so unless the loss of liquidity as a result of attendant share blocking is deemed to outweigh the expected benefits to be gained. Such voting is undertaken in accordance with written proxy voting guidelines employed by the FIL group, of which FFML is part, and takes into account prevailing local market best practices. The Board reviews and approves the proxy voting policy, activity and guidelines annually. FIL's Principles of Ownership, which summarises how FIL engages with companies in which its sub-funds have invested, can be accessed from the Corporate Governance section of FIL's website (www.fidelity-international.com).

Commissions and Interfunding

FFML uses supplemental research in the course of its work for the Company and other clients that are paid for or provided by brokers through whom the Investment Manager executes transactions for the Company and other clients. Softing arrangements that have been undertaken in respect of the Company include research and advisory services, economic and political analysis, portfolio analysis, market analysis and specialist economic and company research.

For the year ended 30 April 2010 the percentage of total commissions incurred by the Company used for soft commissions was 13.23%.

FFML has an arrangement with selected brokers whereby a portion of commissions from security transactions may be paid to the Company to reduce transaction costs. Amounts received by the Company under this arrangement are used to offset expenses. For the year ended 30 April 2010 the Company's expenses were reduced by USD 21,136,225 under this arrangement.

The Company participates in the Investment Manager's interfunding programme whereby FIL's traders, on occasion, identify situations where an account or sub-fund managed by FIL is buying the same security that another account or sub-fund is selling. If a trader can confirm that it would be in the interests of both accounts to execute a transaction between them rather than in the market then an interfund transaction is executed.

Investment Manager's Report*

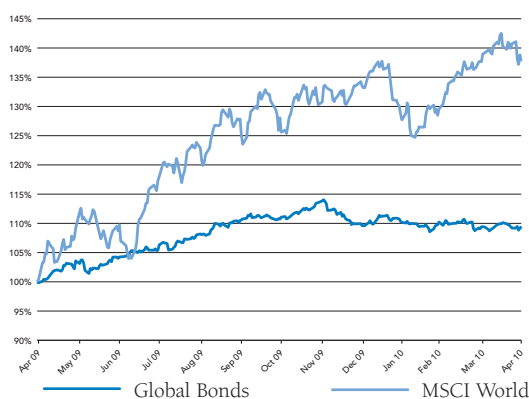

Performance Overview 12 months to end of April 2010

Global equities rose sharply over the 12 months to April 2010, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and a thaw in credit markets. Better than expected corporate results, upgrades in analysts' forecasts and heightened deal activity also helped performance.

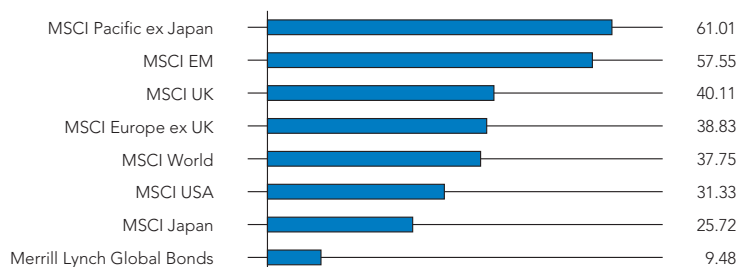

Markets however faced intermittent setbacks. Doubts about the sustainability of the rally held back the performance in June 2009. Then the concerns over the tightening monetary policies in China, and the proposals for tough new regulations of the financial sector caused a decline in investor confidence in early 2010. Following the downgrade of the credit ratings of several European countries there were worries over the sovereign credit risk in peripheral European economies, such as Greece, Portugal and Spain.

In order to ease the increase of volatility and risk-aversion caused by continuing anxiety over the Greek debt crisis the European Union (EU) and International Monetary Fund (IMF) announced an emergency rescue package of around $1 trillion in early May 2010. The package was on the scale of the US government's $700 billion Troubled Asset Relief Program in 2008. It included governments and IMF-backed loan guarantees, and a crucial commitment by the European Central Bank (ECB) to buy eurozone sovereign bonds.

Equities in Asia Pacific ex-Japan and emerging markets rose the most in US dollar terms over the period. The surge was followed in the UK, US, Europe and Japan. Returns in US dollar terms were supported by its depreciation against other major currencies over the 12-month period.

European equities recorded robust returns, as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. A rise in the region's key sentiment indicators further provided support, although high unemployment rates remained a concern. Interest rates reached record lows in the eurozone and quantitative easing measures continued despite the tightening liquidity support by central banks later in the period. Financials advanced as monetary and fiscal stimulus started to take effect. Investors felt that the markets had seen their worst and their risk appetite increased in favour of cyclical areas including industrials and materials firms.

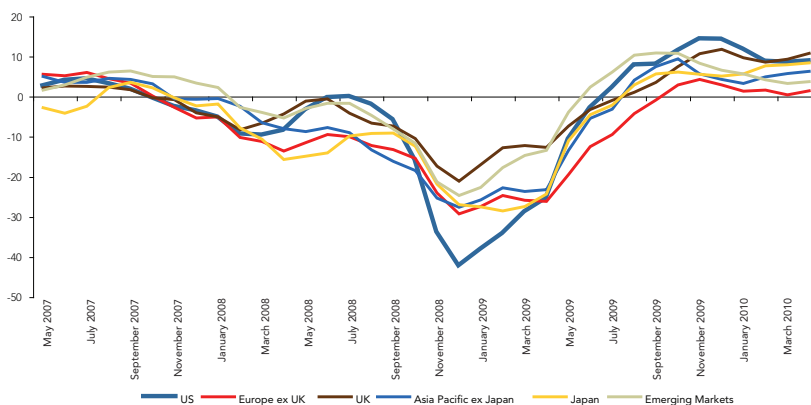

UK equities rallied strongly as risk appetite improved, driven by encouraging economic data and increasingly positive earnings reports. Shares in businesses more closely linked to the economic cycle, such as mining and industrials, outperformed as the outlook for demand brightened. The consumer goods sectors were also among the key gainers as customer confidence rose and borrowing costs stayed low. Conversely, defensive firms, which had benefited from risk-aversion in the previous 12-month period, underperformed the broader market. On the policy front, the Bank of England kept the interest rate unchanged at 0.5% and extended its quantitative easing programme to £200 billion before deciding to pause in February 2010. After the review period, in June the new coalition government announced tough measures in an emergency budget, reducing spending, raising sales tax and charging a levy on banks in an effort to rein in a record deficit. Markets cautiously welcomed these steps, although there were some worries that the deep spending cuts could drag the economy back into a recession.

In the US, a resurgent appetite for risk combined with improving corporate and economic fundamentals pushed equities higher. Businesses initially protected their margins by undertaking extensive operating cost cuts and increasing productivity. This set the stage for better-than-expected earnings announcements, especially once inventory restocking activity started and consumer spending improved. Nevertheless, overall consumption levels remained low and the unemployment rate reached multi-decade highs raising questions about the sustainability of the recovery. Encouragingly, the tailwind from low interest rates and government stimulus spending helped the economy return to growth. This buoyed industrial and materials stocks. Improved transaction activity and rising prices started to build the base for recovery in the housing sector, while leading labour market indicators pointed to future improvements. Consumer discretionary shares fared well against this backdrop.

Japan's economy returned to growth in early 2009, spurred by an export-led production recovery and substantial government stimulus. Against a more benign macroeconomic backdrop and greater stability in financial systems, share prices rebounded led by large-cap cyclical stocks in the auto, materials and electrical equipment sectors. Japan specific factors, most notably large-scale equity financing and a stronger yen, stymied the market recovery through the second half of 2009, but share prices rallied strongly in early 2010 fuelled by gains in global cyclicals and financials. Meanwhile, smaller companies started to outperform, as a recovery in earnings and greater confidence in the outlook for domestic demand broadened the range of buying interest in this segment of the market.

Sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades drove Asia Pacific ex-Japan equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The consumer discretionary sector was in the vanguard driven by strong domestic consumption growth. Financials rose as loan growth remained strong and, compared to western banks, the level of defaults remained relatively low. Exporters, notably electronic equipment manufacturers, were buoyed by a recovery in overseas demand. Materials producers gained because of strong demand in China and other emerging markets which expanded public spending in infrastructure.

Strong Upward Earnings Revisions

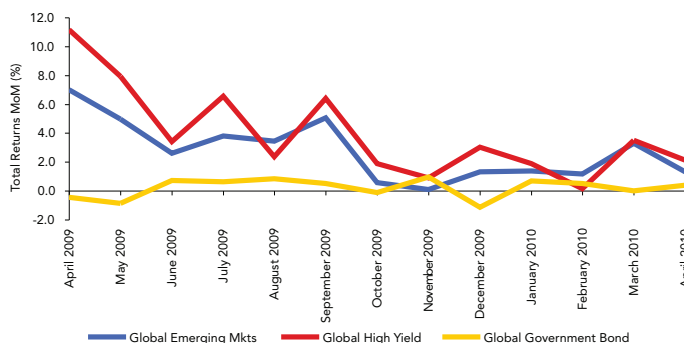

Source: Datastream, Net earnings upgrades ratio (three-month moving average), 20/04/10

Global forward earnings estimates have rebounded strongly since the beginning of 2009 and a broad based uptrend was seen in the net upgrades ratios, which was a common theme across all key regions. The net downgrades that had begun in September 2007 were over by July 2009. Since then we have seen nine months of net upgrades on a global basis. This has been largely a result of aggressive cost cutting complemented by an improving demand outlook. As current worries about the debt crisis in the eurozone subside, companies meeting or beating earnings expectations are likely to be recognised more in an environment of moderate growth. Such a return to fundamentals will be beneficial for genuine stock pickers.

Bond markets

Within the fixed income category, investment grade and high-yield corporate bonds (viewed as having higher perceived credit risk) outperformed all major government bond markets over the last year. The period was characterised by a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and unconventional measures such as quantitative easing implemented by central banks across the globe. These helped reduce stress and brought stability to the financial markets. Subsequently, equities rose and credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors and regions to pre-Lehman levels. Financials, particularly subordinated debt, led the gains. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to the sovereign debt concerns. Nevertheless, high yield and emerging market bonds witnessed exceptionally strong returns in light of increased risk appetite.

Investors Seek Higher Yielding Assets

Source: BofA Merrill Lynch Indices 30/04/10

High-yield bonds have experienced a strong recovery from the depths of the credit crisis. Yields have fallen dramatically over the past year as credit markets normalised and investor appetite returned. Whilst we are unlikely to see a repeat of the returns generated through the 2009 recovery, improving global economic conditions and ongoing flows into credit are translating into further opportunities for investors in this sector. So far in 2010, high yield has been supported by strong inflows, robust new issuance and a decline in defaults. Better than expected earnings across many sectors as well as an uptick in merger activity has further benefited the asset class. However, recent concerns over the sovereign debt crisis in Europe have caused riskier asset classes to take a pause and we believe that name selection will be the key driver of high yield returns going forward.

Cumulative Returns are calculated from Net Asset Value price to Net Asset Value price with gross income reinvested on ex-dividend dates. For sub-funds where the price adjustment policy has been applied as per note 2 on page 709, the Cumulative Returns are calculated to or from the adjusted Net Asset Value price.

This calculation does not include any initial charge, and represents the true investment performance of the sub-fund.

Since Launch figures are from commencement of operations to 30 April 2010.

Annualised performance is an alternative way of expressing a sub-fund's total return. It assumes a steady compound rate of growth during the period in question and is not the sub-fund's year by year performance, which fluctuated over the periods shown.

Please note that the Manager's Overviews are based on the first Share class disclosed for each sub-fund. Performance data is expressed in the Share class currency of denomination, indicated by the ISO code shown.

Manager's Overview

A resurgent risk appetite combined with improving corporate and economic fundamentals pushed US equities higher. Businesses initially protected margins by undertaking extensive operating cost cutting and increasing productivity. Nevertheless, overall consumption levels remained low and the unemployment rate reached multi-decade highs. Encouragingly, the tailwind from low interest rates and government stimulus spending helped the economy return to growth. Improved transaction activity and prices started to build the base for recovery in the housing sector while labour market leading indicators pointed to future improvements.

The fund outperformed its benchmark. Stock selection in the energy and materials sectors added value. An underweight position in ExxonMobil contributed to relative returns as the integrated oil major reported relatively disappointing growth. Positive drilling updates boosted the off-benchmark holding in Pacific Rubiales Energy. Elsewhere, exposure to bid targets lent support. Consumer health care products business Chattem was acquired by Sanofi-Aventis and power tool manufacturer Black & Decker merged with The Stanley Works. The latter also benefited from improving housing transaction activity and prices. Elsewhere, evidence of inventory restocking activity and encouraging earnings results buoyed technology holdings including flash memory card producer SanDisk.

Initially, the manager focused on early cyclical areas such as logistics and home-related names, which were trading at distressed valuations and were expected to benefit from economic stabilisation. Stocks such as Take-Two Interactive Software that were considered to be more insulated from the economy were also added. Subsequently, positions were initiated in firms such as Dell and Ingersoll-Rand, whose lean cost structures left them well placed to surpass earnings expectations. The highest conviction ideas are now in areas where the recovery is not yet priced in.

American Diversified Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 131 Million

Manager's Overview

A resurgent appetite for risk combined with improving corporate and economic fundamentals drove US equities higher. Businesses protected their margins by undertaking extensive operating cost cutting and increasing productivity. This set the stage for better-than-expected earnings announcements, especially once inventory restocking activity started and consumer spending improved. However, overall consumption levels remained low and the unemployment rate reached multi-decade highs, raising questions about sustainability of the recovery. Encouragingly, the tailwind from low interest rates and government stimulus spending helped the economy return to growth and clear signs of revival were seen in the housing sector.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. An underweight holding in Apple weakened relative returns as investors focused on its healthy sales and enthusiasm about the launch of the iPad. Within the health care sector overweight positions in Baxter International and Pfizer detracted from returns. The former, a therapeutics firm, cut its full-year profit forecast for 2010 due to costs associated with health care reforms and a weaker market for its plasma protein therapies. This holding was trimmed. While lacklustre guidance for 2010 held back shares in Pfizer, exposure to the company was increased as the stock was attractively valued. The above-benchmark holding in CVS Caremark hurt performance as contract losses exceeded estimates at the drugstore operator's pharmacy benefits unit Caremark. On a positive note, stock selection in telecommunications services providers proved rewarding. Mobile operator NII Holdings delivered robust results that highlighted its healthy margins and strong free cash flows. In the technology space, the new holding in SanDisk added value due to a healthy rise in demand for computer storage products.

The fund has an overweight exposure to information technology firms, in particular, hardware equipment manufacturers that will benefit from a rebound in corporate spending. Food retailing firms and health care equipment and services providers are other industries where the fund has an overweight stance.

American Growth Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 299 Million

Manager's Overview

A resurgent risk appetite combined with improving corporate and economic fundamentals pushed US equities higher. Businesses initially protected margins by undertaking extensive operating cost cutting and increasing productivity. This set the stage for better-than-expected earnings especially once inventory restocking activity started. Nevertheless, overall consumption levels remained low and the unemployment rate reached multi-decade highs. Encouragingly, the tailwind from low interest rates and government stimulus spending helped the economy return to growth. Improved transaction activity and prices started to build the base for recovery in the housing sector while labour market leading indicators pointed to future improvements.

The fund underperformed its benchmark due to adverse stock selection among financials. Improving sentiment towards the sector meant that avoiding Bank of America and being underweight Wells Fargo detracted from relative returns. Both stocks rebounded from distressed valuations but the manager remained cautious given increased regulatory risk, negative loan growth prospects and higher capital requirements. Meanwhile, the underweight exposure to technology major Apple, where the manager had margin pressure concerns, hurt performance. Elsewhere, the overweight holding in nuclear power plant operator Exelon proved unrewarding given a weak pricing environment and a lack of progress on climate change legislation. Higher future utilisation and better power pricing, however, should drive this stock higher.

The fund is biased towards cyclical and has overweight positions in industrials, materials, technology and oil services companies. The initial overweight allocation to the US financial sector has been reduced following the sharp rally. Similarly, strong appreciation prompted the manager to reduce the overweight exposure to consumer discretionary stocks to almost a neutral position taking profits in holdings such as Gap and Urban Outfitters. Abercrombie & Fitch and Coach, which are benefiting from international expansion, were purchased. The fund has an underweight stance in defensives.

ASEAN Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 766 Million

Manager's Overview

Stock markets in the ASEAN region rose strongly over the period. A robust rebound was underpinned by a rise in exports and accommodative fiscal and monetary policies throughout the region. Increasing employment levels and improving economic prospects boosted consumer confidence which supported domestic demand. Among sectors, materials and consumer discretionary were the best performers. Demand for materials was boosted by increased Chinese government spending. Optimism that a swift global recovery was underway saw foreign investors returning to the region. Among countries, Indonesia performed well being a domestic demand oriented economy, while Thailand suffered amid political instability.

Over the period, the fund underperformed its benchmark due to adverse stock selection in the consumer discretionary sector. An underweight stance in Indonesian automotive distributor Astra International eroded returns. Shares in the company advanced owing to strong sales growth as consumer confidence picked up. Further, non-exposure to Indofood Sukses Makmur, the processed food company, hurt relative returns as the company doubled its profits on rising demand. Underweight positions in Malaysian banks Bank Central Asia and Malayan Banking held back performance. Conversely, an overweight position in commodities supplier Noble Group enhanced returns. The company's earnings, which were supported by a rise in global demand, boosted share prices. A non-benchmark position in industrial technology company CSE Global also proved rewarding.

The manager raised allocation to the financials, energy and consumer staples sectors in view of an increase in both domestic consumption and international demand for energy and resources. For instance, the manager bought Indonesia's coal mining company Tambang Batubara Bukit Asam as it would benefit from demand from China and India. Conversely, exposure to telecommunications and utilities companies was trimmed in favour of sectors that are more leveraged to the global recovery.

Asia Pacific Growth & Income Fund ⁵

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 370 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, equities in the Asia Pacific ex Japan region fell in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region. In subsequent months, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The consumer discretionary sector was in the vanguard driven by strong domestic consumption growth. Financials rose as loan growth remained strong and, compared to western banks, the level of defaults remained relatively low. Exporters, notably electronic equipment manufacturers, were buoyed by a recovery in overseas demand. Conversely, utilities and telecommunications shares lagged.

The fund generated gains over the period. Financials and consumer-related businesses contributed significantly to fund returns. In particular, owner of 7-Eleven in Thailand CP ALL benefited from buoyant sales and improved investor sentiment towards the Thai economy. The manager also took profits in a number of commercial banks after a strong run in their share prices including Hong Kong-based Wing Hang Bank and Public Bank in Malaysia. Cosmetics retailer Sa Sa International also proved rewarding due to its relatively defensive business. Conversely, materials and energy positions detracted from returns. A position in cigarette packaging firm AMVIG and a couple of cement manufacturers limited gains and were sold over the period.

Polly Kwan took over the management of the fund on 1 October 2009. Since then the portfolio has been repositioned based on a value-oriented approach with a strong focus on the long-term attractions of a stock. Cash was utilised to add significant exposure to financials, particularly in Australia. Stocks including Commonwealth Bank of Australia, National Bank of Australia and Westpac Banking were added as the manager believes that rising interest rates and strengthening economy should further support interest margins and healthy loan growth. The allocation to more defensive sectors including consumer staples, telecommunications and utilities was reduced.

Asia Pacific Property Fund ⁶

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 65 Million

Manager's Overview

Increasing confidence in the repair and rehabilitation of capital markets during the period led to a strong rebound in property shares. Investors refocused some of their attention on fundamentals, which had been largely ignored during the crisis. Occupancy and rentals seemed to be stabilising across the board, with Hong Kong office and Australian retail actually beginning to see some rental improvements. The residential-for-sale segment in China, Hong Kong and Singapore continued to perform well. Demand/supply dynamics remained favourable. Property stocks in Indonesia, Australia, Singapore and China advanced strongly over the review period.

The fund generated strong absolute returns but underperformed its benchmark. The positioning in developers and office space owners detracted from performance. Shares in Nomura Real Estate Office Fund hurt returns as rents failed to increase. The manager, however, expects office vacancy rates to peak out soon as the improvement in the office space lags the advance in employment rate. Shares in Mirvac Group also hampered performance despite better-than-expected profits. However, the stock is held due to its low geared balance sheet and possible acquisitions. On a positive note, the positioning in real estate operating companies proved rewarding. Of note, the fund's exposure to NTT Urban Development contributed to returns. However, this holding was later sold after its discount to NAV narrowed.

Initially, the manager had positioned the fund to benefit from the rebound in fundamentally sound but cheap stocks, which had been shunned during the crisis and are now placed to benefit from bid activity. In particular, exposure to Singapore and Philippines was increased, largely by purchasing shares in residential developer Wing Tai and mall operator SM Prime Holdings, respectively. The latter was favoured in view of increased earnings, higher rental incomes and the potential unlock of value through spin-off of REIT in near term. Meanwhile, exposure to the retail segment was trimmed. Notably, the holding in parking facility and retail space provider Link REIT was sold following a significant rise in its share price.

Asian Aggressive Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 17 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, equities in the Asia Pacific ex Japan region fell in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in the European Union and monetary tightening in the region. In subsequent months, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The consumer discretionary sector was in the vanguard driven by strong domestic consumption growth. Financial stocks rose as loan growth remained strong and, compared to western banks, the level of defaults remained relatively low. Exporters, notably electronic equipment manufacturers, were buoyed by a recovery in overseas demand. Materials producers gained because of strong demand in China and other emerging markets with expanding infrastructure spending.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, largely owing to solid security selection in consumer discretionary and information technology names. Indonesia-based automobile manufacturer Astra International benefited from brisk vehicle sales and Hyundai Motor contributed amid gains in market share. A position in Lenovo Group boosted performance as overseas shipments improved, while Chinese search engine Baidu benefited from Google's exit from China. Conversely, a lack of exposure to Commonwealth Bank of Australia and underweight positions in Westpac Banking and National Australia Bank detracted from returns as the sector was buoyed by strong growth and improving business confidence.

The manager enhanced the exposure to the information technology sector as Asian products continue to gain global market share. A position in Taiwan-based notebook producer Hon Hai Precision Industry was added due to attractive valuations. A stake in India's software and IT service provider Infosys Technologies is held in light of the firm's dominant position in the growing market for outsourcing. Allocation to the industrials sector was increased and the manager favoured container-related services companies due to expectations that the container shipping sector will bottom out. Meanwhile, the fund has moved to an underweight stance in defensive consumer staples, health care and telecommunications sectors.

Asian Special Situations Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 1,663 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, equities in the Asia Pacific ex Japan region fell in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region. In subsequent months, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The consumer discretionary sector was in the vanguard driven by robust domestic consumption growth. Financials rose as loan growth remained strong and, compared to western banks, the level of defaults remained relatively low. Exporters, notably electronic equipment manufacturers, were buoyed by a recovery in overseas demand.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. Selected positions in financials limited gains; the manager trimmed allocation to the sector as investor sentiment deteriorated in light of increasing possibility of a rise in interest rates and sovereign debt concerns in Europe. Despite an underweight stance towards industrials in aggregate terms, exposure to certain Korean construction companies such as Hyundai Development Company, detracted from performance. The manager continues to hold the position in view of its potential overseas orders. Conversely, solid security selection among consumer discretionary names and favourable positioning in the information technology sector supported gains. Stock specifically, strong earnings boosted a non-benchmark holding in men's fashion retailer Trinity, while GOME Electrical Appliances Holdings was helped by stimulus-led demand for consumer durables. Chinese internet messaging firm Tencent Holdings was the single largest contributor to returns.

Against the backdrop of receding unemployment and higher consumer confidence, the fund is positioned to take advantage of the healthy domestic demand in the region. Consequently, the manager enhanced exposure to the consumer discretionary space, partly by purchasing shares in automobile firms Kia Motors and Indonesia's Astra International. Global merchandise distributor Li & Fung and its subsidiary Trinity were also added.

Australia Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: AUD 986 Million

Manager's Overview

Australian equities performed strongly as the economy recovered aided by the accommodative fiscal and monetary policies, and by Asian demand for commodities. Industrial production, business and consumer confidence and employment rates improved considerably. Optimism about improving domestic and global economic environment, leading to upward revision in corporate earnings further buoyed stocks. Among sectors, financials were the best performers as fears about non-performing loans were unfounded. Lower impairment charges further supported robust revenue growth. A pick up in demand for commodities supported the resources sector. Conversely, regulatory concerns and the defensive nature of the telecommunications sector resulted in negative returns. The Reserve Bank of Australia started an interest rate tightening cycle in October 2009 and continued to raise rates from the historic low of 3% to 4.5% in May 2010, bringing the rates closer to the historical average.

Over the period the fund outperformed its benchmark largely due to high conviction positions in the industrial and financial sectors. An overweight stance in online employment advertising and vocational education provider Seek was the single largest contributor to overall returns. The firm, which dominates the Australia and New Zealand markets, posted strong earnings growth. It benefited from an improvement in employment outlook and rise in demand for vocational education. An overweight position in Commonwealth Bank of Australia added value on account of higher earnings. Conversely, an overweight exposure to Oil Search, the oil & gas field exploration and production firm, eroded value amid volatility due to fluctuating oil and gas prices.

The fund manager significantly increased the exposure to materials and industrial companies. Within materials, Aquarius Platinum, the mining company with operations in Africa, was bought for its low cost operations. Exposure to industrials was raised by buying a stake in global handling and storage logistics company Brambles, which would benefit from an increase in international trade. On the other hand, the manager sold Telstra for better opportunities elsewhere.

China Focus Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 4,816 Million

Manager's Overview

The stock markets in China advanced over the period led by gains in the consumer-related sectors that benefited from rising prices and renewed efforts by the government to boost consumption. The decision to extend subsidy programmes for automobiles and home appliance purchases in rural areas immensely supported sales of cars, electronics and technology products. In early 2010, however, shares suffered amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the country. Investor sentiment was dampened by expectations of additional curbs on lending after the economy continued to post a stronger-than-expected growth. Telecommunications and utilities names fell out of investor favour.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. The positioning in the energy sector proved unfavourable and was the largest detractor from returns. For instance, despite adding Yanzhou Coal Mining and China Coal Energy to the portfolio, the underweight stance in coal miners hampered performance. These stocks were added when valuations returned to attractive levels. The manager believes thermal coal and coke producers will benefit from higher prices in coal trading. On a positive note, solid security selection among consumer discretionary names and favourable positioning in financials added value. Strong earnings and better pricing power boosted the holdings in sport-related apparel and accessories manufacturer Li Ning, women footwear retailer Belle International Holdings and online travel services provider Ctrip.com International among others. Internet messaging firm Tencent Holdings was the single largest contributor owing to increased monetisation of its services and sticky user base.

Unlike the 2009 market rally, which was characterised by sector trends, firms with high quality balance sheets and strong fundamentals should perform better than average going forward. Consequently, the manager purchased shares in Hong Kong-based multiline retailer Lifestyle International in light of an uptick in retail spending in Hong Kong. A position in online media firm Sina was included as it stands to benefit from a rapidly expanding online advertising market. The allocation to industrials and telecommunications was trimmed.

China Opportunities Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 2 Million

Manager's Overview

Chinese stocks advanced led by gains in the consumer-related sectors that benefited from rising prices and renewed efforts by the government to boost consumption. The decision to extend subsidy programmes for automobiles and home appliance purchases in rural areas immensely supported sales of cars, electronics and technology products. In early 2010, however, shares suffered amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral European countries and monetary tightening in the country. Investor sentiment was dampened by expectations of additional curbs on lending after the economy continued to post a stronger-than-expected growth. Subsequently, sustained strength of domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher.

Since its inception in November 2009, the fund has outperformed its benchmark. The positive stance towards information technology and consumer discretionary stocks supported gains. Stock specific, holdings in Pacific Textile Holdings and cosmetic retailer Sa Sa International contributed to returns, buoyed by robust earnings. Positions in internet messaging firm Tencent Holdings and search engine Baidu proved beneficial. Investors valued increased monetisation of services at the former and the latter benefited from Google's exit from mainland China. Solid security selection in the health care sector added value, particularly drug producers China Shineway Pharmaceutical and Sinopharm.

The manager added exposure to firms that stand to benefit from strong consumer demand in China. Consequently, the fund has an overweight position in the consumer discretionary and staples sectors. Shares in retailer GOME Electrical Appliances Holdings were bought in view of incentive-led demand for consumer electronics. An online travel service provider Ctrip.com International was also added to the portfolio on account of its brisk earnings growth. A number of internet-related stocks such as Baidu, Tencent Holdings and online media firm Sina, which stand to benefit from the rapidly expanding online advertising market, were added. Meanwhile, exposure to financials was significantly reduced to an underweight position, largely by selling property names.

Emerging Asia Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 152 Million

Manager's Overview

After posting a sterling performance in 2009, emerging Asian stocks briefly succumbed to valuation concerns before rising on account of renewed confidence in the strength of global economic recovery and upbeat earnings. Worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region dampened sentiment but investors chose to focus on the sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades, which prompted foreign institutional investors to return to the region. The consumer discretionary sector was in the vanguard driven by strong domestic consumption growth. Exporters, notably electronic equipment manufacturers, were buoyed by a recovery in overseas demand. Materials producers gained because of strong demand in China and other emerging markets with expanding infrastructure spending. Conversely, utilities and telecommunications shares lagged.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, partly owing to a significant underweight position in telecommunications stocks. Limited exposure to China Mobile helped returns due to weak take off in the 3G segment, while not holding India's Reliance Communication added value after the sector fell out of favour amid strong competition and tariff wars. Solid security selection in financials, industrials, health care and materials contributed significantly to relative performance. For instance, seven non-benchmark holdings were among the top ten performers including India-based LIC Housing Finance, packaging material produce Lee & Man Paper Manufacturing and pharmaceuticals firm Lupin.

The fund is positioned to take advantage of the healthy consumption trends, commodity demand and infrastructure development in the region. The manager enhanced the exposure to information technology, consumer discretionary, materials and health care names over the period. Shares in automobile firms including commercial vehicle producer in India, Tata Motors, were also purchased. Meanwhile, the conservative stance towards telecommunications was enhanced and the exposure to financials was moved to an underweight position by selling property stocks such as China Overseas Land and Investment.

Emerging Europe, Middle East and Africa Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 1,115 Million

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities recorded strong gains, despite some intermittent phases of risk aversion, prompted first by postponement of debt repayment in Dubai and followed by fears of a sovereign debt default in Greece. Inflationary pressures also surfaced in leading emerging economies amid healthy levels of personal consumption, and strong investment and manufacturing activity. In January, Chinese policymakers took the first steps to slow the pace of domestic lending. In spite of this backdrop, shares in consumer-driven companies, in particular consumer discretionary firms, rallied remarkably. Across the region, Turkey outperformed its peers.

The fund outperformed the benchmark over the period. Stock selection in the telecommunications, banking and materials sectors drove returns. Holdings in low-cost Russian steel producers Mechel and Severstal benefited from robust metals prices, supported by resilient demand from China. An overweight position in Russian retail lender Sberbank of Russian Federation added value as high net interest income and market share gains fuelled earnings growth. Avoiding Polish, Moroccan and Turkish telecommunication companies in favour of non-benchmark Russian firms Vimpel-Communications, Sibirtelecom and conglomerate JSFC Sistema also proved rewarding. Conversely, exposure to South African provider MTN Group detracted from returns following regulatory changes, increased competition in key markets and the departure of its CEO. The overweight positions in gold miners Harmony Gold Mining and AngloGold Ashanti hampered performance as the stocks failed to track gold prices higher given currency headwinds.

The energy sector underweight has been raised over the period as the manager took profits in Russian majors Rosneft and Gazprom, which looked fairly valued compared to regional peers. The materials sector, while being still underweight is more in-line with the benchmark after the manager added to the existing holdings in Eurasian Natural Resources and MMC Norilsk Nickel given positive fundamentals for steel. The manager has increased the overweight exposure to South African consumer names.

Emerging Markets Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 3,361 Million

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities recorded strong gains, despite some intermittent phases of risk aversion prompted first by postponement of debt repayment in Dubai and followed by fears of a sovereign debt default in Greece. Inflationary pressures also surfaced in leading emerging economies amid healthy levels of personal consumption, and strong investment and manufacturing activity. In January, Chinese policymakers took the first step to slow the pace of domestic lending. In spite of this backdrop, shares in consumer-driven companies, in particular consumer discretionary firms, rallied remarkably. Financials also registered noteworthy gains.

The fund outperformed the benchmark over the period. Stock selection in materials proved rewarding with overweight positions in low-cost Russian steel producers Mechel and Severstal and non-benchmark holding in Latin American steel producer Ternium benefiting from robust metals prices. Holdings in Asian automobile manufacturers Great Wall Motor and Hyundai Mobis jumped in tandem with automobile sales, boosted by the government scrappage schemes. Underexposure to the telecommunications sector added value as defensive sectors lagged the overall market during the recovery. Nevertheless, an overweight stance in China Unicom detracted from returns amid declining mobile revenues. Exposure to South African telecommunications provider MTN Group hampered performance following regulatory changes, increased competition in key markets and the departure of its CEO.

The manager initiated a position in Baidu.com, China's number one search engine which gained market share from Google's exit, and sold the shares, taking profits at the end of the period. The fund continues to be positioned to benefit from consumption trends. The manager bought China's second largest carrier Air China and increased exposure to fashion retailer Ports Design. The fund has an underweight stance in consumer staples following a reduction in Mexican brewer FEMSA and food producer Gruma. The manager sold Russia's Rosneft and Gazprom, which looked fairly valued in comparison to regional peers, and increased the underweight stance in the energy sector.

Euro Blue Chip Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 480 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Towards the end of the period, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period as the stock selection was rewarded. With investors starting to focus on earnings delivery, major industrials and consumer discretionary holdings contributed. A new position in aerospace and defence group Safran gained due to forecast of further cost improvements. The manager sold Randstad after the stock advanced amid expectations of a pick up in temporary staff hiring, which is its key business. Additionally, a cautious stance in Volkswagen supported relative returns as the stock suffered due to news related to Porsche. Some insurers and banks with exposure to peripheral eurozone economies facing sovereign debt concerns were among key detractors. An underweight position in Daimler undermined relative performance due to its improving business mix and cost reduction. However, the manager prefers other names in the sector.

Although health care exposure was reduced over the period as the manager found better investments in other sectors, it remains a key overweight area. The manager found more opportunities in consumer discretionary and industrials firms. Within the former, luxury goods firm LVMH, the owner of leading brands that are expected to gain market share faster in emerging economies, was added. The manager continues to find fewer ideas among telecommunications firms, where the underweight stance was increased by moving out of France Telecom which faces competitive pressures.

EURO STOXX 50™ Fund 2,3

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 232 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Financials advanced as monetary and fiscal stimulus started to take effect and investors' risk appetite increased in favour of cyclical areas including industrials and materials firms. Towards the end of the period, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund marginally underperformed its benchmark over the review period. The fund belongs to the class of investment funds known as tracker funds. These funds are invested in such a way that they provide returns as close as possible to those of the index. They use a full index replication approach, with each stock in the portfolio being held in the same proportion as it is in the index. Hence, there is no attempt to add value through stock, sector or country selection.

The manager seeks to ensure capital growth in line with the fund's benchmark by closely matching the construction of the EURO STOXX 50 SM Index while minimising tracking error. The EURO STOXX 50 SM Index is a concentrated index of the 50 largest companies in the eurozone. Often equity index futures contracts are used to efficiently manage the fund. Because futures contracts are employed, the cash position should not be used to assess the fund's exposure to the securities market.

European Aggressive Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 949 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Financials advanced as monetary and fiscal stimulus started to take effect and investors' risk appetite increased in favour of cyclical areas including industrials and materials firms. Towards the end of the period, concerns over the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. In response to this European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Holdings in the consumer discretionary, energy and materials sectors contributed strongly to relative performance. A position in commercial television company ProSiebenSat.1 Media was the largest contributor to returns as it reported higher than expected earnings. Materials holdings, namely Umicore, Anglo American and Xstrata, also proved favourable as they tracked metals prices higher due to expectations of an increase in demand from emerging markets. Conversely, an underweight stance in consumer staples firms detracted from relative returns as shares in the sector rose amid periods of intermittent volatility.

Over the last 12 months the fund has been increasingly positioned for a cyclical recovery. The manager has continually added exposure to consumer discretionary and financials firms, and they are now the largest overweight sectors in the fund. The fund has held an overweight position in the materials sector, but this was reduced towards the end of the period as the manager's conviction in the metals & mining sector has diminished. The fund has an underweight stance in the defensive telecommunications, consumer staples and utilities sectors.

European Dynamic Growth Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 320 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Financials advanced as monetary and fiscal stimulus started to take effect and investors' risk appetite increased in favour of cyclical areas including industrials and materials firms. Towards the end of the period, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

Over the period, the fund outperformed its benchmark. Holdings in the consumer discretionary and health care sectors contributed strongly to performance. In particular, shares in broadcasting firm Modern Times Group and news and entertainment services company Schibsted were buoyed by better-than-expected results. Additionally, a position in radiation therapy equipment manufacturer Elekta advanced on higher order growth especially in the firm's key emerging markets and the US. Conversely, an underweight stance in materials hurt relative returns as these stocks were boosted due to a rise in metal prices.

The fund remains overweight in companies that have structural growth drivers. Over the year, the manager increased holdings in media companies which are expected to benefit from economic recovery and a move to online media. The overweight exposure to technology companies was also raised. A position in SAP was added as the firm is likely to deliver strong revenues growth over the long run. At the same time, exposure to the health care sector was reduced to fund new positions. For instance, the holding in pharmaceutical firm Gerresheimer was sold.

European Fund ¹

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 173 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities rose strongly during the period under review. Economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Financials advanced as monetary and fiscal stimulus started to take effect and risk appetite increased favouring cyclical areas including industrials and materials firms. Towards the end of the period, worries about the fiscal position of peripheral eurozone countries, most notably Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund underperformed its benchmark. Financials were hit by fears over the debt crisis in peripheral economies and removal of some government stimulus. Holdings in Intesa Sanpaolo Bank and integrated stock exchange Deutsche Boerse declined. The latter, however, is a high quality franchise and is likely to be re-rated. Intesa Sanpaolo has strong financing with a positive interbank position and a conservative loan to deposit ratio. Conversely, not holding car manufacturer Volkswagen was beneficial to relative returns as its shares fell after the firm agreed to acquire a stake in Porsche's automotive unit. Commercial and professional services firm Randstad rose on expectations of an increase in company staffing.

The manager continues to seek the best combination of Fidelity's European equity fund managers to maximise diversification benefits whilst keeping to 2% – 5% tracking error. During the period, the exposure to funds focused on growth and small cap was increased. The underlying managers raised holdings in companies which are set to benefit from a recovery in corporate spending. They found the best ideas in the media sector, where they purchased shares in Schibsted and Virgin Media. Key overweight positions included consumer discretionary and industrials stocks, while the biggest underweight stance was in utilities and financials firms.

European Growth Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 8,516 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Towards the end of the period, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund marginally underperformed its benchmark over the period. Stock selection, especially in the health care and consumer discretionary sectors proved beneficial; cost savings and strong sales from new products supported profits at Sonova Holding. Biopharmaceutical group Shire also continued to post solid results and Novo Nordisk's key drug Victoza got approved by the US authorities. Elsewhere, the manager bought shares in HSBC after its encouraging results added to the confidence in the stock, although an initial underweight stance detracted from relative returns. The position in the hedge fund manager Man Group, which has recently received new mandates, was hit by a decline in its assets under management.

The manager prefers companies that will gain from emerging market growth. For instance, rising disposable incomes are enabling emerging market consumers to buy more branded products, which should help the new position in luxury goods firm Richemont. Companies that will benefit from stimulus packages, such as miners Xstrata and Impala Platinum Holdings, were also added to the portfolio. Under the technology and innovation theme, the manager bought ASML Holding, the leader in manufacturing semiconductor equipment to produce extra memory for smartphones. Relatively expensive utilities and consumer staples firms, which are still not finding end demand, are among key underweight areas.

European Larger Companies Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 160 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Towards the end, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. The market environment remained focused on the cyclical areas that have performed well in the recovery, such as mining, where an underweight position detracted from returns. Key holdings in consumer discretionary, financials and technology firms declined as their solid fundamentals were not rewarded. Franking machine firm Neopost posted reasonable results, but suffered from its defensive profile, which gave the manager the opportunity to buy more shares. Elsewhere, increasing infrastructure spending augurs well for CRH, which underperformed due to tough construction environment. However, selected industrials benefited from their improving outlooks; cost cutting helped Philips Electronics and aerospace and defence group Meggitt.

The fund has a diversified sector approach and not many changes were made at a sector level. The fund retains an underweight exposure to financials, where DnB NOR was sold in favour of better ideas such as Intesa Sanpaolo. The manager also bought attractively valued Munich Re, which will benefit from consolidation in the re-insurance industry. Among consumer discretionary firms, exposure to Reed Elsevier was reduced and the manager bought Pearson, an educational publisher with a growing market share in North America, where stimulus measures have not yet fed through to schools.

European Smaller Companies Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 901 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. However, towards the end, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis. Overall, smaller companies outperformed their larger counterparts.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period as key positions posted upbeat results and were rewarded by the market. Stock selection in the financials and consumer discretionary sectors worked well. GlobeOp Financial Services revealed strong business performance and Swiss financial adviser VZ Holding continues to see good net new money flows. Encouraging results helped shares in Russia's leading technology systems integration business IBS Group and Nordic online classifieds and newspaper firm Schibsted. However, selected industrials positions retreated; weak results and concerns about German tariff reductions weighed upon shares in Renewable Energy Corporation. Moreover, lack of orders led to weakness in shares in wind turbine manufacturer Vestas Wind Systems. However, the wind market is slowly recovering and the group's order intakes are picking up.

The manager believes that we are now going through a strong V-shaped recovery, the strength of which is likely to surprise most investors and businesses. Accordingly the manager reduced the defensiveness of the portfolio and decreased exposure to the health care sector by selling Gerresheimer and Biotest. The exposure to cyclical holdings was raised by buying shares in building materials groups HeidelbergCement, Travis Perkins and Wavin.

European Special Situations Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 90 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Financials advanced as monetary and fiscal stimulus started to take effect and investors' risk appetite increased in favour of cyclical areas including industrials and materials firms. Towards the end of the period, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund performed in line with its benchmark over the period. Security selection in the consumer discretionary and industrials sectors contributed strongly to performance. In particular, a position in car distributor Inchcape rose amid improving fundamentals and rapidly declining debt. Automotive safety systems supplier Autoliv advanced on a higher sales outlook, primarily in North America and Asia. Shares in commercials and professional services firm Randstad rose on expectations that companies will increase hiring. Conversely, financials holdings detracted from relative performance, as Allied Irish Banks and Credit Agricole fell. The manager has since sold these holdings.

Over the period the manager added positions in companies which are set to benefit from a recovery in corporate spending. The manager found the best ideas in the media sector, where companies benefiting from an upturn in advertising spend were favoured. Purchases included Modern Times Group and Virgin Media. Conversely, exposure to large integrated oil companies was reduced. A position in Royal Dutch Shell was sold as the long-term outlook for the oil major became less favourable. At the end of April, the key overweight sector was consumer discretionary and the fund was underweight in utilities.

France Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 277 Million

Manager's Overview

French equities, along with broader European stocks, recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Financials advanced as monetary and fiscal stimulus started to take effect and investors' risk appetite increased in favour of cyclical areas including industrials and materials firms. Towards the end of the period, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Security selection in the consumer discretionary sector contributed strongly. A holding in apparel firm SEB proved rewarding following a strong sales recovery. Leisure vehicles manufacturer Trigano rose due to a brighter outlook. Holdings in the industrials and materials sectors also added value. Conversely, an underweight stance in some consumer staples firms hurt relative performance as their stock prices advanced amid periods of intermittent volatility. For instance, below-benchmark positions in large beverage firm Pernod-Ricard and cosmetic company L'Oreal were unfavourable. However, the manager favours Remy Cointreau and Danone due to growth potential.

The manager prefers cyclical companies exposed to recovery. Information technology is the largest overweight sector. Here, Capgemini, which is expected to benefit from capital expenditure recovery cycle, was purchased. The manager also has a bias towards companies offering supportive dividend yield. The allocation to Metropole Television and waste and water management company Veolia Environnement was increased. Conversely, financial holdings were reduced. For instance, positions in Credit Agricole and insurer SCOR were sold.

Germany Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 420 Million

Manager's Overview

German equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although the European Central Bank started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Towards the end, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. With investors starting to focus on earnings delivery, major industrials holdings contributed to returns. The manager sold Randstad after they advanced amid expectations of a pick up in temporary staff hiring, its key business. Elsewhere, a cautious stance in Volkswagen helped relative returns as the stock suffered due to news related to Porsche. Increasing earnings expectation also boosted the holding in automobile parts firm ElringKlinger. Although an underweight position in Daimler undermined relative performance due to its improving business mix and cost reduction, the manager prefers other names in the sector. Stock selection in transportation & logistics companies also detracted from relative returns.

The manager found more opportunities in consumer staples and industrials firms. Within the former, Henkel, which is cutting costs and focussing on product development, was added. Other major purchases include Rheinmetall, whose defence business has good visibility and the restructuring of its automotive division should help drive profit margins from within. The underweight stance in telecommunications and utilities companies was further increased. The manager trimmed shares in utility group E.ON following a surge in its share price and sold Deutsche Telekom which faces competitive pressures.

Global Consumer Industries Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 122 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rebounded over the review period as encouraging data releases confirmed that an economic recovery was underway. Reports underscoring an improvement in the US job and housing markets had positive implications for consumer sentiment and demand, while a revival in takeover activity in consumer-driven businesses also underpinned investor confidence. Consumer discretionary stocks outperformed staples in overall returns.

The fund delivered healthy returns, but underperformed its benchmark over the period. Stock selection among automobile manufacturers held back returns. Leading Japanese car maker Toyota Motor came under pressure following a large-scale recall of its vehicles. The manager reduced this position, but still expects Toyota Motor to be a long-term winner. Conversely, the fund did not hold Ford Motor, which was a beneficiary of Toyota's woes and delivered a net profit in the first quarter of 2010. Elsewhere, a profit warning hurt Eniro, the Nordic yellow pages publisher. This position was sold in view of weak end-demand coupled with significant execution risk associated with its restructuring plan. On a positive note, overweight exposure to hospitality & restaurant operators made a meaningful contribution. These included Wyndham Worldwide, where earnings surpassed estimates aided by cost controls, and improvements were seen in business travel and occupancy rates for hotel operators. Better than expected quarterly results lifted shares in restaurant operator Brinker International.

The fund has slightly overweight exposure to staples over discretionary businesses. Within the former, the manager prefers food retailers amid expectations of a rebound in food inflation and purchased Safeway and FamilyMart. Among consumer discretionary, preference is given to firms that stand to benefit from increased corporate spending. These include media companies, office supplies retailers. The manager also favours home-related names such as home retailers and power tool manufacturers.

Global Financial Services Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 311 Million

Manager's Overview

Global financial stocks rebounded from depressed valuation levels, as credit markets thawed after a prolonged period of turmoil that had rendered the system illiquid. Encouraging corporate earnings, signs of a global economic recovery and expectations that leading central banks would not raise interest rates proved supportive. The sector also braced for regulatory reforms, as both the Basel Committee and the US authorities proposed tougher banking regulations. In the latter half of the period, fears of sovereign debt defaults emerged in Greece, Spain and Portugal.

The fund delivered robust positive returns, but underperformed its benchmark. The fund's defensive positioning, which had bolstered performance in the previous period, proved detrimental to returns. Investors became more risk tolerant and overlooked these firms' recurring revenues and strong balance sheets. Consequently, overweight holdings in leasing firms and reinsurers, such as Berkshire Hathaway and PartnerRe, fell out of favour. Meanwhile, exposure to Deutsche Boerse hurt returns following President Obama's proposal to curb proprietary trading, which accounts for a sizeable portion of trading volumes of such financial exchange operators. The fund retained a smaller exposure to benefit from its long-term potential. Conversely, new holding in PNC Financial Services, increasing conviction in Wells Fargo and exposure to Franklin Resources added value in view of substantial improvement in these firms' earnings.

Sotiris Boutsis took over as the fund manager in January 2010. The manager has steered the portfolio towards an overweight stance in commercial banks, adding positions where valuations did not fully reflect falling credit costs and declining provisions. Emerging markets banks were selectively added in order to take advantage of low penetration rates and rising disposable incomes in their geographies. The manager added holdings in life insurers in the US, where the employment situation is gradually improving, and in Europe, where restructuring stories exist. The exposure to non-life insurers, which are facing a tougher pricing environment, was trimmed.

Global Focus Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 111 Million

Manager's Overview

A progressive improvement in investor sentiment propelled global equities higher. There was evidence of stabilisation in US labour and housing markets and GDP acceleration in the US and Asia. Investors began to take on risk, as they were heartened by thawing credit markets, signs of economic recovery and solid corporate results. The prevailing low interest rates and fiscal stimulus disbursements created a surge of liquidity, which also supported stocks. Businesses initially banked on significant cost cuts to support margins. Subsequent inventory restocking activity and an improving demand environment enabled them to continue beating earnings forecasts.

Over the period the fund outperformed its benchmark. Robust returns from individual holdings and appropriate sector positioning ensured strong absolute returns. Within the energy sector, not owning ExxonMobil lent relative support as it underperformed growth oriented names such as portfolio key holding Pacific Rubiales Energy. The latter benefited from encouraging exploration announcements, and another energy position Niko Resources witnessed operational momentum. Elsewhere, evidence of inventory restocking activity and encouraging earnings results buoyed technology holdings including SanDisk. Meanwhile, health care positions added value. Novo Nordisk received approval for a key product in the US, while Aspen Pharmacare Holdings benefited from rising drug demand on the African continent.

In keeping with the manager's cautious optimism about the global economic and earnings recovery, the fund retains a pro-cyclical bias, with overweights in technology, materials and industrials. However, there were changes at stock level in view of the strength of the rally. Holdings that reached the price targets, such as Rockwell Automation, were sold in favour of more attractively valued quality franchises such as Hewlett-Packard and Ingersoll-Rand. Overall, the manager prefers businesses that will achieve revenue growth, have done a great job cutting costs, and hence have the greatest opportunity to surprise on earnings.

Global Health Care Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 463 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply amid mounting evidence of a global economic recovery and a thaw in credit markets. As investors voluntarily began taking on risk, defensive health care stocks witnessed solid gains but underperformed global equities. Uncertainty related to the US health care reform process continued to generate volatility until the passage of legislation in March. However, the final outcome was less burdensome than previously anticipated and did not present major surprises in terms of areas affected. The new law involves insuring the uninsured, which will result in additional revenues for the industry. Generic manufacturers, pharmacy benefit managers, hospitals and laboratory chains are seen as key beneficiaries.

Effective security selection and sub-sector allocation ensured that the fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. An overweight stance in emerging market holdings, such as Aspen Pharmacare and Diagnosticos da America, added value. Growing populations, higher disposable incomes and increased infrastructure spending are buoying health care demand in these countries. Within the pharmaceuticals space, the manager's decision to limit exposure to businesses facing patent expiries and weak product pipelines, and instead focus on those with more robust business models, paid off. Avoiding stent manufacturer Boston Scientific supported relative returns after it suspended sales of a key product.

Initially the manager avoided stocks expected to be adversely impacted by the US reform process. Later, indications that reforms would be more benign led to the purchase of select managed care firms, such as Aetna, which would be negatively affected but whose share price excessively discounted the impact. The manager also took advantage of the volatility to buy interesting names, such as Agilent Technologies, which are expected to benefit from increased life sciences spending. Stocks like Biota Holdings that had met the price target were sold. The fund is positioned to gain from opportunities related to ageing populations, rising emerging market health care demand, growing focus on affordable drugs and unmet medical needs.

Global Industrials Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 247 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the review period, as data releases indicated leading economies were emerging from recession. The aggressive fiscal and monetary actions taken by governments and central banks to avoid a global depression laid the grounds for a recovery in industrial output and economic growth. Corporate earnings showed marked improvement due to stringent cost cutting and an increase in demand. Commodity prices rose substantially amid expectations of higher demand, while the artificially low interest rates maintained by governments around the world prompted investors to prefer equities and real estate over cash and bonds.

The fund outperformed its benchmark driven by successful stock selection among oil & gas producers, metal and mining firms and industrial conglomerates. The overweight positions in Canadian-listed Pacific Rubiales Energy and Niko Resources were key contributors. The former's ongoing oil and gas exploration programme in Colombia led to several discoveries, prompting the firm to double its production guidance for 2010. Niko Resources saw both its earnings and production levels improve. It also increased acreage through the acquisition of its Indonesian partner. An underweight exposure to ExxonMobil also proved beneficial, as investors preferred firms with superior growth prospects. Meanwhile, above-benchmark positions in precious metal miner Anglo American and in gold producers Red Back Mining and Lihir Gold were supported by strong gold prices. Elsewhere, the off-benchmark exposure to Inchcape added value. The UK car retailer gained market share and reduced debt significantly through a rights issue and cash flow improvements. Holdings in Red Back Mining, Lihir Gold and Inchcape were sold after target prices were reached.

The manager believes that opportunities are now much more stock specific, as his levels of conviction about the macroeconomic environment are lower than a year ago. The portfolio has a moderate overweight stance in energy companies, in particular energy equipment & services providers. While the overall exposure to industrials remains underweight, holdings in airlines are preferred.

Global Property Fund ⁶

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 211 Million

Manager's Overview

The capital intensive nature of the property sector had previously meant that the disruption in credit markets during the financial crisis had hurt related stocks. However, increasing confidence in the repair and rehabilitation of capital markets during the review period led to a strong rebound in property shares. Investors could refocus some of their attention on fundamentals, which had been largely ignored during the crisis. Occupancy and rentals showed signs of stabilising, with some regions even witnessing improvements towards the end. Demand/supply dynamics also remained favourable. Valuations and net asset values (NAVs) rose and property stocks were trading at a slight premium to estimated current NAVs in April 2010.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. US overweight holdings, such as New York office owner and operator SL Green Realty, mall REIT The Macerich Company, and shopping centre REIT Developers Diversified Realty, supported gains. These businesses carried out asset and equity sales or entered into joint ventures to strengthen their capital base, which was well received by investors. Meanwhile, exposure to global industrial and warehouse REIT ProLogis also added value after it took steps to reduce debt and monetise its land bank. The portfolio also owned more defensive names, including suburban office REIT Highwoods Properties and outlet centre proprietor Tanger Factory Outlet, which detracted from returns in a less uncertain environment. Exposure to both stocks was trimmed. Once the valuation disparity had closed, the manager also reduced allocation to SL Green Realty.

Initially, the manager had positioned the fund to benefit from the rebound in fundamentally sound but cheap leveraged stocks, which had been shunned during the crisis. More defensive holdings were also held to keep the portfolio diversified. Subsequently, after taking profits in the former, the fund was rebalanced, paying particular attention to businesses operating in markets where fundamentals had bottomed, where NAVs were expected to pick up and those well placed to exploit acquisition opportunities.

Global Real Asset Securities Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 51 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply, as data releases suggested leading economies were recovering from a recession. The aggressive fiscal and monetary actions taken by governments and central banks to avoid a global depression laid the grounds for a recovery in industrial output and economic growth. Corporate earnings showed marked improvement due to cost cutting and increase in demand. Commodity prices rose substantially amid expectations of higher demand, while the artificially low interest rates maintained by governments worldwide prompted investors to prefer equities and real estate over cash and bonds.

The fund outperformed its benchmark since launch in September 2009. Stock selection in oil and gas producers proved successful. Overweight positions in Pacific Rubiales Energy and Niko Resources were key contributors. The former's ongoing oil exploration programme in Colombia led to several discoveries, prompting the firm to double its production guidance for 2010. Niko Resources' earnings and production levels improved; it increased acreage through the acquisition of its Indonesian partner. An underweight holding in ExxonMobil proved beneficial, as investors preferred firms with superior growth prospects. The overweight stance in gold producer Lihir Gold added value given strong prices, while Newcrest Mining was also expected to raise its bid price offer for the firm. Above-benchmark positions in real estate firms SL Green Realty and St Joe Company underpinned returns. The former owns and operates office space in New York and sold its assets to reduce debt and strengthen its balance sheet. St Joe Company, a position added during the period, contributed after plans were confirmed to develop the Northwest Florida airport. St Joe Company owns commercial land around this airport, which is suitable for developing hotels, offices etc.

The manager believes that opportunities are now more stock specific, as the levels of conviction about the macroeconomic environment are lower than a year ago. The fund has an overweight stance in the energy sector. Airlines are also preferred, where holdings in Singapore Airlines and Deutsche Lufthansa were added, while British Airways was sold.

Global Sector Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 308 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rebounded from depressed valuations and surged over the review period. Investors sentiment improved amid data releases suggesting a broad-based economic recovery. Signs that unemployment could be peaking, US house prices seemed to be stabilising and manufacturing activity was improving globally supported confidence. Meanwhile, aggressive cost cutting activity and other self-help initiatives allowed firms to exceed earnings expectations. Shares in metal producers and miners were noteworthy gainers, while perceived defensive sectors, such as utilities and telecommunication services providers, were the laggards.

The fund outperformed its benchmark due to successful stock selection. Overweight positions in oil and gas producers Pacific Rubiales Energy and Niko Resources were key contributors. The former's ongoing exploration programme in Colombia led to several discoveries, prompting the firm to double its production guidance for 2010. Niko Resources saw both its earnings and production levels improved. It also increased acreage through the acquisition of its Indonesian partner. Exposure to Chroma ATE, a Taiwanese test and measurement equipment firm, proved beneficial. This quality franchise reported healthy sales despite challenging market conditions and investors were attracted to its interesting growth prospects. An above-benchmark holding in Aspen Pharmacare added value. The South African generic drugs firm entered into distribution agreements with GlaxoSmithKline that will expand its reach. It also benefited from government spending on anti-retroviral drugs.

The fund has overweight exposure to information technology firms, where the manager sees more opportunities as companies focus on cost management and productivity enhancement. Positions in Nuance Communications, Dell and Applied Materials were added in this sector. The manager also bought industrial conglomerate Ingersoll-Rand, where the recession has been the catalyst for significant improvements in cost management and utilisation of existing assets.

Global Technology Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 349 Million

Manager's Overview

Global technology stocks witnessed strong returns and outperformed equities as a whole. Investors were initially attracted to the sector's experienced and adaptable managements, robust balance sheets, attractive valuations and free cash flow yields. Subsequently, as the global economic recovery gathered pace, businesses began to rebuild their inventories which had been cut to unsustainably low levels during the crisis. This was particularly beneficial for the semiconductor sub-sector. Some technology shares also provided access to interesting product cycles, such as those related to smart phones and server products, which were seen as productivity drivers by businesses. The prevalence of ageing office PCs, restricted numbers of software licenses and capacity shortages in the semiconductor equipment arena also raised expectations of increased future spending.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period as both stock selection and sub-sector allocation proved rewarding. Restocking activity ensured that the fund's initial significant bias towards semiconductor firms supported returns. In particular, CSR and Fairchild Semiconductor International bounced back from depressed price levels, while Micron Technology benefited from improving demand/supply dynamics in the memory segment. The manager took profits in CSR and Micron Technology. Elsewhere, test and measurement equipment firm Chroma ATE, which had been bought at depressed valuations, also contributed strongly. In contrast, a below-benchmark stance in Apple detracted from relative returns. However, the manager remains concerned about the stock's valuation.

The manager took profits in cyclical stocks that initially rallied and used the proceeds to buy higher quality businesses. The fund now holds attractively valued software and hardware shares that should gain from a pick up in enterprise IT spend; equipment firms set to benefit from capacity shortages in the semiconductor industry; companies expected to profit from mobile/internet data growth and rising solar technology demand.

Global Telecommunications Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 225 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply amid mounting evidence of a global economic recovery and a thaw in credit markets. Against this backdrop, defensive telecommunications stocks known for their earnings resiliency, high dividend yields, low gearing, and healthy cash flows underperformed more cyclical sectors despite generating solid returns. From a regional perspective, US operators witnessed increased competitive pressures and signs of regulatory scrutiny. Many European service providers focused on shareholder friendly policies that were relatively attractive in a low interest rate environment. Meanwhile, emerging market demand remained buoyant, which pushed valuations higher but did not reflect increasing competition.

The fund generated robust absolute returns and outperformed its benchmark. Security selection in the US contributed. In particular, UK-facing Virgin Media was buoyed after reporting strong quarterly results, which underscored improving fundamentals in the broadband and TV market. Similarly, NII Holdings, which services Latin America, reported solid earnings amid robust subscriber growth. Meanwhile, above-benchmark exposure to Israeli holdings Bezeq and Partner Communications added value. Both companies reported healthy results and announced plans for special dividends. The resolution of shareholder issues prompted a re-rating of Norwegian operator Telenor because its emerging market assets were considered to be undervalued.

Valuations continue to be the manager's prime consideration. The size of an investment is determined by the manager's level of conviction as well as the stock's downside potential. Core holdings have limited downside potential. During the period, exposure was reduced to emerging market firms such as Brazil's Vivo Participacoes and Russia's Vimpel-Communications that had performed well. The manager used the proceeds to add positions in opportunities such as US wireless operator Sprint Nextel, which is showing some improvements in its ability to retain customers and attract new ones.

Greater China Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 405 Million

Manager's Overview

The stock markets in the Greater China region advanced over the period led by gains in the consumer-related sectors that benefited from rising prices and renewed efforts by the government to boost consumption. China's decision to extend subsidy programmes for automobiles and home appliance purchases immensely supported sales of cars, electronics and technology products, benefiting mainland as well as Taiwanese manufacturers. In early 2010, shares retreated amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral European countries and monetary tightening in China. Health care names were favoured by investors in this environment. Meanwhile, the economy continued to strengthen with strong retail sales witnessed in Hong Kong and China. Falling unemployment rate and improvement in industrial production in Hong Kong and Taiwan further boosted consumer confidence.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period, largely due to solid security selection among consumer discretionary and health care names. Stock specific, Geely Automobile and Dongfeng Motor Group contributed to returns owing to stimulus-led vehicle sales. Within health care, a position in China Shineway Pharmaceutical had a positive influence on fund performance, while acquisitions helped Sinopharm to enhance its competitiveness. Internet messaging firm Tencent Holdings was the single largest contributor given increased monetisation of its services and sticky user base. Conversely, the underweight stance in Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing held back gains but the manager maintains the cautious stance due to high stock valuation. The holding in Yuanta Financial succumbed to regulatory concerns. The position was trimmed but retained due to a solid cash position.

The fund is positioned to take advantage of positive consumption trends, and increasing demand for infrastructure and commodities. Consequently, positions were added in Zhejiang Expressway and BlueScope Steel. Online travel services provider Ctrip.com International and television component producer Coretronic were also bought. Exposure to financials was reduced significantly although the sector overweight position was maintained.

Iberia Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 166 Million

Manager's Overview

Equities in the Iberian region rose over the last 12 months. Initially, improving economic data strengthened confidence about a recovery and corporate earnings reports were generally encouraging. Towards the end of the period, Iberian stocks struggled due to concerns about high budget deficits in Spain and Portugal and contagion effect of economic and financial uncertainties in other peripheral economies, including Greece. The austerity measures introduced by governments and support from European nations quelled some fears over the spread of the debt crisis. Spain emerged from recession in the first quarter of 2010 and GDP figures implied its recovery. Despite structural economic issues, a large number of Iberian companies have a strong international status and there are plenty of interesting opportunities for stock pickers.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Stock selection in the capital goods and media sectors significantly contributed to returns. In particular, exposure to advertising-driven media firms including Gestevisión Telecinco and Antena 3 de Televisión proved favourable as investors expected revenues to increase following the ban of advertising on public channels in 2010 and hopes of a recovery in the advertising market. Conversely, an underweight position in the telecommunications sector hurt relative returns.

The manager positioned the portfolio for a global cyclical recovery. In general, exposure to cyclical areas of the market was increased and this was funded by reducing holdings in the defensive telecommunications and utilities sectors. Over the period, the fund has moved from an overweight position to an underweight stance in utilities, where a holding in Redes Energeticas Nacionais was sold and exposure to Iberdrola was trimmed. At the same time, the manager moved to an overweight stance in materials, where a number of positions in pulp and paper companies including Miquel y Costas & Miquel were added.

India Focus Fund ⁷

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 3,016 Million

Manager's Overview

Firming growth and optimism about the global economic environment supported the surge in Indian equities. The country's GDP expanded at a better than expected rate, supported by an accommodative monetary policy regime and aided by fiscal measures. Consumer confidence picked up and was reflected in higher sales of discretionary purchases such as automobiles. The Reserve Bank of India raised its policy rates in 2010 to combat the growing threat of inflation. Among sectors, materials rose strongly on account of a rise in international commodity prices, which boosted earnings growth. Within the information technology sector, outsourcing firms won new contracts and managed the slowdown better than expected.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period as stock selection in the consumer discretionary and information technology sectors buoyed returns. An overweight stance in two-wheeler manufacturer Bajaj Auto contributed to returns due to strong sales growth and rise in export earnings. High conviction positions in speciality financials LIC Housing Finance and Rural Electrification Corporation buoyed overall performance. Growing focus on infrastructure and expectations of further delisting by the government boosted shares in Rural Electrification Corporation. Not holding Reliance Communications in the telecommunications sector and consumer staples firm Hindustan Unilever added value as their share prices declined. Conversely, not holding aluminium producer Hindalco and an underweight exposure to iron ore producer Sesa Goa eroded returns as their shares tracked higher commodity prices. A non-benchmark stance in Multi-Commodity Exchange held back performance.

The manager significantly increased the exposure to materials companies. Zinc and copper mining group Sterlite Industries, which is expected to grow in view of higher infrastructure spending in the country and elsewhere in the developing world, was acquired. Holdings in information technology companies were raised by adding to Infosys Technologies and Tata Consultancy Services.

Indonesia Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 769 Million

Manager's Overview

Indonesia proved to be one of the best performing economies in Asia and its success in avoiding a recession was reflected in the surging equity markets. The re-election of the incumbent president boosted confidence that liberal policies would continue to support the economy. Much like the rest of Asia, Indonesian banks were relatively immune to the global financial crisis and were supported by an accommodative monetary policy. The consumer discretionary sector surged over the year as rising rural income and confident urban consumers boosted growing sales of durables. Further, the government spending programme on fixed assets and public infrastructure, along with overseas demand, was positive for industrials.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Stock selection within consumer staples companies and financials enhanced returns. Of note, an overweight stance in Indofood Sukses Makmur, a packaged food company, proved beneficial as it recorded robust profit growth. The overweight positions in Bank Danamon and Bank Mandiri also added value. Bank Mandiri registered healthy profit growth, notably on higher fee income. It expects to recover bad debts which would further buoy profits. Conversely, exposure to consumer discretionary names detracted from returns. In particular, non-exposure to automobile component manufacturer Astra Otoparts Tbk held back performance. Its shares surged given solid automobile sales and growing optimism about the company becoming a key supplier of components for the industry.

The manager has positioned the fund to benefit from rising consumer spending and growing industrialisation. Over the year, the manager increased the fund's overweight exposure to diversified industrial conglomerate Astra International. The company is viewed as a proxy to Indonesia's growth with interests in automotive, heavy equipment and palm oil plantations. The overweight position in financials was raised, notably by introducing real estate companies Lippo Karawaci and Bumi Serpong Damai. The former is Indonesia's largest real estate developer and is expected to benefit from rising income levels and increased mortgage penetration.

International Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 1,578 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and better than expected corporate results. In the later part of the period, monetary policy tightening in China and proposals for tough new regulations in the financial sector weakened sentiment. Investors also worried about sovereign credit risk in peripheral European economies after credit ratings of several countries were downgraded. Against this backdrop, equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in US dollar terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund performed in line with its benchmark over the period. An underweight stance in Europe proved beneficial to performance as did the off-benchmark exposure to emerging markets. However, within Europe a bias towards Europe ex UK at the expense of the UK was not helpful to performance. In the US portion of the portfolio, stock picking in the telecommunications and energy sectors was supportive. Notably, an underweight position in ExxonMobil proved rewarding as the integrated oil major reported disappointing relative growth. Holdings in selected electrical machinery firms added value to the Japanese segment, as did relatively low exposure to the defensive utilities sector. In the Asian portion, positions in technology firms were notably beneficial. The impact was partially offset by stock picking in the European segment where low exposure to mining stocks and selected holdings in media firms, such as Eniro detracted from returns. Exposure to Eniro was reduced after the firm posted weak results and a gloomy forecast for 2010.

The manager maintained an underweight stance in Europe over the period as this area tends to underperform in phases of global economic recovery. In addition, the above-benchmark exposure to Asian and emerging markets which benefited from strong domestic fundamentals and demand for commodities, was retained. A neutral stance was preferred towards the US and Japan.

Italy Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 249 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Financials advanced as monetary and fiscal stimulus started to take effect and investors' risk appetite increased in favour of cyclical areas including industrials and materials firms. However, recent concerns over the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Spain and Portugal, have undermined sentiment. In response to these developments, European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Performance was largely driven by strong security selection in the financials and consumer discretionary sectors. Diversified financials firms Banca Generali and Azimut Holding benefited from rising inflows and a tax amnesty introduced in Italy in the earlier part of the period. A holding in household appliances manufacturer Indesit gained due to restructuring process undertaken in 2009 and an improved outlook. Conversely, the largest drag on relative performance came from the underweight positions in energy company Tenaris and communications & broadcasting group Mediaset.

Earlier in the period, the manager raised positions in the cyclical areas of the market including consumer discretionary and industrials. However, the manager believes that the Greece debt concerns could increase market volatility for some time. Therefore, the fund now has a more balanced, barbell approach with an emphasis on building positions in high conviction ideas but limiting single sector exposure. Overall, the manager's conviction in the automobiles and components sector has gone up; holdings acquired included Fiat and its holding company Exor, as well as Piaggio. Among financials, Azimut Holding was sold, and Credito Emiliano is one of the top stock picks in the sector.

Japan Advantage Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: JPY 95,843 Million

Manager's Overview

An unprecedented fiscal and monetary policy response to the global financial crisis successfully stabilised global economies, and most major equity markets including Japan rose over the year. In Japan, cyclical stocks in the technology and materials sectors registered solid gains against a backdrop of growing confidence in the global economic recovery. In contrast, financial stocks struggled due to concerns about capital adequacy and dilution risks from equity financing deals, while much-publicised problems at Japan Airlines and Toyota Motor weighed heavily upon their respective industries.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. A cyclical upswing driven by inventory restocking and signs of stability in some economic indicators buoyed cyclical exporters' share prices from their trough levels in March 2009. Holdings in Canon, Fuji Machine Manufacturing, Daicel Chemical Industries, Citizen Holdings and Ricoh registered sizeable gains. Furthermore, the fund's limited exposure to utilities also paid off. Conversely, limited exposure to commodity-related trading companies partially offset relative returns.

The fund continued to focus on companies that are undervalued relative to their balance sheets, cashflow, and normalised earnings over the long term. The manager increased positions in major banking groups and insurance companies whose share prices had fallen to distressed levels. As a result, Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group, Tokio Marine Holding, Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group and Chuo Mitsui Trust Holdings ranked among the top 10 holdings as of the end of April 2010. A position in Japan's largest mobile phone operator NTT DoCoMo, which offered attractive valuations relative to its assets and earnings growth potential, was also added. On the other hand, the manager sold Toyota Motor, as its valuations did not appear to have fully discounted the extent of the damage from its product recalls.

Japan Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: JPY 86,903 Million

Manager's Overview

An unprecedented fiscal and monetary policy response to the global financial crisis successfully stabilised global economies, and most major equity markets including Japan rose over the year. In Japan, cyclical stocks in the technology and materials sectors registered solid gains against a backdrop of growing confidence in the global economic recovery. In contrast, financial stocks struggled due to concerns about capital adequacy and dilution risks from equity financing deals, while much-publicised problems at Japan Airlines and Toyota Motor weighed heavily upon their respective industries.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. A cyclical upswing driven by inventory restocking and signs of stability in some economic indicators supported a recovery in technology stocks, which had fallen sharply in the aftermath of the Lehman shock. Technology exporters including Canon, Nippon Electric Glass, Yaskawa Electric, Nitto Denko and Nikon registered sizeable gains. The fund's limited exposure to defensives such as utilities, railways and pharmaceuticals also proved rewarding. However, holdings in automobile exporters fell sharply in response to the extensive product recalls at Toyota Motor, and exposure to financials, many of which remained under pressure due to concerns about capital adequacy risk, partially offset relative returns.

While the upswing in economic and corporate fundamentals is set to continue, valuations in external demand-related stocks have started to look a bit stretched. The manager sold some auto-related holdings including Yamaha Motor and NGK Insulators, and trimmed positions in Toyota Motor, Stanley Electric, and Sumitomo Electric Industries. The manager also took some profits in technology exporters that had posted significant gains since the beginning of 2009. Meanwhile, the manager shifted weights to domestic names that had lagged the post-Lehman rally, with particular emphasis on undervalued financials and retailers. Within financials, the fund focused on insurance companies such as T&D Holdings and NKSJ Holdings.

Japan Smaller Companies Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: JPY 11,231 Million

Manager's Overview

An unprecedented fiscal and monetary policy response to the global financial crisis successfully stabilised global economies, and most major equity markets including Japan rose over the year. In Japan, cyclical stocks in the technology and materials sectors registered solid gains against a backdrop of growing confidence in the global economic recovery. In contrast, financial stocks struggled due to concerns about capital adequacy and dilution risks from equity financing deals, while much-publicised problems at Japan Airlines and Toyota Motor weighed heavily upon their respective industries.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. As financial markets stabilised and a recovery in global economic activity started to take hold, holdings in technology stocks that fell sharply in the aftermath of the Lehman shock responded with a powerful rally. Major contributors included precision machinery maker V Technology, LCD material producer Asahi Glass, and electronic component manufacturer Taiyo Yuden. At the same time, a lack of exposure to Japan Airlines, which filed for bankruptcy in January 2010, proved rewarding. In contrast, exposure to insurers and brokers, many of which had remained under pressure from concerns about dilution risks from equity financing, partially offset relative returns.

Given tentative signs of a more benign global macroeconomic backdrop and a more stable exchange rate, the manager maintained an overweight stance in cyclical manufacturers, with particular emphasis on niche technology and auto parts manufacturers that have high global market shares and solid balance sheets. Prime examples are LCD material producer Asahi Glass, pneumatic equipment maker SMC, and spring producer NHK Spring, which ranked among the top five holdings as of the end of the period. Meanwhile, Sumitomo Metal Mining, and Sumitomo Electric Industries that had met the manager's target prices were sold and the manager bought banks and insurers that were heavily discounted relative to their asset value.

Korea Fund ⁴

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 719 Million

Manager's Overview

Improving global economic conditions, aided by accommodative fiscal and monetary policies, boosted South Korean equities. Rise in demand for inventory replenishment and increase in public spending resulted in increasing employment levels and higher business investment. Foreign institutional investors continued to show interest in Korean equities. Consumer and business confidence also improved on signs that the global economy may have turned a corner. Industrial production, bank lending and retail sales grew strongly over the period under review. The information technology sector advanced the most due to a rise in exports which was led by electronic equipment and semiconductor manufacturers. Higher consumer confidence aided the consumer discretionary and consumer staples sectors. Health care and telecommunications companies lagged.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period due to the overweight stance in the information technology and consumer discretionary sectors. An overweight exposure to Samsung Electro-Mechanics was the single largest contributor owing to strong profit growth and robust earnings outlook. Additionally, an overweight position in Hynix Semiconductor benefited from rising demand as the company recorded strong profit growth. Further, a holding in car producer Hyundai Motor added value amid robust sales growth in China and elsewhere. On the other hand, a non-benchmark position in Taewoong detracted from returns following disappointing results and due to concern that heightened competition would erode margins. Meanwhile, an underweight stance in electric utility provider Korea Electric Power hampered returns.

The manager made significant changes in the portfolio over the period. Notably, the manager increased the exposure to battery and LCD panel manufacturer LG Chem expecting robust growth in both chemicals and IT products segments. Within financials, Woori Finance Holdings was purchased and the overweight stance in Shinhan Financial Group was trimmed. Meanwhile, exposure to consumer discretionary companies was reduced by selling education services provider MegaStudy for better opportunities elsewhere.

Latin America Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 1,313 Million

Manager's Overview

Latin American equities recorded strong gains, despite some intermittent phases of risk aversion, prompted first by the postponement of debt repayment in Dubai and followed by fears of a sovereign debt default in Greece. Inflationary pressures also surfaced in leading emerging economies amid healthy levels of personal consumption, and strong investment and manufacturing activity. In January, Chinese policymakers took the first steps to slow the pace of domestic lending. In spite of this backdrop, shares in consumer-driven companies, in particular consumer discretionary firms, rallied remarkably, while financials o registered noteworthy gains.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Stock selection in the energy and financial sectors drove relative returns. The non-benchmark holding in Pacific Rubiales Energy added value as the company reported significant exploration finds, boosted by a strong rebound in the oil price. Brazil's leading bank Itau Unibanco Holding, Mexican bank Grupo Financiero Banorte and micro-credit lender Banco Compartamos proved resilient and performed strongly in the latter half of the review period benefiting the fund's overweight positions. An underweight exposure to the telecommunications sector was rewarding as defensives lagged; however, relative gains were eroded by exposure to Mexico's Tele Norte Leste Participacoes and America Movil, which fell from their December highs.

The managers have raised the exposure to financials, the largest relative overweight sector. Additions include Intergroup Financial Services, the holding company for Peru's fourth largest bank Interbank, and Banco do Estado do Rio Grande do Sul, the dominant bank in the Brazilian state of Rio Grande, given strong loan growth in low penetration markets. The fund retained the underweight stance in telecommunications and the exposure to Vivo Participacoes was trimmed due to its declining revenues. The fund has moved from an overweight stance to an underweight position in consumer staples. The managers sold Wal-Mart de Mexico, the largest food retailer in Mexico, following strong appreciation and brewer FEMSA after the sale of its beer business to Heineken.

Malaysia Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 194 Million

Manager's Overview

Malaysian equities performed strongly over the year. Robust GDP expansion underpinned by a rise in domestic and external demand and higher public spending supported equities. The spillover impact of exports on production, employment and overall investor sentiment proved a catalyst for economic turnaround. Financials was among the best performing sector as banks were relatively immune to the global financial crisis and were supported by an accommodative monetary policy. Demand for real estate continued to be strong. The rise in materials companies was aided by demand from China. Meanwhile, the utilities and energy sectors rose but lagged the overall market performance.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period mainly due to adverse stock selection in the financials sector. An underweight stance in Malayan Banking and non-exposure to EON Capital detracted from relative returns. Malayan Banking shares advanced amid expectations that overseas earnings would drive growth. EON Capital did well following an acquisition bid from Hong Leong Bank. Furthermore, an overweight position in Digi.com, a wireless telecommunications operator, hurt returns as earnings growth disappointed. On a positive note, a holding in health care products manufacturer Top Glove was the single largest contributor to returns due to stronger-than-expected growth in profits. An overweight stance in bank CIMB Group Holdings also added value.

Over the period, the manager has positioned the fund to take advantage of the rapid economic growth and rising consumer demand. Notably, financials and consumer discretionary holdings were added by trimming exposure to defensive utilities and telecommunication sectors. In particular, the manager raised exposure to CIMB Group Holdings to benefit from its growing focus on the ASEAN region. Property development group SP Setia was purchased in view of a strong demand for real estate. Within consumer discretionary, a position in multiline retailer Parkson Holdings was initiated.

Nordic Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: SEK 2,352 Million

Manager's Overview

Nordic equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Financials advanced as monetary and fiscal stimulus started to take effect and investors' risk appetite increased in favour of cyclical areas including industrials and materials firms. Additionally, Nordic currencies were resilient while euro fell due to concerns over the economic and financial condition of peripheral eurozone economies. The Nordic region's budget deficits are much lower than their eurozone and UK counterparts which helped their currencies appreciate.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Holdings in health care, banking and oil equipment firms contributed strongly. A position in radiation therapy equipment manufacturer Elekta advanced on higher order growth especially in the firm's key emerging markets and in the US. Ossur, the Danish prosthetic company, rose in anticipation of the roll out of its new generation of bionic prostheses. Shares in Danske Bank were buoyed due to robust trading revenues. Oil equipment firm Seadrill rose amid expectations of higher drilling contracts and a decline in operating costs. Conversely, an underweight stance in the machinery sector detracted from relative performance as stocks were boosted by good results.

Jonathan Ogier took over the management of the fund from Ronald Port on 1 May 2009. He repositioned the portfolio by moving into stocks that provide good long-term value and those that are expected to perform well in a market recovery. Positioning in industrials remains underweight but is offset by an overweight exposure to high quality health care names. These stocks have the capacity to continue to perform well even if expectations for growth should decline as the year progresses. Within the oil & gas sector, the manager increased positions in oil equipment firms Subsea 7 and Aker Solutions and reduced exposure to oil producers including Statoil.

Pacific Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 829 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, gains in the Pacific region equities slowed in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region. Subsequently, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades drove equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The information technology and materials sectors were in the vanguard driven by robust domestic demand. Financials rose as loan growth remained strong. Materials producers also gained because of solid demand in China and other emerging markets which expanded public spending in infrastructure.

The fund significantly outperformed over the period. A non-benchmark stance in Japanese information technology firm Digital Garage was the single largest contributor to returns. Its strategy to expand domestic customer base and its new partnership with Twitter were applauded by investors. A holding in air freight and logistics company Goodpack boosted returns as rising international trade boosted its earnings. Not holding Toyota Motor further buoyed returns; the company suffered as it was forced to recall cars which hurt its reputation. Conversely, a position in Japanese consumer finance company Promise eroded value following the negative sentiment surrounding consumer finance companies in the third quarter of 2009.

Rising internet penetration, domestic consumption and capital spending in long-term infrastructure across the region are the themes reflected in the fund's overweight positions in the information technology, industrials, and consumer discretionary sectors. The manager maintains an underweight position in financials given risks of equity finance and increasing credit costs, but continues to see attractive opportunities in selected stocks such as Japanese consumer finance company ORIX and property and casualty insurance group Fuji Fire & Marine Insurance. Exposure to Chinese instant messaging and gaming company Tencent Holdings was raised in view of an expected increase in earnings through monetisation of its services.

Singapore Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 171 Million

Manager's Overview

Singapore followed its regional peers and registered a significant rise in equities against the backdrop of an improving global economy underpinned by a surge in exports. Industrial production grew significantly over the period due to an increase in demand for inventory replenishment. The economy registered a strong rise in employment and the GDP growth was better than expected, helping the economy climb out of recession. The GDP expansion in the first quarter of 2010 proved to be stronger than the previous increases after the 1998 and 2001 recessions. Consumer confidence also improved, reflecting significant growth in the consumer discretionary and consumer staples sectors. Notably, a rebound in Asia Pacific economies since the second quarter of 2009 proved supportive of growth, with intra-regional trade surpassing pre-crisis levels.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period mainly due to adverse stock selection in the financials and the consumer discretionary sectors. In particular, an overweight stance in real estate company Keppel and an underweight position in Wing Tai Holdings within the real estate sector held back performance. Conversely, favourable stock selection among industrials helped offset some of these losses. An overweight position in Hong Leong Asia boosted returns on the back of better-than-expected profits. The fund's above-benchmark exposure to the energy sector also added value. In particular, an overweight position in offshore support services provider Ezra Holdings proved rewarding as it entered more new deals.

The manager has increased allocation to financials and industrials although the fund remains underweight in both sectors. Exposure to consumer staples companies has also been raised to benefit from growth in consumption. Notably, a position in Singapore's food processing company China Minzhong Food was purchased expecting rising rural and urban income in China to boost sales of high quality food products. The overweight stance in the energy and health care sectors has been retained.

South East Asia Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 6,564 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, equities in the Asia Pacific ex Japan region fell in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region. Subsequently, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades drove equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The consumer discretionary sector was in the vanguard driven by robust domestic consumption growth. Financials rose as loan growth remained strong. Exporters, notably electronic equipment manufacturers, were buoyed by a recovery in overseas demand. Materials producers gained because of strong demand in China and other emerging markets which expanded public spending in infrastructure. Conversely, utilities and telecommunications lagged.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The overweight stance in the information technology and consumer discretionary sectors was particularly beneficial. An overweight exposure to car and rechargeable battery manufacturer BYD was the single largest contributor. The outperformance came against the backdrop of rising demand for its cars, and also because it reached new agreements to supply rechargeable batteries to European car producers. Paper producers Nine Dragons Paper Holding and Lee & Man Paper Manufacturing enhanced returns amid rising demand. Conversely, an overweight position in South Korean industrial conglomerate Doosan Heavy Industries and Construction detracted from returns. Its shares suffered due to a slowdown in construction business.

The fund is positioned to benefit from economic growth which is expected to be driven by consumer demand. The manager added to Tencent Holdings, the Chinese instant messaging and online games company as growing monetisation of services and expanding consumer base should further boost earnings. Elsewhere, the manager introduced Kia Motors and bought additional shares in Hyundai Motor as the two Korean car manufacturers rapidly gain market share. Meanwhile, the exposure to financials was trimmed, most notably in real estate.

Switzerland Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: CHF 637 Million

Manager's Overview

Swiss equities, along with broader European stocks, recorded robust returns, as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, though the central bank started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Investors' risk appetite increased in favour of cyclical areas. Towards the end, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund marginally underperformed its benchmark over the period largely due to the structural underweight in Nestlé. The holding detracted from relative returns as its share price rose more than the index. Positions in some health care firms also fell and proved unfavourable. On a positive note, security selection in materials, diversified financials and retail firms contributed strongly. A position in chemicals firm Sika was buoyed by improving economic sentiment and analyst upgrades citing long-term growth opportunities. Among diversified financials, Bank Sarasin & Cie advanced on news of higher guidance for 2010 and strengthening of its presence in Asia. The main contributor in retailing was Dufry Group, whose shares surged significantly.

Over the period, the manager increased the fund's exposure to cyclical names as more evidence emerged about an economic recovery. Industrials, materials, consumer discretionary and information technology holdings added value. Financials exposure was slightly lowered. Among health care companies, the manager trimmed the exposure to Sonova Holding and Straumann Holding following their outperformance and sold pharmaceutical company Acino Holding.

Taiwan Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 462 Million

Manager's Overview

Taiwanese equities grew but were volatile throughout the review period. Following the rest of the region, the central bank reduced its benchmark interest rates and the government introduced a fiscal stimulus package to aid the economy. After a rapid decline in 2008/09, GDP growth strengthened and industrial production increased. Investor confidence improved due to growing trades with mainland China. Capital expenditure also expanded and investment in capital goods imports reflected optimism. Buoyed by strong overseas demand for Taiwanese exports production rebounded and boosted business and consumer confidence. The information technology sector, particularly electronic equipment and semiconductor manufacturers, rose against the backdrop of strong inventory replenishment. Consumer discretionary and materials firms also did well.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the year due to adverse security selection in the information technology and materials sectors. In particular, an underweight stance in Asustek, a computer and consumer electronics producer, weighed upon relative performance given the firm's robust first quarter profits and its strong earnings outlook. Within the materials sector, an underweight position in plastics and fiber products manufacturer Nan Ya Plastics also detracted as share price grew on account of rising sales in China. In addition, an overweight exposure to liquid crystal display panel producer AU Optronics hurt returns. On a positive note, favourable stock selection in the consumer staples sector contributed significantly to relative returns. Of note, a holding in food products firm Namchow Chemical added value on account of increased sales as consumer confidence grew.

The manager positioned the fund to benefit from export growth in the information technology sector and higher domestic consumption growth through exposure to consumer discretionary names. Within information technology, exposure to selected internet names was raised on expectation of strong returns through monetisation of services. Growing internet usage is also expected to benefit selected online media companies through increasing advertising revenue.

Thailand Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 406 Million

Manager's Overview

Strong industrial production, rising exports and improving consumer confidence underpinned significant rise in the Thai equity markets. Rising political tensions between the government and the opposition red shirt demonstrators, which culminated in violent protests, capped the increase. The materials sector was buoyed due to robust demand from emerging Asian economies, which increased their spending on infrastructure projects to stem the negative impact of the global financial crisis. This included steps by Thailand's central bank, which reduced interest rates, and the government which increased public spending. The positive fallout of rising export demand was a stable rise in employment rate. Consumer stocks, notably staples, were the key beneficiary of growth and rose strongly.

The fund underperformed its benchmark of the period, mainly due to the impact of adverse stock selection in financials amid rising political uncertainty. An overweight position in Siam Commercial Bank was among the top detractors. Despite reporting an increase in earnings and rising interest margins, the bank's share price was under pressure due to heightening political tensions in Thailand. Within the consumer staples sector, an underweight stance in food products company Charoen Pokphand was the single largest detractor from overall returns as shares surged following rising sales. An overweight exposure to Big C Supercenter, a multiline retailer, also held back performance. On a positive note, stock selection within the energy sector added significant value. Of note, a bias towards coal mining company Banpu boosted returns.

The manager has trimmed exposure to defensive sectors and added companies that are more leveraged to growth. The allocation to the consumer sectors has been significantly raised, although the fund remains marginally underweight consumer staples. Notably, holdings in Home Center, which sells a complete range of goods and materials from construction to gardening, were purchased. The manager expects the rise in consumer demand to benefit sales of home improvement goods. Additionally, the exposure to Tisco Financial was raised given its strong automobile loan book.

United Kingdom Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: GBP 106 Million

Manager's Overview

UK equities rallied strongly during the year as risk appetite improved, driven by encouraging economic data and increasingly positive earnings reports. The stock market witnessed some setbacks towards the end of the period, mainly due to concerns that highly indebted European nations may struggle to meet their financing obligations. Over the year, shares in businesses more closely linked to the economic cycle, such as mining and industrials, outperformed as the outlook for demand brightened. Conversely, defensive firms, which benefited from risk aversion in the previous 12-month period, underperformed the broader market. On the policy front, the Bank of England kept its interest rate unchanged at 0.5% and extended its quantitative easing programme to £200 billion. In February this year, the Monetary Policy Committee decided to pause its bonds purchase programme.

Over the period the fund underperformed its benchmark. An overweight stance in the non-life insurance sector, particularly the holdings in Catlin Group and Lancashire Holdings, detracted from returns because of an uncertain outlook in 2009. These holdings are now sold. Within the banking sector, an underweight exposure to HSBC Holdings hurt relative performance due to the improving market sentiment towards banks in view of stabilisation in capital levels and better earnings prospects. On a positive note, strong stock selection within the media and financial services sectors, notably Pearson and International Personal Finance respectively, contributed to performance given their encouraging profits growth.

James Griffin took over the management of the fund from Matthew Siddle in January 2010. The banking sector is the largest overweight position as the manager expects an improving operating environment following greater consolidation. He is also positive about mobile telecommunications, particularly companies well positioned to capitalise from the possibility of greater demand for network quality; a new position in Inmarsat was initiated during the period. He also acquired British Airways as he believes the company will benefit from consolidation within the industry and the expected recovery in global travel.

World Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 545 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and better than expected corporate results. In the later part of the period, monetary tightening in China and proposals for tough new regulations in the financial sector weakened sentiment. Investors also worried about sovereign credit risk in peripheral European economies after credit ratings of several countries were downgraded. Against this backdrop, equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in euro terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. An underweight stance in Europe proved beneficial to performance, as did the off-benchmark exposure to emerging markets. However, within Europe, a bias towards Europe ex UK at the expense of the UK was not helpful to returns. Security selection contributed to returns; in the European segment, holdings in selected media stocks and stock picking among energy and materials companies added value. Below-benchmark exposure to car manufacturer Volkswagen was rewarding as its shares fell after the firm agreed to acquire a stake in Porsche's automotive unit. In the US portion of the portfolio, stock picking in the telecommunications and energy sectors supported relative returns. Notably, an underweight position in ExxonMobil was rewarding as the integrated oil major reported disappointing relative growth. Holdings in selected electrical machinery firms added value to the Japanese segment, as did below-benchmark exposure to the defensive utilities sector. In the Asian portion, positions in technology firms were notably beneficial.

The manager maintained an underweight exposure to Europe as this area tends to underperform during phases of global economic recovery. An overweight exposure to Asian and emerging markets, which benefited from strong domestic fundamentals and demand for commodities, was retained. Meanwhile, the fund has a neutral stance towards the US and Japan.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, supported by signs of continued improvement in the world economy and better than expected corporate results. In the later part of the period, monetary tightening in China and proposals for tough new regulations in the financial sector weakened sentiment. Investors also worried about sovereign credit risk in peripheral European economies after credit ratings of several countries were downgraded. Against this backdrop, equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in euro terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund outperformed its benchmark largely due to the impact of security selection. Notably, in the European segment of the portfolio stock picking among energy firms proved beneficial. Below-benchmark exposure to Volkswagen, whose shares fell after the firm agreed to acquire a stake in Porsche's automotive unit, also added value. In the US portion, security selection in the telecommunications sector was supportive, as was an underweight position in ExxonMobil which reported disappointing relative growth. Holdings in selected electrical machinery firms and low exposure to the utilities sector proved rewarding to the Japanese segment. Stock picking in the Asian and emerging market segments also buoyed performance. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards Asian and emerging markets was favourable, but the overweight position in Europe and underweight stances in the US and the UK detracted from returns.

Early in the period, the manager increased holdings in Asian and emerging markets which benefited from strong domestic fundamentals and demand for commodities. Exposure to the defensive US market was scaled back. Towards the end, as expectations of a slowdown in global growth gained ground, the manager pared positions in emerging markets and added to the US holdings. Positions in the eurozone were trimmed as this area tends to underperform during phases of global economic recovery. The manager preferred a neutral stance in Japan and an underweight position in the UK over the period.

Fidelity Gestion Equilibre ^{1,4}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 21 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, outperforming bonds, supported by signs of continued improvement in the world economy. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in the peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a dip in risk appetite. Against this backdrop, European government bonds generated positive returns but underperformed both investment grade corporate bonds and high yield bonds. Equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in euro terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund outperformed its benchmark and was placed in the first quartile of its peer group largely due to the impact of security selection in the fixed income segment which constitutes more than half of the portfolio. Here, overweight exposure to corporate bonds coupled with favourable issue selection contributed to performance as did an above-benchmark position in subordinated financials. The impact was further bolstered by stock picking in the equity segment. Notably in the European portion holdings in the energy sector and below-benchmark exposure to Volkswagen supported relative returns. Positions in telecommunications firms added value to the US segment. In terms of asset allocation, an underweight stance in bonds was rewarding, as was the bias towards Asian and emerging markets. Conversely, the overweight position in Europe and underweight holdings in the US and the UK detracted from returns.

Early in the period, the manager reduced exposure to bonds and increased the bias towards Asian and emerging equity markets which benefited from strong domestic fundamentals and demand for commodities. Holdings in the defensive US market were scaled back. Towards the end of the period, as expectations of a slowdown in global growth gained ground, the manager pared positions in emerging markets and added to the US holdings and to bonds. Positions in the eurozone were also trimmed as this area tends to underperform during phases of global economic recovery.

Fidelity Sélection Europe ^{1,4}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 42 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Towards the end, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears about the spread of debt crisis.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period as the stock selection proved beneficial. Key media holdings, including Nordic online classifieds and newspaper firm Schibsted and education and business information group Pearson, benefited from encouraging earnings. Within the automobiles sector, a cautious stance in Volkswagen supported relative returns as the stock suffered due to news related to Porsche. Increasing earnings expectation also boosted the position in automobile parts company ElringKlinger. In contrast, an underweight position in Daimler undermined relative performance due to its improving business mix and cost reduction. Elsewhere, exposure to HSBC Holdings was increased after its encouraging results added to the confidence in the stock, although an initial underweight stance detracted from relative returns.

Overall, procyclical segments, such as industrials, technology and consumer discretionary, are among overweight areas. In order to benefit from a pick up in demand, more positions were added in the mining sector, such as shares in Anglo American and Xstrata. Within financials, exposure was increased to banks that are expected to emerge out of the crisis in a better position, including Lloyds Banking Group and Barclays. An underweight stance is maintained in the defensive consumer staples, utilities and telecommunications sectors.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, supported by signs of continued improvement in the world economy and better than expected corporate results. In the later part of the period, monetary tightening in China and proposals for tough new regulations in the financial sector weakened sentiment. Investors also worried about sovereign credit risk in peripheral European economies after credit ratings of several countries were downgraded. Against this backdrop, equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in euro terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. In the European segment, the largest portion of the portfolio, selected holdings in media and materials firms detracted from returns. Notably, a holding in Eniro declined after investors were disappointed by its weak outlook for 2010. Conversely, stock picking in the other regional equity segments supported relative performance. In the US portion, security selection in the telecommunications sector buoyed returns. An underweight position in ExxonMobil, which reported disappointing relative growth, was also rewarding. Holdings in selected electrical machinery firms added value to the Japanese segment, as did below-benchmark exposure to the utilities sector. Stock picking in the Asian and emerging market portions also proved beneficial to performance. In terms of asset allocation, the underweight stance in Europe and bias towards emerging markets supported relative returns. However, within Europe, the bias towards Europe ex UK at the expense of the UK hampered performance.

Over the period, the manager maintained the below-benchmark exposure to Europe. The fund has overweight positions in Asia ex Japan and emerging markets as the manager believes that they could benefit more from the global economic recovery than developed markets and that they offer better returns in a global equity portfolio.

FPS Moderate Growth Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 123 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12-months, outperforming bonds, supported by signs of continued improvement in the world economy. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in the peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a dip in risk appetite. Against this backdrop, European government bonds generated positive returns but underperformed both investment grade corporate bonds and high yield bonds. Equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in euro terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund outperformed its benchmark and was placed in the first quartile of its peer group. The outperformance was largely due to the impact of security selection in the fixed income segment which constitutes more than half of the portfolio. Here, overweight exposure to subordinated financials coupled with favourable issue selection contributed to returns, as did an above-benchmark position in asset-backed securities. The impact was further bolstered by stock picking in the US, emerging market and Japanese equity segments. Notably, in the US, security selection in the telecommunications sector buoyed returns. An underweight position in ExxonMobil which reported disappointing relative growth was also rewarding. Stock picking in the telecommunications, energy and materials sectors added value to the emerging markets portion. Conversely, stock picking in the European segment detracted from performance. In terms of asset allocation, an underweight stance in bonds was rewarding, as was the bias towards Asian and emerging equity markets.

Over the period, the manager added to equity holdings and scaled back exposure to bonds and cash in view of improving global growth. Within equities, exposure to cyclical emerging markets, which are better placed to outperform during expansionary phases of the global economy, was enhanced.

Euro Balanced Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 583 Million

Manager's Overview

European government bonds generated positive returns over the period but underperformed both investment grade corporate and high yield bonds. The 12-month period was characterised by a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and liquidity programmes implemented by central banks globally. Led by financials, credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a brief flight to quality. Nevertheless, over the period, high yield bonds witnessed strong returns in light of increased risk appetite.

The fund outperformed its benchmark. Within the equity portion, with investors starting to focus on earnings delivery, major industrials and consumer discretionary holdings contributed to returns. A new position in aerospace & defence group Safran gained due to forecast of further cost improvements. Conversely, some insurers and banks with exposure to peripheral eurozone economies facing sovereign debt concerns were among key detractors. Within the bond portion, the overweight exposure to corporate bonds coupled with favourable issue selection contributed to relative performance.

Within the equity portion, although health care exposure was reduced over the period as the manager found better investments in other sectors, it remains a key overweight area. The manager found more opportunities in consumer discretionary and industrials firms. Within the former, luxury goods firm LVMH, the owner of leading brands that are expected to gain market share faster in emerging economies, was added. Within the bond portion, the fund's credit beta or the positioning in credit relative to its benchmark, has been reduced in the last few months of the period as the credit asset class offers less upside potential in light of stretched valuations. This was achieved by lowering exposure to the defensive telecommunications, utilities and consumers sectors.

Growth & Income Fund ¹

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 127 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, outperforming bonds, supported by signs of continued improvement in the world economy. Within the fixed income segment, all major government bond markets underperformed investment grade and high yield corporate bonds as risk appetite improved. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Against this backdrop, equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in US dollar terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund outperformed its benchmark and was placed in the first quartile of its peer group over the period. Security selection in the fixed income as well as the equity portions supported performance. Asset allocation decisions added value too. In the initial part of the review period, the manager shifted the portfolio's stance from defensive to aggressive, which was rewarding as global growth improved. The overweight position in equities, out-of-benchmark holding in real estate and the underweight stance in bonds supported relative performance. Within equities, adding to Pacific ex Japan and emerging market holdings was beneficial, as was enhancing exposure to industrial, technology and financial stocks. Reducing holdings in the defensive health care and consumer sectors supported relative returns too. However, commodities detracted from returns.

Towards the end of the period, the manager shifted to a less aggressive stance in view of expectations that the pace of global growth would slow. The overweight position in equities and non-benchmark exposure to commodities was reduced and the fund moved to a smaller underweight position in bonds. At the regional level, exposure to Europe ex UK was scaled back and that to the defensive US market was increased. Within Europe, the manager added a position in Germany. At the sector level, holdings in industrials and financials were pared, and exposure to the consumer and real estate sectors which are expected to do well later in the economic cycle, was enhanced.

Asian High Yield Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 752 Million

Manager's Overview

Over the period the Asian high yield asset class has been among the strongest performers, outperforming Asian investment grade as well as US high yield. The performance was on the back of considerable improvement in investor sentiment and risk appetite and global economic recovery. The losses experienced in the previous 12 months were completely reversed as positive investor sentiment drove credit spreads from over 20% at the height of the financial crisis back to within 7% above US Treasuries, enabling Asian high yield to rally strongly. Default rates for Asian high yield bonds peaked at just above 10% in the fourth quarter of 2009 but are expected to fall below 5% by the end of 2010 with the global recovery. Similarly, strong macroeconomic fundamentals in China and Indonesia have contributed to the positive outlook for Asian high yield.

The fund slightly underperformed its benchmark over the period. In particular, an overweight exposure to Media Nusantara Citra, an Indonesia media company, and True Move, a Thai telecommunications company, were the largest positive contributors to relative performance as the fundamental outlook for these companies improved. The key detractors included underweight positions in Neo China Land Group Holding, a Chinese property company. The company performed strongly after an announcement of a potential acquisition of the business by Shanghai Industrial Holdings Limited.

As at the end of the period, the manager continues to maintain a well-diversified portfolio in Asian high yield bonds and retains an overweight position in Indonesia but is slightly underweight in China/Hong Kong versus the benchmark. From a sector perspective, the manager continues to favour commodity-related companies but has an underweight stance in technology companies and banks. During this period, Star Energy Geothermal, an Indonesian energy company that recently came to the market with a $250 million new issue, was added to the portfolio.

Core Euro Bond Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 43 Million

Manager's Overview

European government bonds generated positive returns over the period but underperformed both investment grade corporate bonds and high yield bonds. The 12-month period was characterised by resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and liquidity programmes implemented by central banks globally. Led by financials, credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a brief flight to quality. Nevertheless, over the period, high yield bonds witnessed strong returns in light of increased risk appetite.

The fund outperformed its benchmark since its launch in July 2009. Bond selection in the subordinated financials, particularly Lower Tier II contributed to performance as financials led the credit market rally. Holdings such as the Bank of America, ING Bank and insurance companies Zurich Financial Services and Eureko bolstered performance. Security selection in the consumers sector including Anheuser-Busch InBev and Imperial Tobacco Finance and an overweight position in telecommunications enhanced relative returns. The fund benefited from tactical positioning in government bonds. This included an underweight stance in Greece and bias towards Italian and Irish bonds.

The fund maintained a positive credit beta (i.e. was aggressively positioned in credit relative to its benchmark), but the manager trimmed positions towards the end of the period as the credit asset class offers less upside potential in light of stretched valuations. This was achieved by lowering the exposure to defensive telecommunications and consumers sectors. Profits were taken in Vodafone Group, Deutsche Telekom and Tesco. Nevertheless, the manager increased holdings in utilities through Electricite De France. The underweight stance in financials was retained. The fund holds bonds of the same duration as its benchmark. By the end of the period, the manager had an underweight stance in peripheral European government bonds and an overweight exposure to ten year German Bunds.

Emerging Market Debt Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 440 Million

Manager's Overview

Emerging market debt recorded stellar performance over the last 12 months. Growth in these markets is expected to be more robust than in developed regions in the coming months. Furthermore, the region benefits from high saving levels, which could boost domestic demand and further support recovery. Against an improving economic backdrop and diminishing perceived credit risk, these securities saw greater demand from investors who were perhaps attracted to the higher yields offered relative to government bonds. However, the Greek sovereign debt crisis led yield spreads to widen over January and February. But spreads quickly tightened after Greek austerity measures combined with elements of support from Germany helped to calm investors' nerves.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Relative performance was boosted by an overweight position in Argentina. The Argentine government made significant strides to settle with outstanding holders of defaulted debt. This action is expected to eventually enable Argentina to access global capital markets once again. An overweight exposure to Ivory Coast bonds also buoyed relative returns. Ivory Coast was successful in restructuring outstanding defaulted debt and also raised funds through a new bond issue. Ukraine was another contributor to performance. Conversely, the underweight positions in Turkey and longer maturity Indonesian bonds were the primary underperformers.

The fund continues to be generally underweight external sovereign issues in lieu of more attractive opportunities within emerging markets. The fund also holds positions in emerging market corporate bonds amounting to 15% of assets. Local currency bonds represented just over 5% of total assets at the end of the period. Indonesia and Argentina were the primary sovereign overweight exposures. Underweight positions include higher credit quality sovereigns such as Mexico, Turkey, Philippines and Malaysia.

Manager's Overview

European government bonds generated positive returns over the period but underperformed both investment grade corporate bonds and high yield bonds. The 12-month period was characterised by a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and liquidity programmes implemented by central banks globally. Led by financials, credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a brief flight to quality. Nevertheless, over the period, high yield bonds witnessed strong returns in light of increased risk appetite.

Over the period, the fund outperformed its benchmark. The overweight exposure to corporate bonds coupled with favourable issue selection contributed to performance as credit spreads tightened notably over the period. The above-benchmark position in subordinated financials particularly Tier I and Lower Tier II bolstered relative returns. Contributors included Bank of America, Credit Logement and Zurich Financial Services. Furthermore, the overweight stance in asset-backed securities (ABS) added value amid improving marked to market valuations. The fund benefited from its exposure to and name selection in the telecommunications, utilities, consumers and industrials sectors.

The fund's positioning in credit relative to its benchmark (i.e. credit beta) has been reduced in the last few months of the period as the credit asset class offers less upside potential in light of stretched valuations. This was achieved by trimming the exposure to defensive telecommunications, utilities and consumers sectors. The manager took profits in Telefonica, Electricite De France and UK retailing giant Tesco among others. The fund had an underweight stance in financials and the manager took profits in Lloyds TSB, Credit Logement and RBS. Taking advantage of improved liquidity, the manager continued to rebalance risks within the ABS sector. The fund maintained a long duration position relative to its benchmark.

Euro Corporate Bond Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 71 Million

Manager's Overview

European government bonds generated positive returns over the period but underperformed both investment grade corporate bonds and high yield bonds. The 12-month period was characterised by a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and liquidity programmes implemented by the central banks globally. Led by financials, credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a brief flight to quality. Nevertheless, over the period, high yield bonds witnessed strong returns in light of increased risk appetite.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The fund's positive credit beta (i.e. was aggressively positioned in credit relative to its benchmark) proved favourable to performance as credit spreads tightened notably. The overweight stance in subordinated financials, primarily Lower Tier II (LT2) and Tier I and name selection contributed to returns. These included Bank of America, Commerzbank and Zurich Financial Services. Furthermore, an overweight position in asset-backed securities (ABS) enhanced returns amid improving market valuations. Issue selection among industrials and utilities further added value. Moreover, the above-benchmark exposure to defensive telecommunications and consumers companies bolstered performance.

On 12 June 2009, Fidelity Funds II Euro Corporate Bond Pool (SICAV II) was merged into Fidelity Funds European Corporate Bond Pool (SICAV I). Following the merger, the overweight stance in ABS was reduced. Over the period, the manager trimmed the credit beta by taking profits in subordinated financials such as Lloyds TSB and Societe Generale. The fund retained an overweight position in LT2 bonds and an underweight exposure to Tier I and senior bank debt. Likewise, the manager shuffled holdings in the defensive sectors. Telecom Italia and Vattenfall were sold and utility company Centrica, Henkel and British American Tobacco were added.

Nevertheless, over the period, high yield bonds witnessed strong returns in light of increased risk appetite.

Over the period, the fund outperformed its benchmark. The overweight exposure to corporate bonds contributed to performance in view of a notable tightening of credit spreads. Within credit, the overweight stance in subordinated financials particularly Lower Tier II bolstered relative performance as subordinated financials led the credit market rally. Contributors included Australian bank Macquarie Group and ING Bank. Furthermore, security selection in the asset-backed securities (ABS) including UK commercial mortgage backed securities of Epic and Broadgate Financing helped performance.

Peter Khan took over the management of the fund from David Simner in January 2010. The fund's credit beta or positioning in credit relative to its benchmark has been reduced in the last few months of the period as the credit asset class offers less upside potential in light of stretched valuations. The fund moved to an underweight stance in financials by taking profits in Credit Logement and Bank of Ireland and decreasing holdings in Australian banks Westpac Banking and National Australia Bank. Taking advantage of the improved market liquidity, the manager lowered the overweight exposure to ABS and reallocated some of the cash into corporate bonds with a better risk/reward profile. The manager increased exposure to utilities and consumers through utility company Thames Water Utilities Cayman, Imperial Tobacco Finance and pharmaceutical company Pfizer.

European High Yield Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 1,704 Million

Manager's Overview

The European high yield market significantly outperformed both government bonds and investment grade corporate bonds over the year. The period was characterised by a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and quantitative easing implemented by central banks globally. Led by financials, credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a brief flight to quality. Government bonds recorded positive returns, but underperformed corporate bonds.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. Issue selection within banks, in particular an underweight stance in subordinated Tier 1 issues detracted from returns. An underweight position in HBOS held back relative returns, however, losses were partly offset by positive name selection in higher rated banking sector issues such as UBS. The overweight exposure to Nordic Telephone Holdings and an underweight stance in semiconductor company NXP further weighed on performance. Conversely, holdings in lead recycler Eco-Bat within industrials added value.

The fund is broadly neutral credit beta versus its benchmark although the manager added around 6% iTraxx Crossover default protection position (a credit default swap on a basket of European high yield issuers). The manager moved to an overweight position within emerging markets, by adding names such as Bank of Moscow and Russian Standard Bank. Numerous new deals such as gaming and betting company Ladbrokes Group Finance and speciality chemicals company Kerling were further participated in. The fund maintains an underweight position in financials and the manager continues to focus on bond selection. The exposure to Lloyds TSB Bank was reduced and the manager added to holding in Royal Bank of Scotland. He also added positions in more solid names such as UBS, primarily in Tier 1 paper.

Global High Grade Income Fund ⁵

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 22 Million

Manager's Overview

Over the review period major central banks left their rates unchanged as global economic recovery has been slow and far from certain. While core inflation remained low in most markets, central banks are biased towards maintaining rates low. Australia was an exception. The Reserve Bank of Australia started tightening rates in October 2009 and continued to raise rates from the historic low of 3% to 4.5% in May 2010. These moves have been on the back of improving economic fundamentals, employment growth and emerging signs of inflation. Meanwhile, the Greek debt crisis and worries over the ability of weaker European governments to manage large budget and fiscal imbalances led investors to reallocate funds to safe havens including US Treasuries and currencies such as sterling and the euro weakened over this period.

The fund generated positive returns over the period. It continued to hold approximately 80% in government bond issues and 20% in sovereign bond issues and maintained an average credit rating of AAA. Yield was the biggest contributor to the fund's performance over this period as stable coupons provided stable returns. However, the fund's currency exposure detracted marginally from total returns. The exposure to sterling and the euro were the biggest detractors from returns due to the weak market sentiment on concerns over the financial health of European sovereigns. In contrast, exposure to the Canadian dollar contributed strongly to returns. The holdings in Australian dollar bonds also added value as the Australian dollar appreciated against the US dollar for most of the period on the back of the rate increases. As at the end of the period the fund's current yield was 6.0% and had duration of 1.29 years.

The fund continues to seek diversification and high income from investing in high quality and low duration government and government-related bonds. Over the period, the manager sold holdings in short-dated US Treasuries and replaced them with Canadian government bonds. While currency exposure has been volatile, the fund's yield has been more than sufficient to offset this volatility and provide positive total returns.

Global Inflation-linked Bond Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 163 Million

Manager's Overview

Global inflation-linked bonds outperformed nominal government bonds over the 12-months period. Although inflation has been relatively contained over the period, investors became increasingly worried about the dangers of rising prices in the longer term, boosting demand for inflation-linked bonds. This follows the actions of central banks, which pumped vast amounts of money into the financial system in a bid to stabilise the markets and reduce stress. Subsequently, equities rose and credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors and regions to pre-Lehman levels. Financials, particularly subordinated debt, led the gains.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Within inflation-linked bonds, the fund's overweight stance in US Treasury Inflation Protected Securities (moved to an underweight position at the end of the period), Germany and Japan boosted relative returns. Conversely, the underweight position in the UK and French inflation-linked securities proved detrimental to returns. Meanwhile, limited exposure to nominal credit buoyed relative returns. A small exposure to investment grade nominal bonds in the banking sector added value as did the holdings in consumer names including Marks & Spencer and Imperial Tobacco Finance.

Over the period, the manager reduced the overall exposure to inflation-linked bonds and increased the underweight position in Europe. Additionally, the manager moved to an underweight stance in UK inflation-linked bonds as these bonds continue to be over priced. The fund remains overweight in Japanese linkers, although the position was trimmed slightly. The exposure to German nominal government bonds has been increased amid lower inflation and growth expectations in light of a sovereign debt crisis in the eurozone. Furthermore, the manager maintained a limited exposure to high-quality credit names and took profits in holdings such as Vodafone Group and Verizon Communications, which performed strongly over the period.

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed all major government bond markets over the last one year. The period was characterised by a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and unconventional measures implemented by central banks globally. These helped reduce stress and brought stability in the financial markets. Subsequently, credit spreads narrowed significantly to pre-Lehman levels. Financials, particularly subordinated debt, led the gains. Nevertheless, over the period high yield and emerging market bonds witnessed strong returns.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. An overweight exposure to banks and insurance companies, in particular subordinated Lower Tier II and Tier I issues boosted relative returns. Holdings in Society of Lloyds, Bank of America, Barclays Bank and insurance firm Eureko were key contributors to returns. Issue selection coupled with an overweight position in the asset-backed securities sector further proved beneficial. Exposure to Imperial Tobacco Finance within consumers and commodities trader Glencore Finance Europe and Ardagh Glass Group in the industrials sector also enhanced performance.

The manager maintained an overweight stance in credit relative to its benchmark, but trimmed some positions where he saw less upside potential. The fund's overall duration position was reduced over the year. However, it remains overweight in Europe and Japan and underweight in the UK. The manager sold the holdings in Japanese inflation-linked bonds. The overweight stance in banks was increased by adding to names such as Society of Lloyds, Barclays Bank and Credit Suisse London. Exposure was added to metals and mining company Anglo American Capital and cement manufacturer Lafarge within industrials. Profits were taken in telecommunications companies Verizon Communications and Vodafone Group.

Sterling Bond Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: GBP 159 Million

Manager's Overview

Corporate bonds, including sub-investment grade, delivered handsome returns and outperformed government debt over the period. Low interest rates and unconventional measures such as quantitative easing adopted by central banks globally, helped reduce stress in financial markets and led to a resurgence in risk appetite. The Bank of England (BoE) continued to implement unconventional measures aimed at supporting demand in the economy. Although the interest rate was left unchanged at 0.5%, the BoE increased the scale of its programme of asset purchases by £25 billion to £200 billion in November. However, in February 2010, the BoE paused its bonds purchase plan. Credit spreads narrowed sharply across sectors and subordinated financials led the gains.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The overweight stance in corporate bonds boosted performance and bias towards subordinated financials, particularly Lower Tier II and in senior bank debt, proved beneficial. Contributors included Lloyds TSB Bank and RBS. Security selection within non-bank financials including specialist financial group 3i Group outperformed. The overweight allocation to asset-backed securities (ABS) including securitised pub Enterprise Inns bolstered relative returns in light of improving market valuations. Performance was also buoyed by an overweight position in industrials such as lead recycler Eco-Bat.

During the year, the fund manager retained an overweight stance in corporate bonds and increased exposure to subordinated financials. These included Lloyds TSB Bank and RBS. The overweight stance in the telecommunications, utilities and consumer staples areas was reduced through Vodafone Group, Electricite De France and health care company Merck. Likewise, in the industrials sector, profits were taken in mining companies Xstrata and Anglo American. The overweight in ABS was increased with a focus on top tranches and the manager increased positions in Aspire Defence Finance (a government PFI initiative) and Enterprise Inns.

US Dollar Bond Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 381 Million

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed US government bond markets over the period amid signs that the global economy may be improving. Credit markets benefited from a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of continued lower interest rates and unconventional measures implemented by the Federal Reserve (Fed) and other central banks. These helped reduce stress and brought stability in the financial markets. Subsequently, equities rose and credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors and regions to pre-Lehman levels. Financials, particularly subordinated debt, led the gains. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to the Greek sovereign debt concerns which led to a brief flight to quality to safer havens such as US Treasuries.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. An overweight exposure to credit including a bias towards Senior and subordinated Lower Tier II financials boosted relative returns. Insurance company Zurich Finance, UBS and Bank of America were key contributors. Issue selection and an overweight stance in asset-backed securities further enhanced performance. The sector benefited from improving marked to market valuations. Select holdings such as tobacco company Altria Group and global brewer Anheuser-Busch InBev within consumers also did well.

Over the year the manager moved the fund from a neutral to a long duration position. In the US, the fund shifted from an underweight stance to an overweight position as the manager does not expect the Fed to raise interest rates anytime soon. The long duration in Europe was retained. Among banks, the manager believes that the valuations in subordinated Lower Tier II (LT2) debt is more attractive than Senior and Tier I debt. Furthermore, the current regulations in the global markets are more supportive to LT2 issues and hence the manager is gradually moving out of Senior and Tier I debt into LT2 names. Elsewhere, the manager took profits in telecommunications companies such as Deutsche Telekom and Verizon Communications.

US High Yield Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 3,803 Million

Manager's Overview

Over the period the US high yield market was aided by strong inflows against relatively poor liquidity, successful distressed debt exchanges and an increased number of rating agencies upgrades. The market also benefited from better than anticipated earnings from the automobiles, publishing and technology industries, an increased number of IPOs which allowed some issuers to refinance their outstanding debt and Moody's forecast of a significant decline in the default rate during 2010. Spreads continued to decrease at a relatively rapid pace throughout the period as technical conditions remained favourable. As a result the lower rated CCC-to-C sector strongly outperformed the broader market.

The fund marginally underperformed its benchmark over the period. Security selection in the insurance, services and gaming industries proved detrimental to returns. An underweight stance in the homebuilding/real estate sector also hurt performance, as the sector was helped by a significant increase in credit quality and improving industry fundamentals. Conversely, issue selection in the technology, energy, chemicals and food & drugstore retailing sectors were key contributors. Within technology, the position in Freescale Semiconductor aided relative returns. Here, the issuer reported solid quarterly results that included an increase in revenues while industry fundamentals appeared to have improved.

Over the period, the holding in Clear Channel Communication, a leading radio and outdoor advertising provider, was increased. The company is positioned to capitalise on its market share position and potential restructuring opportunities. Holdings in Wind Acquisition Finance and in the Irish specialty pharmaceutical company Elan were added over the period. Elsewhere, the manager sold Hilcorp Energy due to relative valuation concerns.

Euro Cash Fund ¹

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 378 Million

Manager's Overview

The last 12 months saw a resurgence in risk appetite as low interest rates and unconventional measures from central banks continued to boost money market liquidity, and helped to reduce stress in the financial markets. The European Central Bank (ECB) left its interest rates unchanged at 1%, but in light of ongoing improvements in the financial market conditions, the ECB decided to phase out some of the extraordinary liquidity measures that were not needed to the same extent as in the past. Investors' search for higher yield coupled with expectations of an improving economy led to an increased demand for riskier assets. Consequently, the London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR) fell and yield curves shifted downwards. Risk premiums, as shown by the LIBOR-OIS (the difference between LIBOR and Overnight Index Swap rate) are now close to pre-Lehman levels.

Continued government support to the financial sector helped improve liquidity in the money markets and short term rates declined notably over the year. Earlier in the period, the fund maintained a significant exposure to issues with less than 14 days to maturity. Towards the end of the period, the exposure to short dated issues was lowered. The manager increased exposure to issues beyond the 60 day maturity mark thereby raising the weighted average maturity (WAM). This strategy improved the fund's return as the term premium on offer remained attractive in that section of the curve.

In accordance with the key aims of liquidity and capital preservation, about 25% of the underlying holdings mature within seven days. Approximately, 50% of the fund remains invested in Aa2 rated issues or higher. Commercial paper and floating rate notes are the dominant holdings within the fund. Looking ahead, the focus continues to be to target opportunities of outperformance across the yield curve, while at the same time applying a rigid credit selection process to ensure liquidity and capital preservation.

US Dollar Cash Fund ¹

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 488 Million

Manager's Overview

Demand for risky assets increased over the last 12 months amid continued lower interest rates and unconventional measures implemented by the Federal Reserve (Fed) and other central banks globally. These helped reduce stress and brought stability in the financial markets. Subsequently, investors transferred their money to higher yielding assets such as equities and corporate bonds, leading to significant outflows from money market funds. The Fed closed nearly all of its remaining special liquidity facilities in February as well as dollar swap programmes with central banks in Europe and Asia. However, in May, it announced that it would restart its emergency currency-swap tool with European central banks to prevent the continent's sovereign-debt crisis from spreading. Furthermore, the Fed repeated its pledge to keep the main interest rate near zero for an "extended period". The US dollar money market curve flattened over the year with short-term rates falling less than the longer-dated ones.

The relatively long weighted average maturity (WAM) of the fund boosted returns as yields fell at the longer end of the curve. Although the fund continues to hold a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities in accordance with the key aims of liquidity and capital preservation, exposure to issues maturing below 14 days has been reduced. The fund holds approximately 33% in securities with less-than-14 days to maturity.

Conditions in the US dollar money markets have been improving and yields in the US moved up. The curve has continued to flatten, however. The portfolio remains bulleted between 14 and 90 days to maturity, with more than 55% of the portfolio maturing within this range. The WAM of the fund increased as the holdings of longer-dated issues were raised. About 78% of the fund is invested in issues rated Aa2 or higher. Commercial paper and certificate of deposits are the dominant holdings within the fund.

MoneyBuilder Europe Fund ^{1,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 13 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities rose strongly during the period under review. Equities rebounded significantly from their March 2009 lows. Economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Financials advanced as monetary and fiscal stimulus started to take effect and risk appetite increased favouring cyclical areas including industrials and materials firms. Towards the end, worries about the fiscal position of peripheral eurozone countries, most notably Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. Financials were hit by fears about the debt crisis in peripheral economies and removal of some government stimulus. Holdings in Intesa Sanpaolo and integrated stock exchange Deutsche Boerse declined. Deutsche Boerse, however, is a high quality franchise and is likely to be re-rated. Intesa Sanpaolo has strong financing with a positive interbank position and a conservative loan to deposit ratio. On a positive note, the position in Barclays was beneficial as 2009 profits beat expectations and the capital position improved. Not holding car manufacturer Volkswagen added value to relative returns, as its shares fell after the firm agreed to acquire a stake in Porsche's automotive unit.

The fund manager continues to seek the best combination of Fidelity European equity fund managers to maximise diversification benefits whilst keeping to a tracking error between 2% and 5%. During the period, exposure to fund managers focussed on growth and small cap was raised. The underlying managers increased exposure to companies which are set to benefit from a recovery in corporate spending. They found the best ideas in the media sector, where they purchased shares in Schibsted and Virgin Media. Key overweight positions included consumer discretionary and industrials stocks.

MoneyBuilder European Bond Fund ^{1,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 4 Million

Manager's Overview

European government bonds generated positive returns over the 12 months. The period was characterised by a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and quantitative easing implemented by central banks globally. Led by financials, credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a brief flight to quality. Nevertheless, high yield bonds witnessed exceptionally strong returns, in light of increased risk appetite. Government bonds underperformed both investment grade corporate bonds and high yield bonds.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. In the Euro Bond Fund, the overweight exposure to corporate bonds coupled with favourable issue selection contributed to performance. The above-benchmark position in subordinated financials (mainly Lower Tier II) bolstered relative returns. Contributors included the Bank of America, Credit Logement and Zurich Financial Services. Furthermore, the overweight stance in asset-backed securities (ABS) buoyed returns amid improving marked to market valuations. In the European High Yield Fund, holdings in the ABS and telecommunications sectors enhanced relative performance.

Over the period, the manager slightly raised exposure to the European High Yield Fund in light of a return of risk appetite. The European High Yield Fund remained underweight financials and the manager continued to focus heavily on bond selection. There was a shift to an overweight position within emerging markets by adding names such as Bank of Moscow. In the Euro Bond Fund, the manager moved from an overweight position to an underweight stance in financials towards the end of the period. Risks in credit sectors such as telecommunications, utilities and consumers were trimmed.

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 19 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, supported by signs of continued improvement in the world economy and better than expected corporate results. In the later part of the period, monetary tightening in China and proposals for tough new regulations in the financial sector weakened sentiment. Investors also worried about sovereign credit risk in peripheral European economies after credit ratings of several countries were downgraded. Against this backdrop, equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in euro terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund outperformed its benchmark largely due to the impact of security selection. Notably, in the US segment of the portfolio, security selection in the telecommunications sector was rewarding, as was an underweight position in ExxonMobil which reported disappointing relative growth. In the European portion, stock picking among energy firms proved beneficial to returns. Below-benchmark exposure to Volkswagen, whose shares fell after the firm agreed to acquire a stake in Porsche's automotive unit, also added value. Holdings in selected electrical machinery firms and low exposure to the utilities sector supported relative returns from the Japanese segment. In emerging markets, stock picking in the telecommunications, energy and materials sectors buoyed performance. Security selection in the Asian markets was also beneficial. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards Asian and emerging markets added value, as did the underweight positions in Europe and Japan. However, the below-benchmark position in the US detracted from returns.

Early in the review period, the manager increased holdings in Asian and emerging markets which benefited from strong domestic fundamentals and demand for commodities. The exposure to the defensive US market was scaled back. Towards the end, as expectations of a slowdown in global growth gained ground, the manager pared the positions in emerging markets and added to the US holdings. Over the period, an underweight stance in Europe was maintained as this area tends to underperform in phases of global economic recovery.

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed all major government bond markets over the last one year. The review period was characterised by a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and unconventional measures implemented by the central banks globally. These helped reduce stress and brought stability in the financial markets. Subsequently credit spreads narrowed significantly to pre-Lehman levels. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to the sovereign debt concerns in the peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. This led to a brief flight to quality. Nevertheless, over the period, high yield and emerging market bonds witnessed strong returns. A progressive improvement in investor sentiment propelled global equities higher.

The fund delivered positive returns over the period. Within the global fixed income portion, the positioning in banks and insurance companies, in particular subordinated Lower Tier II and Tier I issues boosted relative returns. Holdings in Lloyds TSB Bank, Bank of America, Barclays Bank and insurance firm Eureko were key contributors. In the European equities section, financials were hurt by fears over the debt crisis in peripheral economies and removal of some government stimulus. In the US equity section, stock selection in the energy and consumer discretionary sectors enhanced overall returns. The exposure to Asia Pacific equities, notably the stance in Australia and Indonesia boosted overall returns. Conversely, exposure to property and commodities eroded value.

Within the fixed income portion, the manager remained overweight in credit relative to its benchmark but trimmed some positions where less upside potential was seen. Within equities, the fund is positioned to benefit from growth in the US due to expectations of continued improvement in consumer confidence. The exposure to Japan was also increased. Positioning in Asia Pacific ex Japan region was marginally reduced in view of rising risk of inflation in China. The manager has decreased the allocation to Europe as the recent sovereign debt crisis takes a toll on investor confidence.

A progressive improvement in investor sentiment propelled global equities higher.

The fund delivered positive returns over the period. In the global fixed income portion, the fund's overweight exposure to banks and insurance companies, in particular, subordinated Lower Tier II and Tier I issues boosted relative returns. Holdings in Lloyds TSB Bank, Bank of America, Barclays Bank and insurance firm Eureko were key contributors. Security selection coupled with an overweight position in the asset-backed securities sector further proved beneficial. In the US equities section, stock selection in the energy and consumer discretionary sector also enhanced overall returns. The exposure to Asia Pacific equities, notably the stance in Australia and Indonesia boosted overall returns. In the European equities section, financials were hit by fears about the debt crisis in peripheral economies.

As the fund moves towards the target date, it will continue to increase allocation to cash while reducing weighting in equities. Within equities the allocation to North American equities was increased as the recovery appears to be gaining particular traction there with key indicators such as unemployment rate and housing showing signs of stability. The preference for emerging markets remains due to strong domestic consumption with recovery in exports given improvements in the Western economies.

Fidelity Target™ 2020 Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 39 Million

Manager's Overview

A progressive improvement in investor sentiment propelled global equities higher. There was evidence of stabilisation in US labour and housing markets and GDP acceleration in the US and Asia. Investors began to voluntarily take on risk, as they were heartened by thawing credit markets, signs of economic recovery and solid corporate results. The prevailing artificially low interest rates and fiscal stimulus disbursements created a surge of liquidity, which also supported stocks. Businesses initially banked on significant cost cutting to support margins. Subsequent inventory restocking activity and an improving demand environment enabled them to continue beating earnings forecasts.

The fund marginally underperformed its benchmark over the period. Security selection in Japan and North America contributed significantly to returns. Among Asia Pacific ex Japan equities, the stance in Australia and Indonesia boosted overall returns. High conviction positions in Australia's industrial and financial companies, such as the online job search company Seek and Commonwealth Bank of Australia buoyed performance. The allocation to European equities enhanced returns. Here, stock selection in the health care and consumer discretionary sectors added value. Within the US equities portion, stock selection in the energy and materials sectors was favourable. Positive drilling updates boosted the off-benchmark holding in Pacific Rubiales Energy.

Within equities, the manager has positioned the fund to benefit from growth in the US amid expectations of continued improvement in consumer confidence, underpinned by an improvement in the job market. Exposure to Japan has also been increased. Positioning in Asia Pacific ex Japan region was marginally reduced in view of rising risk of inflation in China. Additionally, the manager has decreased the allocation to Europe as the recent sovereign debt crisis takes a toll on investor confidence and has resulted in other economic indicators showing signs of weakness. The manager has reduced the exposure to commodities in view of slowing global growth momentum.

Fidelity Target™ 2010 (Euro) Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 41 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, outperforming bonds and cash, supported by signs of continued improvement in the world economy. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a dip in risk appetite. Against this backdrop, European government bonds generated positive returns but underperformed both investment grade corporate bonds and high yield bonds. Equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in euro terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The outperformance was largely due to the impact of security selection in the fixed income segment which constitutes the largest portion of the portfolio. Here, overweight exposure to subordinated financials coupled with favourable issue selection contributed to returns, as did an above-benchmark position in asset-backed securities. The impact was, however, weakened by security selection in the European equity portion. Selected holdings in materials and media firms hampered performance. In terms of asset allocation, the portfolio's bias towards equities and an underweight stance in cash was beneficial to returns. An above-benchmark position in bonds detracted from returns.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2010. During the period, in keeping with the fund's objective, the manager shifted the portfolio to a more defensive stance. Exposure to cash and short term securities issued by highly rated eurozone countries was enhanced, and equity holdings were reduced. The equity portion was restructured, shifting the focus away from regional stock picking towards global best ideas. Among the asset classes, a preference for equities was maintained based on expectations that economic recovery and positive earnings revisions could support riskier assets in the near term.

In the Asian portion, positions in technology firms were favourable. Selected holdings in materials and media firms hampered the performance of the European portion. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards equities at the expense of bonds was beneficial to relative returns.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2020. During the period, in keeping with the fund's objective, the manager shifted the portfolio to a more defensive stance. Exposure to bonds was enhanced and equity holdings were reduced. The manager retained the preference for equities over bonds based on expectations that economic recovery and positive earnings revisions could support riskier assets in the near term.

Fidelity Target™ 2025 (Euro) Fund ⁴

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 90 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, outperforming bonds, supported by signs of continued improvement in the world economy. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in the peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a dip in risk appetite. Against this backdrop, European government bonds generated positive returns but underperformed both investment grade corporate bonds and high yield bonds. Equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in euro terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund performed in line with its benchmark over the period. Security selection in the fixed income segment was beneficial to performance. Here, an overweight exposure to subordinated financials coupled with favourable issue selection contributed to returns, as did an above-benchmark position in asset-backed securities. Stock selection in most of the regional equity portfolios also supported relative returns. In the US, stock picking in the telecommunications and energy sectors was rewarding. Holdings in selected electrical machinery firms added value to the Japanese segment, as did below-benchmark exposure to the utilities sector. In the Asian portion, positions in technology firms were favourable. Selected holdings in materials and media firms hampered the performance of the European portion. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards equities at the expense of bonds was beneficial to relative returns.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2025. During the review period, in keeping with the fund's objective, the manager shifted the portfolio to a more defensive stance. Exposure to bonds was enhanced and equity holdings were reduced. The manager retained a preference for equities over bonds based on expectations that economic recovery and positive earnings revisions could support riskier assets in the near term.

Fidelity Target™ 2030 (Euro) Fund ⁴

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 45 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and better than expected corporate results. In the later part of the period, monetary tightening in China and proposals for tough new regulations in the financial sector weakened sentiment. Investors also worried about sovereign credit risk in peripheral European economies after credit ratings of several countries were downgraded. Against this backdrop, equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in euro terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period, largely due to the impact of security selection in the European segment, the largest portion of the portfolio. Here, selected holdings in construction materials and media firms hampered performance, as did below-benchmark exposure to mining firms. Conversely, stock picking in the other regional equity segments supported relative returns. In the US, stock selection in the telecommunications and energy sectors was rewarding. Holdings in selected electrical machinery firms added value to the Japanese segment, as did below-benchmark exposure to the utilities sector. In the Asian portion, positions in technology firms were favourable. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards Asia ex Japan and emerging market equities was beneficial, but the underweight stance in the US hampered relative returns.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2030. During the period, in keeping with the fund's objective, the manager added to the portfolio's small bond exposure. Within equities, the manager retained a bias towards emerging markets and Asia ex Japan over other areas such as the US.

Live 2020 Fund 1,4,5

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: SGD 8 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period as signs of continued improvement in the global economy coupled with better than expected corporate results, provided support. In the later part of the period, monetary tightening in China and proposals for tough new regulations in the financial sector weakened sentiment. Investors also worried about sovereign credit risk in peripheral European economies after credit ratings of several countries were downgraded. Within equity markets, Singapore and emerging markets rose the most in Singapore dollar terms. They were followed by markets in the Pacific, North America and Europe.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period, largely due to the impact of security selection. In the Pacific segment, stock picking in software & services and transportation firms was notably rewarding to relative performance. In the Japanese portion, holdings in certain electrical machinery firms added value, as did the below-benchmark exposure to the utilities sector. Selected holdings in media and health care firms supported the performance of the European portion. In the US segment, security selection in energy firms and diversified financials was favourable. Stock picking in the emerging market segment was a positive influence too. Here, telecommunications, energy and materials companies supported performance.

Towards the end of the period, as expectations of a slowdown in global growth gained ground, the manager added to positions in the defensive US market. Holdings in emerging and Asian markets, which are expected to be supported by robust domestic demand, were increased. Conversely, exposure to Europe, which tends to lag other areas during recovery, was scaled back.

The Live 2020 Fund is a life-cycle product and is designed to optimise asset allocation over the life of the product. The initial portfolio is made up 100% of equities and this will gradually decrease so that the fund has a more balanced asset allocation in the future.

Manager's Overview

Major asset classes ended the period higher as signs of continued improvement in the global economy coupled with better than expected corporate results provided support. Over the last 12 months, equities generated the highest returns, followed by commodities. Bonds and cash lagged as risk appetite improved. Within equity markets, Singapore and emerging markets rose the most in Singapore dollar terms. They were followed by markets in the Pacific, North America and Europe. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in the peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period, largely due to security selection in the fixed income segment. Here, overweight exposure to subordinated financials coupled with favourable issue selection contributed to returns, as did an above-benchmark position in asset-backed securities. The equity portion added value too. In the portfolio's Asian segment, stock picking in software & services and transportation firms was notably rewarding to relative performance. Selected holdings in media and health care firms supported the performance of the European portion. In the US segment, security selection in energy firms and diversified financials added value. Stock picking in the emerging market and Japanese segments was a positive influence too.

Over the period the view on global growth became very positive and the manager increased holdings in equities and commodities which tend to outperform bonds and cash during phases of economic expansion. Within equities, there is a bias towards the US, Asian and emerging markets over Europe, which tends to lag other regions during recovery. Over the year to April 2010, two payouts were made to investors; one in August 2009 and one in February 2010.

The FF Live Today Fund is part of the FF Live "life-cycle" funds and aims to achieve a combination of income and long-term capital growth. It typically invests in a wide range of assets covering markets throughout the world and providing exposure to bonds, equities, commodities and cash. The manager can opportunistically deviate from the benchmark.

FAWF America Fund ^{1,4,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 80 Million

Manager's Overview

A resurgent appetite for risk combined with improving corporate and economic fundamentals pushed US equities higher. Businesses initially protected their margins through extensive operating cost cutting and increased productivity. This set the stage for better-than-expected earnings especially once inventory restocking activity started. Nevertheless, overall consumption levels remained low and the unemployment rate reached multi-decade highs. Encouragingly, the tailwind from low interest rates and government stimulus spending helped the economy return to growth. Improved transaction activity and prices started to build the base for recovery in the housing sector while labour market leading indicators pointed to future improvements.

The fund generated strong returns over the period. Positions in Microsoft, SanDisk and Cisco Systems benefited as investors favoured technology stocks. Such companies offer stable earnings, good long-term growth prospects, robust free cash flows, strong balance sheets and experienced managements with proven track records. Meanwhile, improving sentiment towards the financial sector buoyed holdings in Bank of America, PNC Financial Services and Wells Fargo. Elsewhere, exposure to bid targets lent support. Consumer health care products business Chattem was acquired by Sanofi-Aventis. Power tool manufacturer Black & Decker benefited from improving housing transaction activity and prices and merged with The Stanley Works.

Initially, the manager focused on early cyclical areas such as logistics and home-related names which were expected to benefit from economic stabilisation. Stocks such as Take-Two Interactive Software that were more insulated from the economy were bought. Additionally, Dell and Ingersoll-Rand were acquired; their lean cost structures left them well placed to surpass the earnings expectations. The manager found value in many high-return, good-growth businesses. Towards the end, the fund held many technology names that had robust growth prospects.

FAWF American Diversified Fund ^{1,4,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 5 Million

Manager's Overview

A resurgent appetite for risk combined with improving corporate and economic fundamentals drove US equities higher. Businesses protected their margins by undertaking extensive operating cost cutting and increasing productivity. This set the stage for better-than-expected earnings announcements, especially once inventory restocking activity started and consumer spending improved. However, overall consumption levels remained low and the unemployment rate reached multi-decade highs, raising questions about sustainability of the recovery. Encouragingly, the tailwind from low interest rates and government stimulus spending helped the economy return to growth and clear signs of revival were seen in the housing sector.

The fund generated robust returns over the review period. Holdings in information technology firms made a noteworthy contribution in light of renewed corporate technology spending. The position in Microsoft added value; the software firm delivered robust quarterly profits reflecting strong demand coupled with effective cost controls, and launched its latest operating system Windows 7. Healthy sales and enthusiasm about the launch of the iPad supported the exposure to Apple. Meanwhile, a new position in SanDisk contributed to returns as its earnings exceeded analyst estimates amid renewed demand for flash memory products. A holding in Wells Fargo underpinned returns in light of the bank returning to profits and surpassing quarterly earnings estimates, aided by improvements in net interest income. Telecommunications services provider NII Holdings delivered robust results that highlighted its healthy margins and strong free cash flow growth.

At the end of April, technology positions represented the biggest allocation at a sector level, with equal weighting between hardware manufacturers and software companies. Among the former, the holding in Dell was increased and Seagate Technology was added. Diversified financials are also well-represented in the portfolio, where a new position in Morgan Stanley was purchased.

FAWF American Growth Fund ^{1,4,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 62 Million

Manager's Overview

A resurgent appetite for risk combined with improving corporate and economic fundamentals pushed US equities higher. Businesses initially protected their margins by undertaking extensive operational cost cutting and increasing productivity. This set the stage for better-than-expected earnings especially once inventory restocking activity started. Nevertheless, overall consumption levels remained low and the unemployment rate reached multi-decade highs. Encouragingly, the tailwind from low interest rates and government stimulus spending helped the economy return to growth. Improved transaction activity and prices started to build the base for recovery in the housing sector while labour market leading indicators pointed to future improvements.

The fund generated strong returns over the period. Investors favoured technology stocks as they offered good long-term growth prospects and provided exposure to companies with robust free cash flows, strong balance sheets and experienced managements. Against this backdrop, exposure to Microsoft, Intel and Cisco Systems contributed to returns. Meanwhile, improving sentiment towards the financial sector buoyed holdings such as JPMorgan Chase, Franklin Resources and US Bancorp. Elsewhere, better-than-expected results stemming from sales growth and margin improvements buoyed the position in Estee Lauder Companies. Similarly, recovering housing transaction activity and prices supported power tool manufacturer Black & Decker's stock. This position also received a boost after it received a bid from The Stanley Works which led to a merger.

The fund has a bias towards cyclical holdings in industrials, materials, information technology and oil services companies. During the period, many US financial sector positions that had performed well were sold following the sharp rally. Similarly, strong appreciation prompted the manager to reduce consumer discretionary holdings such as Gap and Urban Outfitters. Positions in Abercrombie & Fitch and Coach, which are benefiting from international expansion, were added.

FAWF Asian Special Situations Fund 1,4,5

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 130 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, equities in the Asia Pacific ex Japan region fell in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral European countries and monetary tightening in the region. In subsequent months, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The consumer discretionary and information technology sectors were in the vanguard driven by strong consumption growth. Materials producers gained because of strong demand in China and other emerging markets with expanding infrastructure spending.

The fund generated positive absolute gains over the period, largely attributed to holdings in financials and information technology stocks. Incidentally, the top five performers were technology stocks, including electronic equipment manufacturers that were buoyed by a recovery in overseas demand. The stake in Chinese internet messaging firm Tencent Holdings was the single largest contributor over the period, owing to increasing monetisation of its services and popularity of its products. Chinese banks also proved rewarding; these stocks rose as loan growth remained strong and, compared to western banks, the level of defaults remained relatively low. Meanwhile, holdings in telecommunications and utilities hurt returns. The positions in Korean construction firms also held back gains but the manager continues to hold these stocks due to potential recovery in overseas orders.

Against the backdrop of receding unemployment and higher consumer confidence, the fund is positioned to take advantage of the healthy domestic demand in the region. Consequently, the manager enhanced exposure to the consumer discretionary space, partly by purchasing shares in automobile firms such as Kia Motors and Indonesia-based Astra International. Global merchandise distributor Li & Fung and its subsidiary Trinity were also bought. Online media firm Sina and Jusung Engineering were among the prominent entries in the technology sector.

FAWF Europe Fund 1,4,5

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 55 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year, economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Towards the end, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund intervened to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund generated positive returns over the year under review with the largest contributions coming from industrials, consumer staples and financials. Key industrials stocks in the portfolio benefited from their improving outlooks. Energy management specialist Schneider Electric advanced due to hopes of recovery in its low-voltage and industrial control operations. Cost cutting helped Philips Electronics and aerospace and defence group Meggitt. Experian, a leader in consumer and business credit reporting and marketing services for organisations, continued with its positive performance as it gained market share and investors became less worried about credit growth. Within consumer staples, UK food retailer Tesco published healthy full year results and rose steadily. In financials, the main contributing holding was AXA, whose equity linked products had a positive mix effect on its earnings and the stock rose with markets recovering over the review period.

The fund has a diversified sector approach. Within financials, the position in DnB NOR was sold in favour of better ideas. The manager bought attractively valued Munich Re, which will benefit from consolidation in the re-insurance industry. Among consumer discretionary firms, the manager decreased exposure to Reed Elsevier and acquired Pearson, an educational publisher with a growing market share in North America, where stimulus measures have not yet fed through to schools.

FAWF International Fund ^{1,4,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 50 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and better than expected corporate results. In the later part of the period, monetary policy tightening in China and proposals for tough new regulations in the financial sector weakened sentiment. Investors also worried about sovereign credit risk in peripheral European economies after credit ratings of several countries were downgraded. Against this backdrop, equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in US dollar terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund generated positive returns over the period. Security selection in the US portion was beneficial to performance. Here, stock picking in the telecommunications and energy sectors was supportive. Notably, an underweight position in ExxonMobil was rewarding as the integrated oil major reported disappointing relative growth. Holdings in selected electrical machinery firms added value to the Japanese segment, as did relatively low exposure to the defensive utilities sector. In the Asian portion, individual positions in electronics and professional services firms were notably beneficial. However, the impact was partially offset by stock picking in the European segment where low exposure to mining stocks and selected holdings in media firms, such as Eniro detracted from returns. Exposure to Eniro was reduced after the firm posted weak results and a gloomy forecast for 2010.

The manager retained a preference for Asian and emerging markets at the expense of developed markets, notably Europe, over the period. Asian and emerging markets benefited from strong domestic fundamentals and demand for commodities. Moreover, emerging markets tend to outperform other regions during periods of improving global growth, whereas Europe tends to underperform in phases of global economic recovery.

FAWF Japan Fund ^{1,4,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 2 Million

Manager's Overview

An unprecedented fiscal and monetary policy response to the global financial crisis successfully stabilised global economies, and most major equity markets including Japan rose over the year. In Japan, cyclical stocks in the technology and materials sectors registered solid gains against a backdrop of growing confidence in the global economic recovery. In contrast, financial stocks struggled due to concerns about capital adequacy and dilution risks from equity financing deals, while much-publicised problems at Japan Airlines and Toyota Motor weighed heavily upon their respective industries.

The fund posted strong absolute returns over the period. A cyclical upswing driven by inventory restocking and signs of stability in some economic indicators supported a recovery in technology stocks, which had fallen sharply in the aftermath of the Lehman shock. Holdings in technology exporters including Canon, Nippon Electric Glass, Yaskawa Electric, Nitto Denko and Nikon registered sizeable gains. However, holdings in automobile exporters fell sharply in response to the extensive product recalls at Toyota Motor, and exposure to financials, many of which remained under pressure from concerns about capital adequacy risk, partially offset relative returns.

While the upswing in economic and corporate fundamentals is set to continue, valuations in external demand-related stocks have started to look a bit stretched. Some auto-related holdings including Yamaha Motor and NGK Insulators were sold and positions trimmed in Toyota Motor, Stanley Electric, and Sumitomo Electric. The manager also took some profits in technology exporters that had posted significant gains since the beginning of 2009. Meanwhile, the manager shifted weights to domestic names that had lagged the post-Lehman rally, with particular emphasis on undervalued financials and retailers. Within financials, the fund is focused on insurance companies such as T&D holdings and NKSJ Holdings based on their reduced equity risk and low price-to-earnings multiple. The fund's positions in major banking groups Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group and Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group was raised over the period.

FAWF Pacific Fund ^{1,4,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 58 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, gains in equities in the Pacific region slowed in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in the eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region. In subsequent months, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The information technology and materials sectors were in the vanguard driven by strong domestic consumption growth. Financials stocks rose as loan growth remained strong and, compared to western banks, the level of defaults remained relatively low. Materials producers gained because of strong demand in China and other emerging markets which expanded public spending in infrastructure.

The fund performed strongly over the year. At a country level, stock selection proved supportive in Japan, Singapore, Australia, India, and China. At a sector level, holdings in industrials, consumer discretionary and information technology companies boosted performance. Among information technology, Japan-based Digital Garage was the single largest contributor. Its strategy to expand domestic customer base and its new partnership with Twitter were applauded by investors. A position in air freight and logistics company Goodpack boosted returns as rising international trade is expected to have boosted earnings. Conversely, a position in Japanese consumer finance company Promise eroded value as the negative sentiment surrounding consumer finance companies in the third quarter, due to concerns over the new government's policy on tighter industry regulations, spurred a sell-off in the sector.

Rising internet penetration, increasing domestic consumption, and capital spending in long-term infrastructure across the region are the themes reflecting in the fund's positions in the information technology, industrials, and consumer discretionary sectors. The manager has reduced the exposure to financials, but continues to see attractive opportunities in select stocks such as the oversold Japanese consumer finance company ORIX and property and casualty insurance group Fuji Fire and Marine.

FAWF US Large-Cap Stock Fund ^{1,4,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 49 Million

Manager's Overview

A resurgent appetite for risk combined with improving corporate and economic fundamentals pushed US equities higher. Businesses initially protected their margins through extensive operating cost cutting and increased productivity. This set the stage for better-than-expected earnings especially once inventory restocking activity started. Nevertheless, overall consumption levels remained low and the unemployment rate reached multi-decade highs. Encouragingly, the tailwind from low interest rates and government stimulus spending helped the economy return to growth. Improved transaction activity and prices started to build the base for recovery in the housing sector while labour market leading indicators pointed to future improvements.

The fund generated strong returns over the period. Positions in Microsoft, SanDisk and Cisco Systems benefited as investors favoured technology stocks. Such companies offer stable earnings, good long-term growth prospects, robust free cash flows, strong balance sheets and experienced managements with proven track records. Meanwhile, improving sentiment towards the financial sector buoyed holdings in Bank of America, PNC Financial Services and Wells Fargo. Elsewhere, exposure to bid targets lent support. Consumer health care products business Chattem was acquired by Sanofi-Aventis. Power tool manufacturer Black & Decker benefited from improving housing transaction activity and prices and merged with The Stanley Works.

Initially, the manager focused on early cyclical areas such as logistics and home-related names which were expected to benefit from economic stabilisation. Stocks such as Take-Two Interactive Software that were more insulated from the economy were bought. Additionally, positions in Dell and Ingersoll-Rand were acquired; their lean cost structures left them well placed to surpass earnings expectations. The manager found value in many high-returns, good-growth businesses. Towards the end of the period, the fund held many technology names that had robust growth prospects.

FAWF US Dollar Bond Fund ^{1,4,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 7 Million

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed US government bond markets over the period amid signs that the global economy may be improving. Credit markets benefited from a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of continued lower interest rates and unconventional measures implemented by the Federal Reserve (Fed) and other central banks. These helped reduce stress and brought stability in the financial markets. Subsequently, equities rose and credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors and regions to pre-Lehman levels. Financials, particularly subordinated debt, led the gains. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to the Greek sovereign debt concerns which led to a brief flight to quality to safer havens such as US Treasuries.

The fund generated strong returns over the period. The exposure to credit including the holdings in Senior and subordinated Lower Tier II financials boosted returns. Insurance company Zurich Finance, UBS and Bank of America were key contributors. Security selection and exposure to asset-backed securities further enhanced performance. The sector benefited from improving marked to market valuations. Select holdings such as tobacco company Altria Group and global brewer Anheuser-Busch InBev within consumers also did well.

Over the year, the manager moved the fund from a neutral to a long duration position. In the US, the manager shifted from a short to a long position as the Fed is not expected to raise interest rates anytime soon. The long duration in Europe was retained. Among banks, the manager believes that the valuations in subordinated Lower Tier II (LT2) debt are more attractive compared to Senior and Tier I debt. Furthermore, the current regulations in the global markets are more supportive to LT2 issues and hence the fund is gradually moving out of Senior and Tier I debt into LT2 names. Elsewhere, profits were taken in telecommunications companies such as Deutsche Telekom and Verizon Communications.

FAWF US High Income Fund ^{1,4,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 106 Million

Manager's Overview

Over the period the US high yield market was aided by strong inflows against relatively poor liquidity, successful distressed debt exchanges and an increased number of rating agencies upgrades. The market also benefited from better than anticipated earnings from the auto, publishing and technology industries ,and an increased number of IPOs which allowed some issuers to refinance their outstanding debt and Moody's forecast of a significant decline in the default rate during 2010. Spreads continued to decrease at a relatively rapid pace throughout the period as technical conditions remained favourable. As a result the lower rated CCC-to-C sector strongly outperformed the broader market.

The fund generated strong returns over the period. Issue selection in the technology, energy, chemicals and food & drugstore retailing sectors were key contributors. Within the technology sector, the position in Freescale Semiconductor aided returns. Here, the issuer reported solid quarterly results that included an increase in revenues while industry fundamentals appeared to have improved. The position in commercial finance company CIT Group further added value as the company reduced its debt burden and reported an improved liquidity position. Conversely, security selection in the insurance, services and gaming industries proved detrimental to returns.

Over the period, the holding in Clear Channel Communications, a leading radio and outdoor advertising provider, was increased. The company is positioned to capitalise on its leading market share position and potential restructuring opportunities. Holdings in Wind Acquisition Finance and in Irish specialty pharmaceutical company Elan were added over the period. Elsewhere, the manager sold Hilcorp Energy due to relative valuation concerns.

FAWF Global Balanced Fund ^{1,4,5}

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 18 Million

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose sharply over the last 12 months, outperforming bonds, supported by signs of continued improvement in the world economy. Within the fixed income segment, all major government bond markets underperformed investment grade and high yield corporate bonds as risk appetite improved. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Against this backdrop, equities in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets rose the most in US dollar terms, followed by those in the UK, the US, Europe ex UK and Japan.

The fund generated positive returns over the period. Security selection in the fixed income portion contributed significantly to performance. Here, exposure to the banking and insurance sectors, in particular, subordinated Lower Tier II and Tier I issues buoyed returns. Holdings in asset-backed securities also proved beneficial amid improving market valuations. Stock picking in the regional equity segments added value too. In the initial part of the review period, as global growth improved, the manager shifted the portfolio's stance from defensive to aggressive. Enhancing positions in equity, real estate and commodities supported performance, as did scaling back exposure to bonds. Within equities, adding to Pacific ex Japan and emerging market holdings was beneficial. At the sector level, increasing exposure to industrial, technology and financial stocks and paring holdings in the defensive healthcare and consumer sectors was rewarding.

Towards the end of the period, the manager shifted to a less aggressive stance in view of expectations that the pace of global growth would slow. Exposure to equities and commodities was reduced, but positions were added in bonds. At the regional level, exposure to Europe ex UK and emerging markets was scaled back and that to the defensive US market was increased. Within Europe, the manager added a position in Germany. At the sector level, holdings in financials were trimmed, but exposure to the consumer and real estate sectors which are expected to do well later in the economic cycle, was enhanced.

Institutional America Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 120 Million

Manager's Overview

A resurgent appetite for risk combined with improving corporate and economic fundamentals drove US equities higher. Businesses protected their margins by undertaking extensive operating cost cutting and increasing productivity. This set the stage for better-than-expected earnings announcements, especially once inventory restocking activity started and consumer spending improved. However, overall consumption levels remained low and the unemployment rate reached multi-decade highs, raising questions about sustainability of the recovery. Encouragingly, the tailwind from low interest rates and government stimulus spending helped the economy return to growth and clear signs of revival were seen in the housing sector.

The fund marginally underperformed its benchmark. An underweight holding in Apple weakened relative returns, as investors focused on its healthy sales and enthusiasm about the launch of the iPad. Exposure to Nuance Communications, which specialises in speech-recognition software, detracted from performance due to a short term decline in revenues, and the stock underperformed the broader sector. The overweight position in Baxter International came under pressure following a cut in its full-year profit forecast for 2010 owing to costs associated with health care reforms and a weaker market for its plasma protein therapies. While lacklustre guidance for 2010 held back shares in Pfizer, this holding was increased due to its attractive valuation. On a positive note, stock selection in telecommunications service providers added value. Mobile operator NII Holdings, delivered robust results that highlighted its healthy margins and strong free cash flows. Underweight positions in Verizon Communications and AT&T proved beneficial as intensified competition and pricing pressures weighed on their revenue growth.

The fund has overweight exposure to information technology firms, in particular hardware equipment manufacturers that will benefit from a rebound in corporate spending. Here, exposure to Dell was increased and new positions in SanDisk and hard drive maker Seagate Technology were added. Food retailing firms and health care equipment and services providers are other key overweight positions.

Institutional Asia Pacific (ex-Japan) Fund ¹

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 35 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, equities in the Asia Pacific ex Japan region fell in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region. In subsequent months, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The consumer discretionary sector in particular performed well driven by strong domestic consumption growth. Financial stocks rose as loan growth remained robust and compared to western banks, the level of defaults remained relatively low. Exporters, notably electronic equipment manufacturers, were buoyed by a recovery in overseas demand.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The positive stance towards information technology and consumer discretionary stocks supported gains. Stimulus-led demand held up gains in Pacific Textile Holdings and household durables retailer GOME Electrical Appliances Holdings. A position in internet messaging firm Tencent Holdings and search engine Baidu proved beneficial. Investors valued increased monetisation of services at the former and the latter benefited from Google's exit from mainland China. Solid security selection in the industrials and energy sectors also proved rewarding. Partially tempering these gains was the positioning in semiconductor firms and the underweight stance towards consumer staples.

John Lo took over management of the fund in mid-February. He reduced the portfolio's holdings range to 70-90, compared to the previous manager's 100-150 range. The fund is significantly overweight in the consumer discretionary and staples sectors, both stand to benefit from strong domestic demand in the region. Over the period, footwear companies Belle International and China Dongxiang were added along with certain beverage producers. The overweight allocation to information technology stocks was enhanced by purchasing electric car and battery manufacturer BYD Company, financials service software provider Computershare and communications equipment producer ZTE among others.

Institutional Asia Pacific (ex-Japan) Opportunities Fund ¹

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 87 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, equities in the Asia Pacific ex Japan region fell in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region. In subsequent months, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The consumer discretionary sector in particular performed well driven by strong domestic consumption growth. Financial stocks rose as loan growth remained robust and compared to western banks, the level of defaults remained relatively low. Exporters, notably electronic equipment manufacturers, were buoyed by a recovery in overseas demand.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, largely owing to solid security selection in consumer discretionary and information technology names. In particular, Indonesia-based automobile manufacturer Astra International benefited from brisk vehicle sales and Hyundai Motor contributed amid gains in market share. A position in Lenovo Group boosted performance as overseas shipments improved, while Chinese search engine Baidu proved rewarding following Google's exit from China. Conversely, a lack of exposure to Commonwealth Bank of Australia and underweight positions in Westpac Banking and National Australia Bank detracted from returns as the sector was buoyed by strong growth and improving business confidence.

The manager enhanced the portfolio's exposure to the information technology sector as Asia-made products continue to gain global market share. Notably, a position in Taiwan-based notebook producer Hon Hai Precision Industry was added due to attractive valuations. A stake in India's software and IT service provider Infosys Technologies is held in light of the firm's dominant position in the growing market for outsourcing. Allocation to the industrials sector was increased and the manager favoured container-related services companies based on expectations that the container shipping sector will bottom out. The portfolio has moved to an underweight stance towards defensive sectors including consumer staples, health care and telecommunications.

Institutional Emerging Markets Equity Fund ¹

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 105 Million

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities recorded strong gains over the review period, despite some intermittent phases of risk aversion, prompted first by postponement of debt repayment in Dubai, and later, fears of a sovereign debt default in Greece. Inflationary pressures also began to surface in leading emerging economies amid rapidly growing levels of personal consumption, and a surge in investment and manufacturing activity. In response, Chinese policymakers took the first steps to slow the pace of domestic lending, chiefly through administrative measures. In spite of the negative headwinds, shares consumer discretionary retailers rallied.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the review period. Stock selection in materials proved rewarding with overweight positions in low-cost Russian steel producers Evraz Group and Mechel and Indian firm JSW Steel benefiting from robust metal prices. Holdings in Asian automobile manufacturers Geely Auto Holdings, Astra International and Hyundai Mobis gained in tandem with automobile sales, boosted by government scrappage schemes. Underexposure to the telecommunications sector aided relative performance as defensive sectors lagged the overall market during the recovery. Nevertheless, an overweight position in South African mobile operator MTN Group detracted from performance following regulatory changes, increased competition in key markets and the departure of its CEO.

The manager is seeking to benefit from changing consumption trends in emerging markets, notably China and Africa. Here, a position in China's second largest carrier, Air China, was purchased and the exposure to Hong Kong-based fashion retailer Ports Design was increased. The fund is underweight in consumer staples, which was reaffirmed through the reduction in exposure to food producer Gruma. The energy sector underweight was increased as Russian majors Rosneft and Gazprom were sold in the first quarter of 2010. Within materials, the manager favours platinum, gold and beneficiaries of Chinese demand for coking coal. The latter includes Mechel, the Russian low-cost steel producer, which has significant coking coal reserves.

Institutional Euro Blue Chip Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 93 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Towards the end of the period, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period as the stock selection was rewarded. With investors starting to focus on earnings delivery, major industrials and consumer discretionary holdings contributed. A new position in aerospace and defence group Safran gained due to the forecast of further cost improvements. The manager sold Randstad after the stock advanced amid expectations of a pick up in temporary staff hiring, its key business. Additionally, a cautious stance in Volkswagen supported relative returns as the stock suffered due to news related to Porsche. Some insurers and banks with exposure to peripheral eurozone economies facing sovereign debt concerns were among key detractors from returns. An underweight position in Daimler undermined relative performance due to its improving business mix and cost reduction. However, the manager prefers other names in the sector.

Although health care exposure was reduced over the period as the manager found better investments in other sectors, it remains a key overweight area. The manager found more opportunities in consumer discretionary and industrials firms. Within the former, luxury goods firm LVMH, the owner of leading brands that are expected to gain market share faster in emerging economies, was added. The manager continues to find fewer ideas among telecommunications firms, where the underweight stance was increased by moving out of France Telecom, which faces competitive pressures.

Institutional European Larger Companies Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 65 Million

Manager's Overview

European equities recorded robust returns as stocks rebounded significantly from the lows reached in March 2009. Over the year economic data became increasingly encouraging and corporate results turned relatively positive. Interest rates reached record lows and quantitative easing measures continued, although central banks started to tighten the liquidity support later in the period. Towards the end of the period, worries about fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Spain and Portugal, undermined sentiment. European nations and the International Monetary Fund agreed to provide support to quell some fears over the spread of the debt crisis.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the year under review. The market environment remained focused on the cyclical areas that have performed well in the recovery, such as mining, where an underweight position detracted from returns. Key holdings in consumer discretionary, financials and technology firms declined as their solid fundamentals were not rewarded. Franking machine firm Neopost posted reasonable results, but suffered from its defensive profile, which gave the manager the opportunity to buy more shares. Elsewhere, increasing infrastructure spending augurs well for CRH, which underperformed due to a tough construction environment. However, selected industrials benefited from their improving outlooks; cost cutting helped Philips Electronics and aerospace and defence group Meggitt.

The fund has a diversified sector approach and not many changes were made at a sector level. The fund retains an underweight exposure to financials, where DnB NOR was sold in favour of better ideas such as Intesa Sanpaolo. The manager also bought attractively valued Munich Re, which will benefit from consolidation in the re-insurance industry. Among consumer discretionary firms, the exposure to Reed Elsevier was cut and the manager bought Pearson, an educational publisher with a growing market share in North America, where stimulus measures have not yet fed through to schools.

Institutional Global Focus Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 41 Million

Manager's Overview

An improvement in investor sentiment propelled global equities higher. There was evidence of stabilisation in US labour and housing markets and GDP acceleration in the US and Asia. Investors began to voluntarily take on risk, as they were heartened by thawing credit markets, signs of economic recovery and solid corporate results. The prevailing low interest rates and fiscal stimulus disbursements created a surge of liquidity, which also supported stocks. Businesses initially banked on significant cost cutting to support margins. Subsequent inventory restocking activity and an improving demand environment enabled them to continue beating earnings forecasts.

Robust returns from individual holdings and appropriate sector positioning led to the fund outperforming its benchmark over the period. Within the energy sector, not owning ExxonMobil lent relative support, as it underperformed growth-oriented names such as portfolio key holding Pacific Rubiales Energy. The latter benefited from encouraging exploration announcements, while another energy position, Niko Resources, witnessed operational momentum. Elsewhere, evidence of inventory restocking activity and encouraging earnings results buoyed technology holdings including SanDisk. Meanwhile, health care positions added value. Novo Nordisk received approval for a key product in the US, and Aspen Pharmacare benefited from rising drug demand on the African continent.

In keeping with the manager's cautious optimism about the global economic and earnings recovery, the fund retains a pro-cyclical bias, with overweights in technology, materials and industrials. However, there were changes at stock level, in view of the strength of the rally. Holdings that reached the price targets, such as Rockwell Automation, were sold in favour of more attractively valued quality franchises, such as Hewlett-Packard and Ingersoll-Rand. Overall, the manager prefers businesses that have done a great job cutting costs, will achieve revenue growth and hence have the greatest opportunity to surprise on earnings.

Institutional Hong Kong Equity Fund ¹

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: HKD 602 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, equities in Hong Kong fell in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region. In subsequent months, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher. Information technology, consumer staples and health care stocks posted a sterling performance, while utilities and telecommunication names lagged average market returns.

Over the period, the fund outperformed its benchmark, largely owing to solid security selection in the consumer discretionary sector. A number of non-benchmark positions in textile manufacturers as well as retailers benefited from strong consumer spending. For instance, Pacific Textile Holdings and cosmetic-seller Sa Sa International supported gains, buoyed by robust earnings. A position in Chinese internet messaging firm Tencent Holdings was the single largest contributor. Investors valued increased monetisation of services and popularity of its products and services. No exposure to a couple of electric utilities also proved rewarding, as investors looked for high-growth stocks outside the sector. Partially tempering these gains was the underweight stance towards consumer staples. The manager, however, retained the positioning seeking better investment opportunities elsewhere. Certain energy positions also detracted from performance due to uncertainty over global growth and energy demand.

The manager added to firms that stand to benefit from strong consumer demand in China. Shares in retailer GOME Electrical Appliances Holdings were bought in view of incentive-led demand for consumer electronics. An online travel service provider Ctrip.com International was also added to the portfolio on account of its brisk earnings growth. A couple of internet-related stocks such as search engine Baidu and online media firm Sina, which stand to advantage from the rapidly expanding online advertising market, were also added over the period. Meanwhile, exposure to financials was significantly reduced to an underweight position, largely by disposing property stocks including a position in Cheung Kong Holdings.

Institutional Hong Kong Opportunities Fund ¹

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: HKD 603 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, equities in Hong Kong fell in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region. In subsequent months, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher. Information technology, consumer staples and health care stocks posted a sterling performance, while utilities and telecommunications names lagged average market returns.

Over the period, the fund significantly outperformed its benchmark, largely owing to the portfolio's positive stance towards information technology stocks. The positions in electronic component manufacturers including Kingboard Chemical Holdings and BYD, as well as internet-related names such as Tencent Holdings and Baidu contributed to returns. Solid security selection within materials, particularly the presence of a couple of cardboard packaging material producers, proved rewarding. Certain health care and consumer discretionary names also boosted performance. Consumer staples and energy were the only two sectors that limited gains. In particular, an underweight stance in coal producers such as China Shenhua Energy and China Coal Energy hurt returns.

The manager added exposure to firms that stand to benefit from strong consumer demand in China. Shares in consumer durables manufacturers and retailers were purchased over the period including an online travel service provider Ctrip.com International which was added on account of its brisk earnings growth. A couple of internet-related stocks such as search engine Baidu and online media firm Sina, which stand to advantage from the rapidly expanding online advertising market, were also bought enhancing the overweight position in the information technology sector. The exposure to financials was significantly reduced to an underweight position. Notably, shares in securities firm China Everbright and Cheung Kong were sold.

Institutional Japan Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: JPY 2,645 Million

Manager's Overview

Following a record contraction in the second half of fiscal 2008, Japan's economy returned to growth in early 2009, spurred by an export-led production recovery and substantial government stimulus. Against a more benign macroeconomic backdrop and greater stability in financial systems, share prices rebounded led by large-cap cyclical stocks. While Japan specific factors, most notably large-scale equity financing and a stronger yen, stymied the market recovery through the autumn, share prices rallied strongly in the second half of the period, fuelled by gains in global cyclical and non-bank financials.

Over the period, the fund marginally underperformed its benchmark. Stock selection in financials detracted from relative performance and an underweight stance in industrials, particularly machinery and trading companies, also proved disadvantageous. A number of holdings in electronic materials and component makers, however, performed strongly as government incentives fuelled a recovery in demand for consumer durables, particularly in China. Nippon Electric Glass benefited from tight supply/demand conditions in the market for LCD glass substrates. Shinko Electric Industries and Dainippon Screen Manufacturing, producers of semiconductor-related equipment and materials, were well placed to capitalise on a rebound in PC sales. At a sector level, the fund's underweight stance in utilities, which lagged the broader market, and overweight position in consumer durables added value.

While the upswing in economic and corporate fundamentals is set to continue, valuations in external demand-related sectors have started to look a bit stretched. As a result, the manager recently took profits in auto-related holdings, including Nissan Motor, and also trimmed positions in some technology names, such as Sony. In line with our proprietary research, the manager shifted the money into late cyclical in the industrials sector and picked up some laggard domestic names, including banks, insurance companies and retailers, which offered compelling valuations and good upside potential.

Institutional Japan Aggressive Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: JPY 1,829 Million

Manager's Overview

Following a strong rebound from early 2009, Japan specific factors, most notably large-scale equity financing and a stronger yen, stymied the market recovery in the autumn, with the rotation of funds into share offerings dampening the performance of small caps. In subsequent months, economic and corporate fundamentals displayed a clear improvement, and additional monetary easing provided a further lift to share prices. As the new year progressed, however, sovereign credit risk became a significant headwind for share prices. In this environment, smaller companies, which are largely insulated from external conditions and currency fluctuations, started to outperform.

Over the period, the fund outperformed its benchmark. As financial markets stabilised and global economic activity started to recover, procyclical issues that fell sharply in the aftermath of the Lehman shock underwent a strong return reversal. Stock selection in mid and small caps was particularly rewarding, with holdings in non-bank financials and auto parts makers registering sizeable gains. At the same time, the fund's limited exposure to large-cap defensives and other laggard sectors, most notably banks, also enhanced active return. On the other hand, producers of lithium-ion battery materials struggled and the absence of major trading companies also detracted from relative performance.

The manager continued to focus on competitive mid and small caps that occupy key positions in high-growth industries, such as energy efficiency and internet services. While a sustained recovery in economic and corporate fundamentals is expected, a number of tech-related stocks, such as Sony, started to look stretched and the manager took profits in those that had outperformed. The exposure to auto parts makers, including Toyoda Gosei, was reduced as a recovery in margins was largely discounted. At the same time, domestic laggards were added, including financials and consumer staples, where fundamentals had started to improve and valuations were poised for an adjustment as the recovery broadens.

Institutional Pacific (ex-Japan) Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: USD 45 Million

Manager's Overview

After a strong run in 2009, equities in the Asia Pacific ex Japan region fell in early 2010 amid worries about sovereign debt problems in peripheral eurozone countries and monetary tightening in the region. In subsequent months, sustained strength of the domestic economic environment and earnings upgrades once again drove equities higher. Foreign institutional investors returned to the region showing confidence in future growth prospects. The consumer discretionary sector in particular performed well driven by strong domestic consumption growth. Financial stocks rose as loan growth remained robust and compared to western banks, the level of defaults remained relatively low. Exporters, notably electronic equipment manufacturers, were buoyed by a recovery in overseas demand.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period largely due to security selection within the information technology sector. A non-benchmark position in Chinese instant messaging company Tencent Holdings boosted relative returns in view of growing expectations that monetisation of its services would help buoy earnings. Further, an overweight stance in car and rechargeable battery manufacturer BYD Company was a significant contributor to returns. The outperformance came against the backdrop of rising demand for its cars and also because it reached new agreements to supply rechargeable batteries to European car producers. An overweight exposure to James Hardie Industries, a construction materials company, added value as the US housing market improved.

The manager is optimistic about consumption growth in the region and is overweight in the consumer sector as well as in information technology stocks, which derives their earnings from growing internet usage. A notable addition in this sector is Baidu, the Chinese language internet search company, which increased its market share at the expense of Google. The company is also expected to increase earnings due to higher advertising spend by Chinese businesses. A non-benchmark position in outdoor advertising company Focus Media Holding is also reflective of the positive outlook towards consumption growth, particularly in China.

Institutional Euro Bond Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 13 Million

Manager's Overview

European government bonds generated positive returns during the 12-month period but underperformed both investment grade corporate bonds and high yield bonds. The period was characterised by a resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and liquidity programmes implemented by the central banks globally. Led by financials, credit spreads narrowed significantly across sectors. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to sovereign debt concerns in peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. Moreover, fears of contagion to other euro area countries led to a brief flight to quality. Nevertheless, over the period, high yield bonds witnessed strong returns, in light of increased risk appetite.

Over the period, the fund outperformed its benchmark. An overweight exposure to corporate bonds (long credit beta) coupled with favourable issue selection contributed to performance as credit spreads tightened notably over the period. The above-benchmark position in subordinated financials particularly Tier I and Lower Tier II bolstered relative returns. Contributors included the Societe Generale, Bank of America, and Zurich Financial Services. Furthermore, issue selection in asset-backed securities (ABS) added value amid improving market to market valuations. The fund benefited from its exposure and name selection in the telecommunications, utilities, consumers and industrials sectors.

The fund's credit beta has been reduced in the last few months as the credit asset class offers less upside potential in light of stretched valuations. This was achieved by reducing exposure to the defensive telecommunications, utilities and consumers sectors. The fund manager took profits in Telecom Italia, Iberdrola and Imperial Tobacco Finance among others. By the end of the period, the fund manager had an underweight stance in financials and profits were taken in Lloyds TSB, Credit Logement and RBS. Taking advantage of improved liquidity, the manager continued to rebalance risks within the ABS sector. The fund retained a long duration position relative to its benchmark.

Institutional Global Bond Fund

Fund Size as at 30.04.2010: EUR 1 Million

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed all major government bond markets over the last year. The review period was characterised by resurgence in risk appetite as a result of lower interest rates and unconventional measures implemented by central banks globally. These helped reduce stress and brought stability in the financial markets. Subsequently, credit spreads narrowed significantly to pre-Lehman levels. Financials, particularly subordinated debt, led the gains. Towards the end of the period, financial markets witnessed volatility due to the sovereign debt concerns in the peripheral eurozone economies, particularly Greece. This led to a brief flight to quality. Nevertheless, over the period, high yield and emerging market bonds witnessed strong returns.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. An overweight exposure to banks and insurance companies, in particular, subordinated Lower Tier II and Tier I issues boosted relative returns. Holdings in Lloyds TSB, Bank of America, Barclays and insurance firm Eureka were the key contributors. Security selection coupled with an overweight position in the asset-backed securities sector further proved beneficial. Exposure to Imperial Tobacco within consumers and commodities trader Glencore and Ardagh Glass in the industrials sector also enhanced performance.

The fund remained overweight in credit relative to its benchmark, but the manager trimmed some positions where less upside potential was seen. The fund's overall duration position was reduced over the year. However, it remains overweight in Europe and Japan and underweight in the UK. The holdings in Japanese inflation-linked bonds were sold. A bias towards banks was increased over the year by adding to names such as Lloyds TSB, Barclays and Credit Suisse. The manager raised exposure to metals & mining company Anglo American and cement manufacturer Lafarge within industrials. Profits were taken in telecommunications companies Verizon Communications and Vodafone Group.
