Directors' Report

I INTRODUCTION

Fidelity Funds (the "Company") is an open-ended investment company established in Luxembourg as a société d'investissement à capital variable ("SICAV"). It has an umbrella structure and its assets are held in a number of different funds ("sub-funds"). Each sub-fund is a separate portfolio of securities managed in accordance with specific investment objectives. Separate classes of shares in the Company (the "Shares") are issued in relation to the sub-funds. Each sub-fund provides an investment opportunity in professionally managed pools of securities in different geographical areas and currencies, with the investment objective of capital growth, income or a balance between capital growth and income.

Shares are authorised for sale in a number of jurisdictions and are generally listed on the Luxembourg Stock Exchange, except for the Reserved Funds, the Institutional Reserved Funds and the class E Shares.

II FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

The Directors submit their report and the audited financial statements for the year ended 30 April 2011.

The audited financial statements are set out on pages 141 to 717 of this Annual Report, with results for the year appearing in the Statement of Operations and Changes in Net Assets on pages 674 to 694. Dividend information for the sub-funds is detailed on pages 711 to 713.

A copy of the Annual Report may be obtained upon request from either the offices of companies registered as distributors or from the Registered Office of the Company. Comparative figures for the previous year can be found in the Annual Report of the Company for the year ended 30 April 2010. ## III ACTIVITIES DURING THE YEAR

The Company followed the normal activities of an open-ended investment company. The Investment Manager's Report that follows gives an overview of performance. As at 30 April 2011, the number of registered Shareholders worldwide totalled in excess of 51,000. However, the total number of investors in the Company is much greater than the number of registered Shareholders due to the fact that certain registered Shareholders may represent the holdings of many underlying clients. The Net Assets at 30 April 2011 equalled USD 93.5 billion. At the year end, the Company consisted of 131 active sub-funds. Details of changes to the composition of the sub-fund range during the year are provided in the Notes to the Financial Statements on pages 706 to 716. The Directors may from time to time close sub-funds as well as add further sub-funds with different investment objectives, subject to the approval of the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier ("CSSF").

IV BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Directors of the Company are listed on page 5. Seven of the thirteen Directors, serving as at 30 April 2011, are considered by the Board to be independent of the Investment Manager and free from any business or other relationship which could materially interfere with the exercise of their independent judgment. FIL (Luxembourg) S.A. ("FILUX") is a Corporate Director of the Company and has a contract with the Company in its capacity as Central Administrative Agent as described below. FILUX is represented by Allan Pelvang, who replaces Marc Wathelet in this role as of 5 April 2011. There are no service contracts proposed or in existence between any of the other Directors and the Company. In accordance with the Articles of Incorporation of the Company all current Directors will retire at the Annual General Meeting. All of the retiring Directors, being eligible, are standing for re-election.

Directors' Responsibilities

The Board of Directors has overall responsibility for the Company's affairs and the Board has established contracts with key service providers under which it delegates the day-to-day management of the Company to the Investment Manager and the Central Administrative Agent as described below and receives regular reports from these organisations. The Directors are formally responsible for the Report and Accounts of the Company for each financial year, which are required under general principles to give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Company. In accordance with those same principles, the Directors are responsible for:

- selecting suitable accounting policies and applying them consistently;
- preparing the accounts on a going concern basis;
- maintaining proper accounting records which disclose, with reasonable accuracy, at any time the financial position of the Company; and
- complying with both the Luxembourg Law of 10 August 1915 on commercial companies and the Luxembourg Law of 20 December 2002 on undertakings for collective investment, as amended.

The Central Administrative Agent, as a delegate of the Board of Directors, is responsible for the Company's system of internal control and for reviewing its effectiveness. Such a system is designed to manage rather than eliminate the risk of failure to achieve business objectives and can only provide reasonable and not absolute assurance against material misstatement or loss. The duties of the Investment Manager and Central Administrative Agent include the design, implementation and maintenance of controls and procedures to administer the assets of the Company and to manage its affairs properly. The system extends to operational and compliance controls and risk management. Regular reports on controls and compliance issues are provided by the Supervisory Officers to the Audit Committee and/or the Board.

V SUPERVISORY OFFICERS

The three Supervisory Officers (the "SOs") serving during the financial year were Mr. Nishith Gandhi, Mr. Charles Hutchinson and Mr. Stephan von Bismarck.

Mr. Stephan von Bismarck was appointed as a Supervisory Officer of the Company on 12 May 2010, following the resignation of Mr. Andrew Steward on 4 May 2010.

The SOs have a duty to ensure that the tasks of the General Distributor, FIL Distributors ("FID"), and the Investment Manager and Central Administrative Agent are performed in compliance with Luxembourg Law, the Company's Articles of Incorporation and current Prospectus. Amongst other things, the SOs ensure compliance with the investment restrictions of the Company and oversee the implementation of the investment policy of each sub-fund by the appointed Investment Manager, FIL Fund Management Limited ("FFML"). They also have a duty to ensure that the risks linked to the activities carried out by FFML, FILUX and FID are correctly managed, monitored and reported to the Board of Directors of the Company.

VI ROLE OF INVESTMENT MANAGER AND CENTRAL ADMINISTRATIVE AGENT

FFML provides day-to-day investment management of the Company, under the supervision and subject to the control of the Board of Directors. FFML is authorised to act on behalf of the Company and to select agents, brokers and dealers through whom to execute transactions and is required to provide the Board of Directors with any reports it may require.

FFML may receive investment advice from, and act upon the advice of, any company within the FIL Limited ("FIL") organisation, including affiliate companies of FFML, and may execute, transact and otherwise carry out its functions, duties and obligations with or through any of these Fidelity companies. FFML remains responsible for the proper performance by such companies of those responsibilities.

FILUX continues to act as the appointed Registrar, Transfer Agent, Administrative Service Agent and Domiciliary Agent for the Company and its sub-funds and Share classes. FILUX processes subscriptions, redemptions, conversions and transfers of Shares and enters these transactions in the register of Shareholders of the Company. It provides services in connection with keeping the Company's accounts, determination of the NAV of Shares in each sub-fund, class of Shares and currency on each valuation date, dispatch of dividend cheques to Shareholders, preparation and distribution of Shareholder reports and provision of other administrative services.

In addition, the Company has appointed FIL to provide services in relation to the investments of the sub-funds including valuation, statistical, technical, reporting and other assistance.

VII CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

The Board applies a clear and transparent corporate governance framework for the management of the Company's affairs.

1. The Board has adopted the ALFI Code of Conduct issued in September 2009, which sets out the principles of good governance, and considers that the Company has been in compliance with it in all material respects throughout the financial period ended 30 April 2011. Any subsequent amendment to the ALFI Code of Conduct will be considered by the Board prior to adoption and necessary disclosure will be made in the annual financial statements.

2. There are contractual arrangements in place governing the relationships with FFML, FILUX and FID as well as other third party suppliers to the Company.

3. The Directors take decisions in the interests of the Company and its Shareholders and refrain from taking part in any deliberation or decision which creates conflict between their personal interests and those of the Company and its Shareholders.

4. The Board and, where appropriate, its Committees meet at least four times a year. The Board requests and receives reports from the relevant Committees, the SOs, FFML, FILUX and FID on the various activities including compliance controls and risk management undertaken by the relevant FIL companies. Senior representatives of FFML, FILUX and FID attend meetings by invitation, thus enabling the Board of Directors to question the reports presented to it.

5. As part of the control framework within FIL, all FIL group employees are subject to a Code of Ethics, which, among other things, sets out procedures for personal account dealing in securities. The Board receives regular reports on the Code of Ethics to ensure that any conflicts of interest between personal accounts dealing by FIL group staff and the interests of the Company are properly managed.

6. The Board of Directors has established an Audit Committee which consists exclusively of independent Directors and which is charged with reviewing the annual accounts, the external audit process, sub-custodian arrangements and the relationship with the external Auditor, including the recommendation to Shareholders of its appointment and level of fees. The Audit Committee meets at least twice a year and reports to the Board of Directors, making recommendations where appropriate. The Audit Committee meets with the external Auditor in the absence of representatives of the FIL group at least once a year.

7. The nomination of new Directors is considered by the Board and is subject to the approval of the CSSF and ultimately the approval of Shareholders at the Annual General Meeting. The level of Directors' fees is put to Shareholders for approval, in accordance with the Articles of Incorporation. The Directors' remuneration earned for the year ended 30 April 2011 was in aggregate USD 323,544 subject to Shareholder approval, as set out on page 710 of this Annual Report. Such remuneration is earned and paid in EUR and for comparison purposes was EUR 242,000. Directors who are affiliated with FFML, its holding company FIL, or its subsidiaries have waived their fees for the year ended 30 April 2011.

8. The Directors are committed to ensuring that Shareholders are kept informed of matters relevant to their investment and that all Shareholders are treated fairly. The maintenance and integrity of information concerning the Company on the Fidelity website is the responsibility of FIL. FILUX is responsible for the accuracy of translations of documents which may be available to investors in languages other than English. The Directors approve the English form of the financial statements presented to them at Audit Committee and Board meetings.

The external Auditor, PricewaterhouseCoopers S.à.r.l., being eligible, offers itself for re-election for the year from 1 May 2011 to 30 April 2012.

VIII OTHER INFORMATION

Proxy Voting

FFML has a policy of voting on equity securities in all markets where it is possible to do so unless the loss of liquidity as a result of attendant share blocking is deemed to outweigh the expected benefits to be gained. Such voting is undertaken in accordance with written proxy voting guidelines employed by the FIL group, of which FFML is a part, and takes account of prevailing local market best practices. The Board reviews and approves the proxy voting policy, activity and guidelines annually. FIL's Principles of Ownership, which summarises how FIL engages with companies in which its sub-funds have invested, can be accessed from the Corporate Governance section of FIL's website (www.fidelity-international.com).

Commissions and Interfunding

FFML uses supplemental research in the course of its work for the Company and other clients that are paid for or provided by brokers through whom the Investment Manager executes transactions for the Company and other clients. Softing arrangements that have been undertaken in respect of the Company include research and advisory services, economic and political analysis, portfolio analysis, market analysis and specialist economic and company research.

For the year ended 30 April 2011 the percentage of total commissions incurred by the Company used for soft commissions was 14.98%.

FFML has an arrangement with selected brokers whereby a portion of commissions from security transactions may be paid to the Company to reduce transaction costs. Amounts received by the Company under this arrangement are used to offset expenses. For the year ended 30 April 2011 the Company's expenses were reduced by USD 26,695,511 under this arrangement.

The Company participates in the Investment Manager's interfunding programme whereby FIL's traders, on occasion, identify situations where an account or sub-fund managed by FIL is buying the same security that another account or sub-fund is selling. If a trader can confirm that it would be in the interests of both accounts to execute a transaction between them rather than in the market then an interfund transaction is executed.

Swiss investors

Swiss investors are advised that with the exception of European Fund, Fidelity Gestion Dynamique, Fidelity Patrimoine, Fidelity Sélection Europe, Fidelity Sélection Internationale, Growth & Income Fund, Global High Yield Bond Fund, International Bond Fund II, Euro Cash Fund, US Dollar Cash Fund, the MoneyBuilder Funds, Fidelity LiveEasy Fund, Live 2020 Fund, Live 2030 Fund, Live Today Fund, the Reserved Funds, Institutional Asia Pacific (ex-Japan) Fund, Institutional Asia Pacific (ex-Japan) Opportunities Fund, Institutional Emerging Markets Equity Fund, Institutional Hong Kong Equity Fund, Institutional Hong Kong Opportunities Fund, the present sub-funds of the Company have been authorised by the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority for distribution in Switzerland.

IX BUSINESS OF THE ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

Investment Manager's Report*

Performance overview – 12 months to end of April 2011

Global equities advanced over the 12 month period, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Reasonably attractive valuations and heightened deal activity also helped performance.

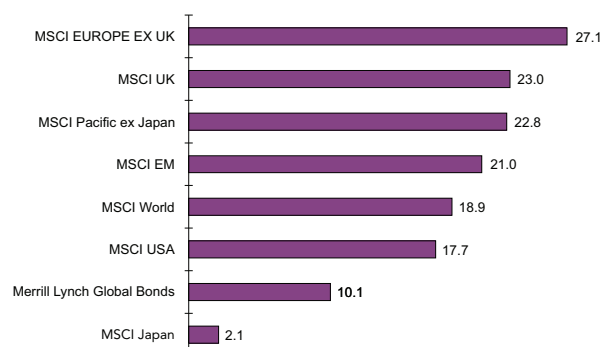

Markets, however, faced intermittent setbacks. Weak economic data during the start of the period and worries about the ongoing sovereign debt issues in Europe over the year dampened sentiment. In the second half, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region and the accompanying surge in oil prices, rising inflationary pressures and monetary policy tightening concerns, particularly in China, tempered global markets.

Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing (QE2) by the Federal Reserve and the decision by the European Central Bank (ECB) to delay the withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and to keep buying government bonds in peripheral countries buoyed stocks. In March, there were headwinds due to disruptions to the global supply chain following the massive earthquake and tsunami in Japan.

Over the period, European equities rose the most in US dollar terms, whilst Japan lagged. At a sector level, energy and materials stocks outperformed amid escalating oil and commodity prices. Returns in US dollar terms were supported by the weakening of the dollar against the euro and sterling.

European equities rose on encouraging economic news and corporate earnings. Low interest rates provided further support, although the unemployment rate remained high. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure over worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries, including Greece, Ireland, Spain and Portugal. The European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around USD 1 trillion for European countries in early May 2010. Towards the end of the review period, the rise in oil and food prices also led to concerns about inflationary pressures. As a result, for the first time in almost three years, the ECB raised interest rates by a quarter of a percentage point to 1.25% in April this year to curb inflation. Overall, investors favoured cyclical sectors, namely consumer discretionary and industrials; utilities and financials lagged.

UK equities advanced over the period, with market gains spread across sectors. Technology and materials stocks were at the forefront as investors looked for companies with strong growth potential. However, banks lagged the broader market, due to worries about tougher regulation and the impact of the European sovereign debt crisis.

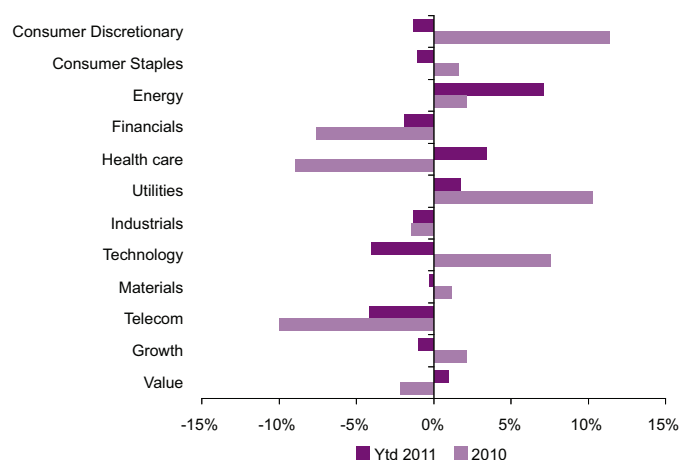

US equities registered robust gains over the review period. Initial enthusiasm about the economic recovery and the strength in corporate earnings was curbed by weak global signals in the form of the European sovereign debt crisis and Chinese policy tightening. A concurrent deceleration in US economic indicators also brought fears of an economic "double dip" back to the fore. The resultant uncertainty caused a sell off, but investors soon re-adjusted their growth expectations as it became clear that a slowdown did not necessitate another recession. Subsequent improvements in economic data: robust activity in the manufacturing and services sectors, as well as improving labour market conditions, buoyed sentiment. Better than expected earnings announcements and buoyant deal activity helped offset concerns about housing market weakness domestically and geopolitical risks abroad.

After peaking in mid April 2010, Japanese equities corrected sharply, hitting a year to date low in early November. Mounting concerns about yen appreciation and an uncertain outlook for the US economy weighed on stocks. The advent of QE2 in the US, however, helped stabilise the yen, contributing to a subsequent rebound in share prices, which continued into 2011 as global economic fundamentals started to improve. The powerful 9.0 magnitude earthquake that struck in mid March 2011 precipitated a significant fall in Japanese stocks. Unlike overseas markets, share prices in Japan subsequently consolidated as the impact of the earthquake on the economy and production, as well as the Fukushima nuclear disaster, continued to drive sentiment.

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities were volatile, but advanced over the period. The consumer discretionary, materials and energy sectors were the leading performers, as the outlook for consumption growth remained strong and international energy and materials prices surged. Increased capital expenditure in light of growing international trade and government sponsored infrastructure development programs boosted industrials.

2011 Begins With Major Sector & Style Rotations

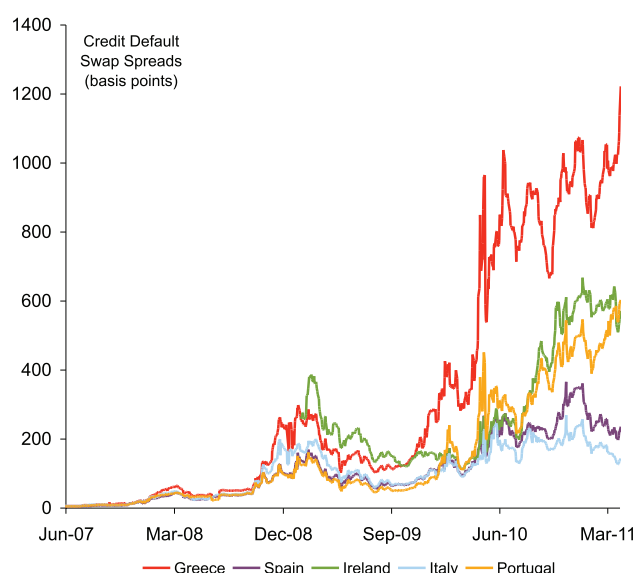

Source: Sector and style returns relative to MSCI World, Datastream 30/04/11

Overall, significant market reversals were witnessed at the start of 2011, with global sectors and styles that outperformed in 2010 lagging during the year. The chart shows the relative performance, which represents the difference between returns generated by the different sectors and the market. Technology and consumer related areas, which generated healthy returns in 2010, underperformed so far in 2011 (until April). Conversely, returns from health care and energy firms accelerated during the year. Moreover, growth stocks, which were favoured last year, lagged value stocks on a year to date basis in 2011. This trend was more prominent in European indices, with most of the sectors reversing their trend at the beginning of the year. Many fund portfolios were adversely impacted by this sharp rotation. However, over the medium term, a focus on rigorous company fundamental analysis should generate strong performance.

Bond markets

Investment grade and high-yield corporate bonds outperformed all major government bond markets over the last year. Corporate bonds continued to record strong returns over the period, as companies enjoyed good fundamentals and robust profit margins. The eurozone sovereign debt crisis dominated newsflow as Greece, Ireland and Portugal had to be bailed out. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. In the US, Treasuries were impacted by the Fed's announcement of QE2 in November, as well as by an extension of tax cuts. Rising food and energy prices globally fuelled inflationary pressures across economies, and the ECB raised its interest rates in April. Despite volatility in the financial markets following the earthquake in Japan, credit spreads tightened over the year.

Sovereign Debt Pressures Intensify In Europe

Source: Bloomberg 30/04/11

Eurozone sovereign debt continued to be in the spotlight, thereby increasing the level of volatility in peripheral European markets. The ratings downgrades of Spain, Greece and Portugal, and stress tests on Irish banks dampened sentiment. The cost of insuring sovereign debt against default (expressed through credit default swaps [CDS]) and yields on government bonds of Greece, Ireland and Portugal rose. In early April, after initial denials of requiring a bailout, Portugal became the third country in the region to seek international financial support, following Greece and Ireland. Recently, fears of an imminent restructuring of Greek government debt prompted the sovereign's bond yields to touch all time highs. The contagion spread to Irish and Portuguese government bonds as investors moved to discount the increased probability of a restructuring of these bonds. Nevertheless, Spain and Italy performed relatively well, with increases in their sovereign CDS spreads contained. Spain's steady progress towards fiscal consolidation is largely understood by markets and the recent developments in the banking sector have given a real boost to confidence.

PERFORMANCE NOTES ON FUND REVIEWS

Cumulative Returns are calculated from published Net Asset Value price to published Net Asset Value price with gross income reinvested on ex-dividend dates. For sub-funds where the price adjustment policy has been applied as per note 2 on page 708, the Cumulative Returns are calculated to or from the adjusted Net Asset Value price.

This calculation does not include any initial charge, and represents the true investment performance of the sub-fund.

The performance figures reported under the column "Since Launch" in the tables are calculated from the commencement of operations until 30 April 2011.

Annualised performance is an alternative way of expressing a sub-fund's total return. It assumes a steady compound rate of growth during the period in question and is not the sub-fund's year by year performance, which fluctuated over the periods shown.

Please note that the Manager's Overviews are based on the first Share class disclosed for each sub-fund. Performance data is expressed in the Share class currency of denomination, indicated by the ISO code shown.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 2,386 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities registered robust gains over the period. Initial enthusiasm about the economic recovery and the strength in corporate earnings was curbed by weak global signals. A concurrent deceleration in economic indicators brought fears of an economic "double dip" back to the fore and caused a sell off. However, investors who had re-adjusted their growth expectations lower found succour in robust manufacturing and services sector data, as well as improving labour market conditions. The launch of a fresh round of quantitative easing supported the uptrend. Better than expected earnings announcements and buoyant deal activity helped offset housing market weakness.

The fund registered robust absolute gains, but underperformed its benchmark. Security selection in the consumer discretionary sector hurt returns; in particular, SuperMedia, the directory business, underperformed following analysts' downgrade and was sold. In the technology sector, Cisco Systems' earnings guidance disappointed as a result of margin pressure that management claimed was short term product launch driven. The manager remained invested in the stock for its attractive valuation, exposure to the growth of networking markets and the sustainability of margins. Hewlett-Packard was derated due to growth disappointment, but remained cheap with steady fundamentals. In contrast, a new position in Monster Worldwide added value after it reported encouraging results; the manager took profits. The fund also benefited from its overweight stance in energy stocks, which were buoyed by high oil prices.

The manager reduced exposure to cyclical sectors, such as materials, financials and consumer discretionary that had done well. The proceeds were used to increase the defensive allocation, adding positions in the health care and consumer staples arena where the manager found attractive investment opportunities. At the end of the period, the portfolio was balanced between cyclical and defensives. Technology was the largest overweight because it offered access to a diverse set of businesses with uncorrelated drivers. The financials sector formed the largest underweight as a lack of clarity on regulations remained.

American Diversified Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 152 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities registered robust gains. Initial enthusiasm about the economic recovery and the strength in corporate earnings was curbed by weak global signals. A concurrent deceleration in economic indicators brought fears of an economic "double dip" back to the fore and caused a sell off. However, investors who had re-adjusted their growth expectations lower soon found succour in robust manufacturing and services sector data, as well as improving labour market conditions. The launch of a fresh round of quantitative easing supported the uptrend. Better than expected earnings announcements and buoyant deal activity helped offset the weakness in the housing market.

The fund delivered healthy absolute gains, but underperformed its benchmark. Stock selection in information technology hurt returns. The overweight holdings in Seagate Technology and Western Digital came under pressure from falling hard drive prices and rising competition. The former was sold and exposure to the latter was reduced. An above benchmark position in Cisco Systems hurt returns after a series of earnings disappointments and an uninspiring outlook. It is committed to preserving its margins, and remains a long term quality business at an attractive valuation. Meanwhile, an underweight stance in Exxon Mobil and not holding ConocoPhillips detracted from returns amid a sharp rise in crude oil prices. An overweight position in drugstore operator CVS Caremark hurt performance following a downward revision to its 2011 earnings forecast. Encouragingly, above benchmark exposure to capital goods manufacturers lifted returns amid clearer signs of a global economic recovery and takeover activity in the industry. Conviction in Biogen Idec added value as it posted strong results and its new oral multiple sclerosis drug formulation was effective in clinical trials.

Technology is a key overweight position at a sector level. The long term story is attractive, given secular demand growth in smartphones, PC tablets and cloud computing. Valuations, particularly for bellwether stocks, are compelling. The fund is overweight in health insurers and biotechnology firms, which accounts for an above benchmark stance in the health care segment.

American Growth Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 349 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities registered robust gains. Initial enthusiasm about the economic recovery and the strength in corporate earnings was curbed by weak global signals. A concurrent deceleration in economic indicators brought fears of an economic "double dip" back to the fore and caused a sell off. However, investors who had re-adjusted their growth expectations lower soon found succour in robust manufacturing and services sector data, as well as improving labour market conditions. A fresh round of quantitative easing supported the uptrend. Better than expected earnings announcements and buoyant deal activity helped offset housing market weakness.

The fund registered strong absolute gains, but underperformed its benchmark. Security selection in the technology sector hurt returns. Conservative earnings guidance from Cisco Systems held back fund performance; the position was trimmed. Meanwhile, an underweight stance in strong performer Apple detracted from relative returns; the manager remains negative on the stock given intensifying competition in the smartphone industry and Apple's restrictions on third party applications. Conversely, the energy overweight, specifically in new equipment & services names such as Helmerich & Payne, added value. Higher oil prices forced investors to acknowledge the need for investments in modern equipment to resolve supply issues. However, newly included uranium producer Cameco's shares fell in the aftermath of the earthquake related nuclear disaster in Japan, which clouded the demand outlook somewhat.

The large above benchmark position in energy reflected the manager's belief that the sector's long term demand/supply dynamics remain positive. The materials overweight represented a focus on gold stocks, which are expected to do well amid prevailing geopolitical uncertainty and inflationary concerns. Elsewhere, fertiliser names will likely benefit from strong farm economics. Some great franchises were found at attractive valuations in the financials and health care sectors, which have been weighed down by regulatory uncertainty. The largest underweights were in expensive technology names and consumer staples firms with margin pressure concerns.

ASEAN Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 1,548 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Equities in the ASEAN region were among the leading performers globally as improving economic fundamentals and strong growth attracted increased foreign interest. A structural shift in these economies, from heavy reliance on exports to increased domestic consumption, boosted the outlook for growth. Consumer discretionary names benefited from rising income levels and changing lifestyles. Energy and materials names were buoyed by higher international commodity prices. Inflation emerged as the key economic concern, with a number of central banks in the region tightening their monetary policy.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, due to positive positioning in the industrials, consumer discretionary and financials sectors. The high conviction holding in Genting Singapore and Genting Malaysia surged on earnings and optimism about growth. Meanwhile, a holding in food processing firm China Minzhong Food bolstered performance as rising food prices in China enhanced earnings. The off benchmark exposure to Biosensors International Group, which licenses medical technology, rose after it announced that an investor bought a stake in the firm. Conversely, the high conviction holding in education provider Masterskill Education Group hurt returns on fears of student loan defaults. Meanwhile, the underweight position in Thailand based Kasikornbank disappointed as share prices surged on the back of higher earnings. The underweight stance in coal mining firm Bumi Resources weighed on relative performance given rising coal prices.

The fund is positioned to benefit from strong consumption growth as income levels rise across the region. The manager decreased the exposure to financials by selling Bangkok Bank, which reached its valuation, and trimming the stake in Singapore based banks DBS Group Holdings and United Overseas Bank. Instead, a position was initiated in casino and resorts operator Genting Singapore and the manager added to the holding in Genting Malaysia as its UK and US expansion plans are likely to contribute to earnings growth. Additionally, exposure to the beneficiaries of rising food prices, such as Charoen Pokphand and China Minzhong Food was raised.

Asia Pacific Dividend Fund 5***

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 375 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Despite charting an uneven course, Asia Pacific ex Japan equities advanced over the 12 month period on signs that the worst impact of the global economic crisis had faded. The European debt crisis, Chinese monetary and regulatory tightening and the rising threat of inflation in Asia, and later, geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan caused volatility. The materials and energy sectors were the leading performers, tracking international commodity prices higher. Increased capital expenditure in light of growing international trade and government sponsored infrastructure development programs boosted industrials. Consumer staples and health care stocks also performed well.

The fund delivered solid returns over the period. All sectors contributed to performance, led by financials. Notably, positions in Australian commercial banks Australia & NZ Banking Group and Commonwealth Bank of Australia proved beneficial to performance as these stocks climbed after it became apparent that margin compression and funding cost pressures had abated. A number of positions in information technology (IT), particularly consumer items, added value. Exposure to materials and industrials names contributed to returns, whilst utilities and telecommunications stocks dragged overall gains.

Over the period, the manager significantly increased the allocation to the energy and materials sectors in light of improving fundamentals. Shares in oil and gas company Santos were added on signs that its liquefied natural gas expansion plans were likely to crystallise. In materials, a position was initiated in LG Chem in view of strong demand for specialty chemicals. In the IT sector, the growing popularity of smartphones prompted the manager to add Taiwan based touch screen panel manufacturer TPK Holdings, the largest supplier to Apple, and HTC, the world's largest manufacturer of Android and Windows based smartphones. Meanwhile, the allocation to financials, including property names, was significantly reduced as the sector faces policy headwinds.

Asia Pacific Property Fund <sup>6</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 52 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific property stocks advanced over the review period. Real interest rates remained low, and a second round of quantitative easing in the US boosted fund flows into the region. Fundamentals continued to improve, with the commercial property segment, such as Hong Kong offices witnessing accelerated rental income growth. Thailand equities gained significantly as easing political tension restored investor confidence. However, the emergence of the European debt crisis, Chinese monetary and regulatory tightening, and later, geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and North Africa and the Japan earthquake caused volatility. Policy developments in the residential for sale segment also dampened the performance of Singaporean and Chinese names.

The fund generated positive returns, but underperformed its benchmark. Positioning in Australia and Japan hampered the fund's performance. For instance, Westfield Group, the world's largest mall owner, was the single largest detractor from returns after its de-merger met with a lukewarm response despite the quality property portfolio of its retail business. Japanese holdings, including office and condominium leasing companies Daibiru and Goldcrest succumbed to the indiscriminate sell off following the devastating earthquake. On a positive note, rewarding positioning in Singapore and positive stock selection in Hong Kong underpinned gains. The overweight exposure to Wharf Holdings and HongKong Land Holdings benefited from earnings through an increase in office and shopping mall rental income.

Whilst the manager has some concerns about end market demand weakness in Japan going forward, the portfolio has little ownership of buildings in the most severely impacted areas and the Japanese real estate investment trusts (J-REITs) held are relatively defensive. In Hong Kong, retail space and car parking facility company Link REIT was added due to its defensive business nature. The manager took profits in developer and investment company Henderson Land Development following a surge in profits; Philippines based Robinsons Land was sold owing to the risk that higher interest rates could impact demand for properties.

Asian Aggressive Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 55 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities advanced over the 12 month period on signs that the worst impact of the global economic crisis had faded. The emergence of the European debt crisis, Chinese monetary and regulatory tightening and the threat of rising inflation in Asia, and later, geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan caused volatility. Consumer discretionary stocks performed well as the outlook for consumption growth remained strong. The materials and energy sectors tracked international commodity prices higher. Increased capital expenditure in light of growing international trade and government sponsored infrastructure development programs boosted industrials.

The fund generated positive returns, but underperformed its benchmark. In a period that delivered strong performance, the biggest detractor from returns was holding cash, even though it averaged less than 1% of total net assets. In energy, the holding in India based oil explorer Reliance Industries undermined gains after it announced a strategy to increasingly diversify its operations and its gas production targets were revised downwards. Conversely, Chinese language search engine Baidu was the single largest performer, buoyed by continued growth in advertising revenue and emerging evidence of progress in adding services for its large customer base.

The manager reduced the underweight exposure to financials by adding banks with quality assets, including Europe's largest bank HSBC and Standard Chartered. India based commercial truck leasing company Shriram Transport Finance and Bangkok Bank were added due to their profitable businesses. The industrials exposure was moved to overweight, mainly by adding shipping related stocks such as Hyundai Mipo Dockyard, given attractive valuations as this sector was out of favour due to the slow growth in orders over the past few years. The exposure to consumer discretionary names was trimmed, although the overweight position was maintained. The manager also sold certain semiconductor names due to an absence of a rebound in DRAM prices.

Asian Special Situations Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 2,363 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Despite charting an uneven course, Asia Pacific ex Japan equities ended the 12 month period with significant gains on signs that the worst impact of the global economic crisis had faded. The emergence of the European debt crisis, Chinese monetary and regulatory tightening and the rising threat of inflation in Asia, and later, geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan caused volatility. Consumer discretionary stocks were in the forefront, whilst the materials and energy sectors tracked commodity prices higher. Increased capital expenditure in light of growing international trade and government sponsored infrastructure development programs boosted industrials.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Both security selection and sector positioning contributed to the positive performance. Notably, the holding in Chinese online media company Sina was the single largest contributor to returns as it benefited from strong online advertising spending and the success of its Twitter like service. The growing popularity of smartphones underpinned gains at handheld device producer HTC and Softbank, the only distributor of iPhones in Japan. Softbank also owns a significant stake in China's leading ecommerce platform. Consumer discretionary exposure, including high conviction holdings in men's fashion retailer Trinity and Macau based casino operator SJM Holdings added value, supported by buoyant spending by Chinese consumers. Conversely, the positioning in energy held back gains, but the manager is wary about the sector due to the difficult regulatory environment.

The underweight positions in financials and materials were moved to an overweight stance. In particular, a number of specialty chemicals producers, such as LG Chem were added due to the increasing demand for their products. The underweight holding in telecommunications was reduced as competition in the sector eased. China Unicom was added as its improved distribution and increased subscriber base is expected to boost earnings. Meanwhile, the underweight stance in utilities and consumer staples was increased and health care exposure was closed for better opportunities elsewhere.

Australia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: AUD 772 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Australian equities advanced over the period, given the strong rise in demand for commodities. Not surprisingly, the materials sector was among the best performers, with many firms delivering earnings ahead of expectations. Within energy, coal miners and oil & gas producers advanced on the back of higher prices; however, gains were limited by the adverse impact of flooding in coal mining regions in the latter part of the period. Meanwhile, consumer discretionary suffered due to sluggish consumer sentiment despite the strong rise in employment, as households focussed on deleveraging.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. The adverse positioning within the industrials and health care sectors, and selected holdings in consumer discretionary eroded value. An overweight holding in online employment services provider Seek weighed on performance, mainly due to poor growth in its education businesses. Health care equipment manufacturer ResMed disappointed on concerns over slow sales growth in the US. Elsewhere, the holding in media firm Fairfax Media detracted from performance given a challenging operating environment. On a positive note, the high conviction holding in staples retailer and coal miner Wesfarmers added value. The underweight stance in Woolworths relative to the benchmark bolstered returns as its share prices fell as it lost market share to Coles, Wesfarmer's supermarket unit.

The fund manager prefers structural over cyclical growth. The exposure to financials was reduced, mainly by offloading selected real estate investment trusts (REITs). Instead, the position in insurance, superannuation and banking services provider Suncorp Group was increased for its attractive valuation and potential benefits from its business restructuring. Holdings in the consumer sector were trimmed by offloading Coca-Cola Amatil, which reached valuation; and educational services provider Navitas, which saw a decline in international student enrolment. The exposure to materials was increased significantly in anticipation of both an earnings boost and potential mergers and acquisition activity.

China Consumer Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 14 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The impact of the tragic earthquake in Japan in March 2011, which impaired market sentiment and created uncertainties, on China's overall economic outlook appeared limited. Moreover, the earnings growth outlook for most of the sectors remained intact, given that the majority of their businesses are domestically oriented. Investors expect Japan's economic growth to decelerate on the back of the crisis. Since China remains the bright spot in the region, it is likely that money will flow into the country to take advantage of the high growth opportunities.

The fund delivered solid returns since its inception in February 2011 and outperformed its benchmark over the period. In particular, the portfolio manager's skilful stock selection capability and the small positions in a number of off benchmark stocks, such as Trinity, Shangri-La Asia and Lifestyle International Holdings added significant value to returns. In addition, the sizeable exposure to consumer staples names positively influenced the fund's relative performance. Notably, the non benchmark holding in the operator of 7-Eleven convenience stores in Taiwan, President Chain Store, contributed as its expansion plans in China were well received by investors. The underweight stance in telecommunications and stock selection in the information technology sector boosted gains.

The fund is biased towards consumer related sectors. Online social networking and gaming firm Tencent Holdings is the fund's top stock holding. It has over 75% of China's internet user base and its diversified product offering and ubiquitous services offer huge monetisation potential. A number of insurance firms, such as a non benchmark position in AIA Group and the overweight stance in Ping An Insurance Group and China Life Insurance are held in view of under penetration in the financials sector. Besides China, the fund also holds companies listed in Hong Kong and Taiwan. The influx of mainland Chinese shoppers and their preference for high end luxury products are key drivers in the Hong Kong retail market, whilst Taiwan's travel and tourism sector is benefiting from the pickup in Chinese tourists.

China Focus Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 5,270 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese equities rose over the period, led by gains in energy, materials and information technology stocks. The government continued its efforts to reduce bank lending, rein in inflation and slow economic growth to a more sustainable pace. The 12th Five Year Plan, introduced in March 2011, reinforced the government's focus on shifting the economy from an export to a consumption driven model and on achieving sustainable growth by improving social safety nets.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, due to selected holdings in internet and consumer names. A high conviction holding in online media firm Sina was the single largest contributor to performance. Solid earnings and the success of Weibo, its Twitter like service, supported its share price. A position in online social networking portal Tencent Holdings, which is well positioned to monetise the rising internet penetration in China, was also beneficial to performance. The holding in ladies footwear retailer Belle International Holdings also helped returns. Conversely, energy sector holdings hindered performance. In particular, below benchmark exposure to PetroChina was detrimental to returns as its shares tracked global oil prices higher. The manager, however, prefers CNOOC due to its purer oil and gas exposure. Similarly, relatively low exposure to coal producers China Shenhua Energy and Yanzhou Coal Mining limited gains as these stocks benefited from higher coal prices. The manager, however, maintains an underweight stance in these stocks due to regulatory risks in the sector.

The manager continues to prefer firms that enjoy strong pricing power or have strong growth potential. Exposure to China Mengniu Dairy was enhanced as the current supply/demand dynamic in the milk industry will enable it to reduce its cost of purchase going forward. Exposure to Daphne International, which has a large presence in the low tier footwear market, was increased as it is positioned to benefit from the government's focus on boosting disposable income in the lower and middle income brackets. The position in coal based power company China Resources Power was closed after it fell out of favour in light of the policy thrust on clean and renewable energy.

China Opportunities Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 60 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese equities rose over the period, led by gains in energy, materials and information technology stocks. The government continued its efforts to reduce bank lending, rein in inflation and slow economic growth to a more sustainable pace. The 12th Five Year Plan, introduced in March 2011, reinforced the government's focus on shifting the economy from an export to a consumption driven model and on achieving sustainable growth by improving social safety nets. Hong Kong benefited from the expansion in regional economies and strong retail sales given the inflow of Chinese tourists.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, supported by selected holdings in the consumer discretionary sector. Notably, a position in Brilliance China Automotive Holdings was the top contributor to performance, given strong first half earnings and exposure to the luxury car segment. Macau casino operator SJM Holdings also buoyed returns amid rising spending by Chinese tourists. A high conviction holding in online media firm Sina also added value, given solid earnings and the success of Weibo, its Twitter like service. Positive earnings momentum lifted the position in search engine Baidu, which benefited from an increase in the number of internet users and the popularity of ecommerce. Materials and industrials stocks were buoyed by a rise in commodity prices. Conversely, holdings in consumer staples were hurt by inflation concerns and financials positions dampened returns due to profit taking in some property names.

The fund maintains an overweight position in stocks that are likely to benefit from increasing consumerism in the region. However, a holding in China Yurun Food Group was sold after contamination of its competitor's hogs dampened sentiment. Exposure to the industrials and materials sectors was increased. In the former, the position in Hutchison Whampoa was raised in light of improved earnings in its mobile phone division due to the increased adoption of the iPhone in Hong Kong. Exposure to ship manufacturer COSCO (Singapore) was increased given the improved sector outlook. The underweight position in utilities and telecommunications names was maintained due to better investment opportunities elsewhere.

Emerging Asia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 699 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging Asia equities advanced over the 12 month period on signs that the worst impact of the global economic crisis had faded. Further, a second round of quantitative easing in the US boosted fund flows into the region. The emergence of the European debt crisis, Chinese monetary and regulatory tightening and threat of inflation in Asia, and later, geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan caused volatility. Consumer oriented sectors performed well as the outlook for consumption growth remained upbeat. Strong corporate earnings boosted technology names and energy stocks tracked international oil prices higher. Meanwhile, utilities, materials and industrials names lagged average market returns.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Stock selection within materials contributed to returns. In particular, Chinese gold producer Zhaojin Mining Industry added value as demand for the precious metal surged. Chinese internet names, such as Sohu.com and Baidu boosted returns, buoyed by continued growth in their user base and growing advertising revenue. Non benchmark exposure to profitable financial businesses, including Indian truck leasing company Shriram Transport Finance and Security Bank in the Philippines underpinned gains. High conviction holdings in certain discretionary stocks, such as China based Great Wall Motor and Macau casino operator SJM Holdings also proved rewarding. Conversely, the underweight stance relative to the benchmark in energy stocks, including PetroChina and Indonesian coal producer Bumi Resources held back gains.

The fund remains positioned to benefit from the structural growth in Emerging Asia, with overweight positions in consumer discretionary, financials and health care. Going into 2011, the manager raised exposure to stocks that should benefit from the expected recovery in developed markets, such as materials and energy names, software services providers and certain exporters. Meanwhile, the fund retains an underweight stance in utilities, consumer staples and telecommunications shares, as the manager seeks better investment opportunities in growth sectors.

Emerging Europe, Middle East and Africa Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 1,696 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Continued recovery in global growth, accommodative monetary policy in the developed world and a weak dollar provided a positive backdrop for emerging markets over the past 12 months. A second round of quantitative easing by the US Federal Reserve and record low yields on US Treasuries stoked demand for risk assets, including commodities. Oil prices rose over 30% in the last five months given supply concerns amid the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East. North African stock markets suffered heavy losses as a result. Rising energy and food prices led to concerns over inflationary pressures, especially given the high weight of these two components in many emerging market Consumer Price Index baskets.

The fund underperformed its benchmark. Stock selection in materials was disappointing, whereas the overweight stance in consumer discretionary and financials helped returns. Not holding Polish silver miner KGHM Polska Miedz, whose share price doubled over the period, hurt returns. The overweight stance in miner Mechel was mistimed, as its coking coal assets were appreciated by the market towards the end of 2010, by when exposure had been reduced. The off benchmark position in Aquarium Platinum detracted from returns as it was forced to close one of its mines on safety concerns. Exposure to Russian fertiliser producer Uralkali added value as a rise in food prices led to increased demand for its product. The positions in retailers Mr Price Group, Shoprite Holdings and Woolworths Holdings were key contributors to performance on the back of improving consumer confidence and retail sales in South Africa.

The fund remains focused on consumption trends in the EMEA region. Selected telecommunications holdings were raised from a significant underweight by adding to the position in South African provider MTN Group and Kenyan Safaricom, as well as Russian conglomerate JSFC Sistema. Exposure to Turkey was reduced following a slight reduction in financials due to its central bank's unconventional monetary policy. Holdings in Sberbank of Russia, oil & gas firm NovaTek and gold miner Polymetal were trimmed due to an uncertain outlook for Russian exporters.

Emerging Markets Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 3,561 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Continued recovery in global growth, accommodative monetary policy in the developed world and a weak dollar provided a positive backdrop for emerging markets over the past 12 months. A second round of quantitative easing by the US Federal Reserve and record low yields on US treasuries stoked demand for risk assets, including commodities. Oil prices rose over 30% in five months given supply concerns amid the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East. The smaller emerging Asian and Latin American markets were the strongest performers, whilst the major markets of China, Brazil and India lagged.

The fund outperformed its benchmark. The underweight exposure to Brazil, including the decision to avoid integrated oil major Petrobras contributed to performance as a strengthening Real, high relative valuations and its large secondary issuance hampered stock market performance. Rapid growth in Chinese internet penetration drove revenues in the off benchmark position in Sohu.com and the overweight holding in Tencent Holdings. Global smartphone adoption aided iPhone component manufacturer Largan Precision. Automobile stocks were also notable contributors, with China's largest SUV manufacturer Great Wall Motor and Korean parts maker Hyundai Mobis adding value. Stock selection in Russia and Korea, notably the overweight positions in Gazprom, Mechel and KT Corp, hurt returns. The off benchmark holding in Chinese insurer CNinsure was the single largest detractor from returns as corporate governance concerns affected investor sentiment.

The fund's largest sector overweights are in consumer discretionary and materials. Positions in copper miners Equinox and Kazakhmys were sold; exposure to precious metals holdings were increased and new positions in UK listed AngloGold Ashanti and Russian silver producer Polymetal were added. Mobile internet technology is an important theme, and is played both through component producers such as Samsung Electronics and online content providers such as Tencent Holdings. Exposure to the industrials and telecommunications sector is below benchmark due to fierce competition in the former and lack of real growth opportunities in emerging markets in the latter.

Euro Blue Chip Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 510 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May 2010. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the review period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and inflationary concerns evolved.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, as the continuous focus on companies that can grow from within was rewarded. Selected consumer discretionary names benefited from strong demand in Asia, especially China. In particular, Hugo Boss completed its restructuring and generated strong business in Europe and Asia. Elsewhere, a cautious stance towards consumer staples firms, which are being pressured by higher input costs, proved helpful to returns. Moreover, the overweight exposure to chemicals companies helped as rising commodity prices supported the sector. An underweight stance in utilities also added value as the segment suffered from fears of regulatory restrictions. Elsewhere, stock selection in the energy sector dampened returns, with the position in Sevan Marine declining due to balance sheet issues that the group is trying to fix by raising capital.

The underweight stance in consumer staples firms was increased amid pricing pressure by selling stocks such as Henkel. In the energy sector, the position in Total was sold as it faces modest production growth. The manager also reduced holdings in some consumer discretionary names that reached fair valuation, including Continental. This money was invested in attractively valued high growth media names such as Modern Times Group. Positions were also added in industrials and chemicals firms that are expected to gain market share or benefit from a pick up in demand. For instance, exposure to Siemens was increased.

EURO STOXX 50™ Fund 2,3

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 259 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the review period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment, whilst the rise in oil and food prices led to concerns about inflationary pressures.

The fund slightly underperformed its benchmark over the review period. The fund belongs to the class of investment funds known as index trackers. These funds are invested in such a way that they provide returns that are as close as possible to that of the index. The fund uses index tracking techniques; hence, there is no attempt to add value through stock selection. The fund manager seeks to ensure long term capital growth by closely matching the Euro STOXX 50 Index with minimum tracking error. The Euro STOXX 50 Index is a concentrated index of the 50 largest companies in the eurozone. The manager does not make any stock, sector or geographical investment decisions.

The fund's cash position should not be regarded as meaning that the fund is under exposed to the index, as any cash balance is typically equitised with equity index futures contracts in order to efficiently manage cash flows into the fund at reduced costs. The sector and top security holdings weightings, therefore, more closely match index weightings when the exposure provided by such equity index futures contracts is accounted for.

European Aggressive Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 1,091 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and the rise in oil and food prices led to concerns about inflationary pressures.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the review period. Security selection in industrials and financials detracted from returns. Shares in wind turbine gearbox manufacturer Hansen Transmissions were hurt by lower demand as funding for large scale projects dried up. However, the manager still holds the stock as its valuation is attractive; it has a strong competitive position and stands to benefit from high growth in China. Banks suffered due to the debt crisis in peripheral eurozone. Consequently, positions in Bank of Ireland, Irish Life & Permanent and BNP Paribas slid. On a positive note, security selection in consumer discretionary contributed strongly to returns. Automobile firm BMW was boosted by higher sales and its plans to increase volumes in China. Health care positions also proved favourable to performance.

The fund continues to be positioned for a global economic recovery and a more favourable environment for European equities. The manager increased exposure to materials companies. A new position was added in Aperam, a stainless steel company that was spun off from ArcelorMittal. The firm should be more efficient due to higher utilisation levels at its plants and should also increase its level of vertical integration, which will result in cost savings. The manager reduced exposure to consumer staples names; the positions in Ahold and Nestle were sold for better opportunities elsewhere.

European Dividend Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 1 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and inflationary concerns evolved.

The fund underperformed its benchmark since its launch in November 2010. A general defensive position hampered performance as investors preferred cyclical sectors in a rising market. In particular, holdings in France Telecom and Telefonica negatively impacted performance, due to fears of increasing competition and a tough pricing environment. The manager retained the overweight stance in these stocks in view of high dividend yields. Within financials, exposure to HSBC Holdings detracted from returns after the company missed estimates. Despite an overall cautious stance, the manager has been reducing the extent of the underweight stance in financials with the purchase of shares such as BNP Paribas amid expectations of increasing dividends. On a positive note, not holding Lloyds Banking Group and Standard Chartered helped relative performance because investors were concerned about strict new regulations on capital requirements. A position in UK energy company BG Group also contributed to returns after it reported higher profits and committed to increase its full year dividend.

Overall, the fund tends to have a large cap tilt. The manager favours traditionally defensive sectors such as pharmaceuticals and telecommunications, and regulated areas, including utilities as they pay reliable dividends. Key holdings in these segments include National Grid, Vodafone Group, Roche Holding and GlaxoSmithKline. Nevertheless, positions in utilities Centrica and Terna were sold in favour of better investment opportunities elsewhere.

European Dynamic Growth Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 507 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment, whilst the rise in oil and food prices led to concerns about inflationary pressures.

Over the period, the fund outperformed its benchmark. Security selection in the energy, health care and consumer discretionary sectors contributed to performance. An underweight position in BP was favourable to relative returns as the stock was negatively impacted by a major oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. Shares in Novo Nordisk benefited from Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approval of its key drug Victoza, which was later commercially released. Radiation therapy equipment manufacturer Elekta advanced on analyst upgrades, citing higher order growth. Tod's, an Italian luxury goods manufacturer, was buoyed by strong sales and a positive outlook. However, a position in hearing aid manufacturer Sonova Holding suffered after it issued a profit warning due to a slow start in launching new products and subsequent corporate governance issues.

The fund retains its bias towards higher quality growth companies. The manager used the recent weakness in "growth" stocks to top up positions in some high conviction ideas. A new position in an Italian scooter manufacturer that is seeing high emerging market growth was purchased. The manager also increased exposure to the materials sector, where a position in Sika, a speciality chemicals company, was added as it is benefiting from structural growth for its cement aggregates products. Conversely, the manager reduced holdings in the health care sector by taking profits in Lonza Group and QIAGEN.

Manager's Overview

European equities rose in the period under review owing to continued economic growth and rising corporate earnings. However, market performance was volatile as investors grew increasingly concerned about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries. In order to shore up finances in the region, the European Union and the International Monetary fund announced an emergency loan package in early May. In addition, the European Central Bank delayed withdrawing its liquidity measures and purchased government bonds from the peripheral countries. Geopolitical unrest in North Africa and the Middle East led to further market volatility, whilst a rise in oil and food prices led to concerns about inflationary pressures.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Security selection in the energy and consumer discretionary sectors contributed significantly to fund performance. At a stock level, an underweight position in BP was the largest contributor to relative returns. Shares in the company were negatively impacted by a major oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. Holding BMW proved positive to performance as the company benefited from higher sales, together with plans to increase volumes in China. Shares in luxury goods company Burberry Group were boosted by market speculation of a bid interest from a US private equity firm. Conversely, the position in construction materials firm CRH declined as the firm issued a profit warning, driven by the weakening economic recovery in the US. The holding was trimmed over the period.

The portfolio continues to be a blend of styles with a slight growth tilt. It is biased towards the more cyclical consumer discretionary and technology sectors and is overweight in energy relative to its benchmark. Energy services companies include Saipem and Aker Solutions, which are a play on rising capital spending by integrated oil companies. Companies with pricing power look attractive and holdings in firms with this theme have been increased. There is less exposure to companies in the consumer staples, telecommunications and utilities sectors.

European Growth Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 8,394 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May 2010. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the review period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and inflationary concerns evolved.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. Among financials, UK banking stocks Lloyds Banking Group and Barclays were key detractors from performance, owing to concerns about strict new regulations on capital requirements. Selected consumer services, technology and industrials companies also hampered returns. Elsewhere, a new holding in Vodafone Group, which is not facing pricing issues like its competitors, retreated as investors reacted negatively to the sale of its stake in French mobile operator SFR and its peer issued a profit warning. On a positive note, consumer goods positions gained on the back of strong demand for luxury products from Asia, especially China. In particular, Burberry Group continued to post healthy results and also benefited from market speculation of a bid interest. Shares in automotive industry supplier Continental advanced after its debt raising offset uncertainty related to its future structure. An underweight stance in utilities also added value as the sector suffered from fears of regulatory restrictions.

Among consumer stocks, the manager took profits in Burberry Group, Cie Financiere Richemont and Swatch Group, and moved out of Anheuser-Busch InBev and SABMiller, which surged last year. Conversely, the manager is positive about the oil & gas and basic materials sectors, and has bought a position in Lanxess, which has a leading position in the synthetic rubber industry. Other new purchases included oil & gas producer Gazprom, whose outlook for 2011 is improving.

European Larger Companies Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 81 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and inflationary concerns evolved.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the review period. CRH was a key detractor from performance, due to worries about the fragility of the growth in the US. Among financials, investors failed to recognise strong volumes for stock exchange operator Deutsche Boerse, whilst AXA fell after its first half income disappointed and it lost a major client in its investment division. Key health care holdings also proved unfavourable to returns. A position in hearing aid company Sonova Holding fell due to lower than expected sales. On a positive note, security selection in energy stocks helped performance. A cautious stance in BP benefited the fund as its shares slumped, following concerns over clean up costs and compensation related to the oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. In the consumer staples sector, speciality bakery Aryzta gained after its upbeat first half results showed an incremental improvement in organic growth. Among industrials, the holding in Schneider Electric enjoyed significant contract wins and has since been sold.

Matthew Siddle took over the management of the fund on 1 October 2010. He looks for quality companies at an attractive price based on valuations over a full market cycle. The manager has increased the number of positions and reduced the fund's concentration in its top holdings, but has only marginally changed the active money. Long term positions in Ryanair, Reed Elsevier, AXA, Roche Holding, Novartis and Neopost were sold and exposure to CRH was reduced.

European Smaller Companies Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 1,004 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose as both the economy and corporate earnings improved. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May 2010. In 2011, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and inflationary concerns evolved.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, with significant contribution from stock selection, especially in the financials, energy, consumer discretionary, materials and information technology sectors. Quarter on quarter results that were above consensus expectations, for example, software firms Velti and Blinkx; electrical equipment firm XP Power; and financials GlobeOp Financial Services and VZ Holding, produced strong returns. Holdings in metals & mining and oil & gas exploration names rose as these firms announced positive newsflow regarding feasibility studies demonstrating encouraging production figures. In financials, key holdings performed well and lack of exposure to peripheral European countries aided the fund's relative performance. Lastly, selected holdings, including DataCash and SeLogger.com contributed to fund returns as their share prices increased due to takeover bids. The fund suffered some losses, with a couple of companies' share prices declining substantially. Connaught retreated after the social housing group said it would breach its banking covenants. Xchanging detracted following profit warnings and the departure of its CEO raised questions over its accounting policies. Online gambling companies Playtech and Bwin.Party Digital Entertainment suffered from regulation in Europe.

Over the period, the fund manager reduced the overweight stance in technology by trimming holdings in key contributors such as IBS Group and Velti. Materials and energy names, such as Aker Drilling, were added to, given the positive outlook on commodities. The weight in industrials was decreased as alternative energy names, such as SMA Solar Technology and Vestas Wind Systems were sold due to a change in their investment thesis.

European Special Situations Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 90 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in peripheral countries. Towards the end of the period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and the rise in oil and food prices led to concerns about inflationary pressures.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, as security selection in the health care and industrials sectors detracted from performance. Holding Teva Pharmaceutical Industries hurt returns on news of strong competition for some of its key drugs. Hearing aid manufacturer Sonova suffered due to a profit warning as a result of a new product launch delay. Conversely, positioning in the energy sector added value. An underweight stance in BP was favourable as it was hurt by a major oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. Short positions also contributed to returns over the period. Particularly, a short position in a Spanish bank helped returns, as its shares were hurt by the debt crisis. In addition, a short position in a dental implant firm contributed as it faced structural pricing pressures.

The fund is positioned for a stronger than anticipated economic recovery and an upturn in stock markets. The manager bought a position in the London Stock Exchange because it is likely to benefit from a step change in earnings due to a combination of factors such as less competition, cost cutting, better technology and more derivatives business. The merger with TMX will also be a positive if it goes ahead. Conversely, the stake in Clariant was sold. Elsewhere, the manager found more short opportunities. A new short position was opened in a food and personal care firm as a pair trade with a long position in Nestle. The firm has weaker pricing power due to inferior brands/market position compared to Nestle and will find it harder to pass on higher raw material costs.

France Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 292 MILLION

Manager's Overview

French equities rose along with the broader European market, as both the economy and corporate earnings improved. Worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone led to the markets intermittently retreating. In 2011, the unrest in the Middle East and the rise in oil and food prices dampened market sentiment.

The fund underperformed its benchmark due to some positions in the information technology (IT) and financials sectors. In September, Meetic's CEO announced that the firm was exploring strategic options with another large shareholder, but in December they decided not to sell their stakes, which led to a decline in Meetic's share price. LeGuide.com's share price was eclipsed by its first quarter 2011 results as its sales did not meet the market's expectations. Lack of exposure to some strong stocks, such as Alcatel-Lucent and Rhodia also impacted relative performance. Conversely, among industrials, holdings in Wendel, Edenred, Saint-Gobain and Eiffage contributed to returns as these companies reported better than expected earnings. In the consumer discretionary space, Christian Dior's performance was driven by its own and the industry's strong results. The underweight position in LVMH Moët Hennessy Louis Vuitton detracted from returns; however, this was more than offset by Dior's performance. Positions in Faurecia and Michelin also helped performance. The underweight stance in utilities proved rewarding, as not holding Electricité de France and exiting Veolia early in the period helped.

Over the year, the largest changes were made in financials and consumer discretionary holdings. The exposure to financials was increased with a bigger weight in Societe Generale and new positions in Credit Agricole, Unibail-Rodamco and Euler Hermes. The weighting in consumer discretionary was decreased as profits were taken in Publicis and SeLoger.com. The manager sold Peugeot in favour of Faurecia, and exited Accor to pick up a stake in Edenred, the vouchers business that was spun off from Accor.

Germany Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 1,060 MILLION

Manager's Overview

German equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings strengthened. Germany is emerging from the recent financial crisis in a comparatively stronger position with a low unemployment level. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May 2010. Towards the end of the period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and inflationary concerns evolved.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. A cautious stance in utilities contributed significantly to performance, as the sector suffered due to fears of regulatory restrictions. The position in Hugo Boss benefited from restructuring and positive trends in all its markets, especially China and Germany. Moreover, improving profitability and resilient luxury demand from China supported shares in BMW. The manager decreased the exposure to automobile companies based on stretched valuations. For instance, some profits were taken in Daimler and BMW and holdings in Continental and ElingKlinger were sold. Stock selection within the chemicals sector led to mixed results. An underweight stance in BASF, Lanxess and Bayer hurt returns, whilst the overweight holdings in Linde and Wacker Chemie gained as the sector was supported by rising commodity prices. Elsewhere, a cautious stance in Deutsche Telekom detracted from relative returns after it posted healthy results and investors reacted positively to news of the sale of its T-Mobile business in the US.

Christian Von Engelbrechten took over the management of the fund on 1 January 2011. Capitalising on the market's weakness, he added to high conviction industrials and materials stocks such as Linde and Wacker Chemie. Holdings in consumer firms that are expected to face pricing pressures, such as Adidas, were sold. Elsewhere, the fund has an underweight stance relative to the benchmark in defensive areas that are facing a weak earnings outlook such as utilities and telecommunications.

Global Consumer Industries Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 157 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities delivered robust returns in a period marked by growing macroeconomic optimism. Initial concerns about a "double dip" recession in the US were mitigated by improving economic data and further quantitative easing. Investor sentiment was also supported by continued strong growth in emerging markets and a healthy pace of merger and acquisition activity. However, the surge in oil prices coupled with soaring food costs revived inflationary concerns in emerging markets and mass market consumption remained lacklustre in the developed world. Overall, the consumer discretionary sector outperformed consumer staples stocks.

The fund posted healthy absolute returns, but underperformed its benchmark. English language training and proficiency testing services provider Global Education & Technology Group detracted from returns after it revealed that margins would come under pressure in 2011 due to investments in strengthening its K-12 franchise. Elsewhere, exposure to BaWang International and Procter & Gamble held back returns. The former, a Chinese shampoo maker, was pressured due to weaker sales and additional marketing costs, whilst the latter's margins were hurt by higher commodity input costs. BaWang was sold and the exposure to Procter & Gamble was trimmed. Conversely, selected automobile manufacturers, including an overweight stance in BMW and new positions in Hyundai Motor and Volkswagen, were among the key contributors to performance. BMW and Volkswagen reported encouraging profits, driven by robust sales in emerging markets, particularly China. Hyundai made further inroads into the US with new models and profited from supply chain disruptions at Toyota Motor.

The manager does not expect a V shaped recovery in consumer spending from 2010 levels, and therefore focuses on companies that are likely to grow faster than the rest of the sector, but are attractively valued. Structural growth stories, such as market share gainers, online retailers and emerging markets businesses are favoured. Other areas of focus include sectors that are seeing unsustainably low demand, supply constrained industries and misunderstood businesses.

Global Financial Services Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 242 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period, but the financials sector failed to keep pace with the broader market. The initial anxiety about a "double dip" recession in the US was replaced with optimism about a broader global economic recovery. Round two of the quantitative easing initiated by leading central banks in the developed world also assured investors. Better than expected economic data releases from the US proved beneficial, but concerns about the contagion impact of the sovereign debt crisis in peripheral Europe persisted. Political and social unrest in Egypt and Libya followed by earthquake driven destruction in Japan also unnerved investors.

The fund outperformed its benchmark. Stock selection in commercial banks and capital market firms lifted returns. Overweight holdings in Federal Bank and Aozora Bank were key contributors to performance. Investors favoured the former, a well funded Indian bank benefiting from a strong macroeconomic backdrop; its top management change was also seen in a positive light. The latter, a Japanese lender, issued a substantial upgrade to its earnings expectations for the full year. During the period, the manager took profits in Federal Bank and reduced exposure to Aozora Bank. An overweight position in Bank Rakyat Indonesia Persero and a new holding in Bank Mandiri also added to the fund's value, given the healthy pace of loan growth in the Indonesian economy. In contrast, Japanese positions in NTT Urban Development, Chuo Mitsui Trust (now Sumitomo Mitsui Trust Holdings), and T&D Holdings were negatively impacted by news of the earthquake. Exposure to Wells Fargo & Co hurt returns, as it reported weak revenue growth.

The fund manager seeks to identify stock specific themes rather than take macroeconomic bets in an uncertain environment. Themes include: avoiding companies exposed to sovereign debt; increasing exposure to non life insurance companies that could hold up well in a strong and weak growth environment; exposure to stocks that are not sensitive to interest rates; European life assurance companies with good potential upside; selected Spanish banks and attractively valued financial stocks in emerging markets and Japan.

Global Focus Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 182 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Equities rose despite intermittent concerns related to the sovereign debt crisis in peripheral Europe and political unrest in oil producing nations. Investors were initially upbeat about global growth prospects, but soon became worried about the likelihood of another recession in the US, where economic indicators stalled temporarily. The announcement of further quantitative easing offset some of these fears. A subsequent improvement in US economic indicators and continued rapid expansion in emerging markets supported sentiment, although the latter battled inflationary pressures. Corporate profitability remained robust and deal activity gathered pace.

The fund kept up with its benchmark, which generated robust returns. Technology holdings contributed to returns; in particular, improved investor perception about US employment growth prospects buoyed jobs website operator Monster Worldwide. Meanwhile, desktop virtualisation beneficiary Citrix Systems reported better than expected quarterly revenues. The manager took profits in both. In contrast, Cisco Systems' results disappointed, but the manager felt it was attractively valued and would benefit from growth in data/video traffic. Elsewhere, materials positions lent support. Fertiliser firm CF Industries benefited from an encouraging demand outlook given higher crop prices, whilst elevated platinum prices supported autocatalysts business Umicore.

Amit Lodha assumed responsibility for the fund in October 2010. Like his predecessor, his macro view informs where he looks for investment opportunities, but his primary focus is on stock selection. He favours firms with pricing power, strong balance sheets and healthy cash flows. The large overweights in technology and health care reflected opportunities to invest in attractively valued businesses with good cash flows and innovative products. The modest above benchmark stance in energy suggested a positive long term view on oil prices, despite some shorter term reservations about the sustainability of the currently high price levels. The susceptibility of consumer staples and utilities to rising raw material/commodity costs justified their underweight positioning.

Global Health Care Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 331 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Health care stocks delivered robust absolute returns, but underperformed global equities as a whole. Initially, concerns over the impact of European austerity measures on health care revenues, high profile Food & Drug Administration (FDA) non approvals and disappointing patient volumes in the US hurt sentiment. However, firms subsequently demonstrated an ability to cut costs to overcome tighter government budgets. Also, investors recognised that companies, such as generics manufacturers, were well placed to cater to a system focused on saving costs. Furthermore, Republican dominance in the US House of Representatives slowed the impetus behind reforms and improved prospects of previously impacted businesses.

The fund registered absolute gains but underperformed its benchmark. Security selection in the pharmaceuticals space detracted from returns. An underweight exposure to Pfizer held back relative performance after it reported encouraging quarterly results, and announced asset sales and a share buyback. However, long term fundamentals remained weak, given patent expiry concerns and a lacklustre pipeline. Meanwhile, Roche Holding was hurt after scientific advisers to the FDA voted to rescind a key drug's clearance. In contrast, an underweight stance in Abbott Laboratories, whose key growth drivers are slowing due to competitive threats, lent relative support. The holding in Novo Nordisk also helped returns after it posted better than expected quarterly results. Russian drug distributor Protek's profit warning hampered gains, but other emerging market names, including diagnostics firm Diagnosticos da America and drug retailer Drogasil contributed to performance.

The manager favours attractively valued businesses that benefit from long term fundamental drivers such as a growing demand for affordable health care, increasing emerging market health care spending, lifestyle related diseases, higher life expectancy and unmet medical needs. The manager prefers companies with strong products and pipelines, such as orphan drug firm BioMarin Pharmaceutical, where a position has been built. New emerging market names, such as Amil Participacoes and Hikma Pharmaceuticals have also been added.

Global Industrials Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 358 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose notably as the initial anxiety about a "double dip" recession in the US was replaced with optimism about a broad based recovery in global economic activity. A second round of quantitative easing initiated by leading central banks in the developed world, particularly the Federal Reserve, assured investors about policymakers' willingness to support economic expansion. Encouraging economic data releases from the US and continued strength in emerging markets, coupled with additional liquidity from stimulus support boosted commodity prices. In the latter half, oil prices rose sharply given the geopolitical unrest in Egypt and Libya.

The fund posted robust absolute returns, but slightly underperformed its benchmark. Stock selection in metals & mining and energy added value. An overweight stance in Silver Wheaton was a key contributor to returns. Investors favoured its business model, where upfront payment allowed access to future silver production from high quality mines at a low fixed cost. A new position in copper producer Katanga Mining lifted returns amid a surge in copper prices. An underweight stance in BP around the time of the rig explosion in the Gulf of Mexico benefited performance. A new position in Hess helped returns after it acquired assets in the Bakken oil shale play, which will enhance its oil output. However, Philips Electronics detracted from performance as weakness in its consumer electronics business overshadowed growth in its lighting and health care segments. Positions in Keyence and Omron hurt returns because of the effect of a stronger yen on these Japanese automation firms' international revenues.

Angel Agudo and Christopher Moore took over as co managers on 17 January 2011. Within industrials, exposure to firms benefiting from sustainable economic growth and expanding order books was increased. Among materials, the focus was on safer, quality gold producers and on those that suffered operational problems that appeared to be behind them. Profits were taken in energy firms that performed well when the oil price spiked in early 2011. The proceeds were moved into larger defensive oil & gas firms.

Manager's Overview

Global property shares posted robust returns, outperforming equities and bonds. In a low growth and interest rate environment, increasing property yields drew investors back into the sector. Improving capital availability and lower costs, considered crucial for such a capital intensive sector, also supported sentiment. In fact, companies began to leverage their cost of capital advantage to acquire businesses that could drive future growth. From a fundamental standpoint, increasing macroeconomic optimism supported a recovery across many regions. Residential property, concentrated in areas such as China, Singapore and Hong Kong, continued to see robust growth. However, this segment remained heavily influenced by policy developments, and share price movements followed investor sentiment.

The fund generated robust absolute returns, but underperformed its benchmark. Security selection in the US was a key detractor. Host Hotels & Resorts held back fund returns owing to its lacklustre fourth quarter results. Meanwhile, concerns about policy tightening detracted from the performance of Hong Kong listed shares, such as Sun Hung Kai Properties and New World Development despite positive stock specific fundamentals. In contrast, security selection in the UK was positive, led by exposure to British Land and Land Securities Group, as investors became more positive on a cyclical recovery in UK commercial property.

The offensive/defensive trade theme that the fund manager had been pursuing since the credit crisis played out during the year. The manager subsequently shifted focus to firms with the ability to grow their businesses through acquisitions. Consequently, the manager built positions in Public Storage and British Land because their balance sheet strength and management capability make them particularly well equipped to pursue merger and acquisition activity. The manager also maintained the high exposure to real estate investment trusts (REITs), adding to holdings such as ProLogis, which offer attractive yields in an otherwise low interest rate environment.

Global Real Asset Securities Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 219 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose notably, as the initial anxiety about a "double dip" recession in the US was replaced with optimism about a broad based recovery in global economic activity. A second round of quantitative easing initiated by leading central banks in the developed world, particularly the Federal Reserve, assured investors about policymakers' willingness to support economic expansion. Encouraging economic data releases from the US and continued strength in emerging markets, coupled with additional liquidity from stimulus support boosted commodity prices. In the latter half of the period, oil prices rose sharply given the geopolitical uncertainty in Egypt and Libya.

The fund delivered robust absolute returns and outperformed its benchmark. Security selection in energy and materials contributed substantially to returns. An overweight holding in Aurelian Oil & Gas was a key contributor to performance in light of commencement of drilling operations at its Siekierki well and a series of gas field discoveries in Poland. A new position in Hess lifted fund returns following its acquisition of assets in the Bakken oil shale play, which was expected to contribute significantly to oil output over the next five years. These two holdings were subsequently sold. The overall exposure to energy was reduced in the last months of the review period, as the sharp increase in crude prices lowered the margin of safety in these holdings. Exposure to Sawada Holdings helped fund performance. Sawada is funding the largest copper project in Mongolia through its subsidiary Khan Bank; investors recognised that the Oyu Tolgoi project would support a broader range of infrastructure development activity in Mongolia and expand its economy. A position in Katanga Mining lifted returns amid a surge in copper prices and tight supply. The manager continued to invest in those firms in the value chain that have pricing power. In the materials sector, this included diversified miners Anglo American and Xstrata, as well as gold producers. An underweight stance in utilities also supported relative returns in light of rising input costs and their limited ability to pass these on to customers.

Global Opportunities Fund***

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 497 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose notably, as the initial anxiety about a "double dip" recession in the US was replaced with optimism about a broad based recovery in global economic activity. A second round of quantitative easing also re-assured investors that policymakers were committed to supporting economic expansion. Encouraging economic data releases from the US and continued strength in emerging markets boosted commodity prices. In the latter half of the review period, oil prices rose sharply, given the wave of civil unrest across the Middle East and North Africa.

The fund underperformed its benchmark during the review period. Cisco Systems was the biggest detractor from fund performance in light of earnings disappointments. However, the manager remains convinced that this long term quality business will benefit from growth in data and video traffic. Japanese positions Ricoh and T&D Holdings were caught in the sell off prompted by the earthquake in March. Meanwhile, the position in AsialInfo-Linkage held back returns over concerns about its outlook for 2011. The exposure to Teva Pharmaceutical Industries also detracted from performance in light of a shortfall in its US sales, which led to weaker than expected profits. These four positions were closed. Encouragingly, conviction in BMW paid off, as the car manufacturer recorded robust sales in emerging markets, particularly China. Renewed interest in thermal coal in view of issues with the Fukushima nuclear plant, coupled with expectations of undersupply of both metallurgical and thermal coal, lifted Peabody Energy's shares, allowing the manager to take profits and exit the holding.

Despite selling some holdings where the manager felt the aftermath of the disaster had fundamentally destroyed the investment thesis, the fund remains somewhat overweight in Japan. The manager believes that the remaining holdings will recover as the rest of 2011 plays out. Sector wise, the fund is overweight in health care, offset by an underweight position in financials. Security selection is driven by bottom up stock considerations as the outlook for the rest of 2011 may be somewhat less benign than that seen to date.

Global Technology Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 496 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Equities rose despite intermittent concerns related to the sovereign debt crisis in peripheral Europe and political unrest in oil producing nations. Technology stocks, which performed strongly after the credit crisis, ended the review period almost unchanged. Investors worried about intermittent consumer demand weakness and the possibility that the introduction of tablets would hurt PC demand. Encouragingly, for the first time since the credit crisis began, corporate demand appeared to normalise, with companies planning long term information technology (IT) strategies (rather than focusing on cost savings). However, much of the goodwill associated with this development was offset by the Japan earthquake, which hit the global technology supply chain by causing damage to production facilities.

The fund marginally underperformed its benchmark. The overweight stance in Cisco Systems hurt returns after it reported disappointing quarterly results. However, the manager believes the business has the ability to overcome competition and benefit from the structural growth in data traffic. Meanwhile, the Japanese earthquake damaged portfolio overweight Ricoh's production facilities; the stock was sold. In contrast, security selection in the internet software & services segment contributed to performance. Monster Worldwide's shares were buoyed by a pickup in hiring activity and a favourable earnings outlook, whilst eBay's better than anticipated quarterly results showcased strength in its PayPal business.

The manager significantly reduced exposure to the semiconductor & semiconductor equipment sub sector, as the thesis around stocks such as Lam Research and First Solar played out. The proceeds were used to add to software positions with growth drivers, such as BMC Software, a business involved in data centre control and virtualization. At the end of the period, the portfolio had a bias towards beneficiaries of a recovery in enterprise IT spending, mobile/internet data traffic growth and expanding Chinese domestic demand. The fund also owned a mixture of special situations/undervalued franchises as well as mid sized companies with the potential to be acquisition targets.

Global Telecommunications Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 316 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Telecommunications stocks ended the review period on a strong note, outperforming global equities. Resilient earnings, stable cash flows and attractive dividend yields made stocks in the sector more attractive. The emergence of new growth catalysts from technological advances, such as smartphones also helped returns. Data releases highlighted that smartphone adoption is becoming more mainstream in developed markets and now forms a significant part of the subscriber base, helping incremental sales. The resultant higher data demand led to revenue growth for some operators. Further benefits should be derived from increasing tablet PC penetration and the growing affordability of handsets in data hungry emerging markets. Deal activity also boosted share prices.

The fund generated robust absolute returns, but slightly underperformed its benchmark. Mobile phone retailer Carphone Warehouse Group benefited from increased smartphone demand at its European stores, which helped its quarterly results. Meanwhile, better than expected results and the announcement of a stock buyback helped shares in Virgin Media. Qwest Communications International's encouraging earnings also supported its share price. In contrast, an above benchmark exposure to South Korean operators hurt the fund's performance after service providers came under pressure to offer free voice minutes to smartphone users. Nevertheless, the manager maintains conviction in the positions held as competition is becoming less fierce and smartphone penetration continues unabated.

The fund is positioned to benefit from some key growth drivers. These include companies that are likely to benefit from smartphone adoption, which is leading to increased demand for mobile data; those with cable infrastructure advantage in a bandwidth hungry world; and firms in emerging markets with subscriber or usage growth and benign competition. In this context, the manager added to Australian operator Telstra and included Japanese smartphone beneficiary Softbank. New positions were also initiated in German cable firm Kabel Deutschland and South American/African service provider Millicom International Cellular.

Greater China Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 550 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Stock markets in the Greater China region advanced over the period, led by gains in the materials, energy and industrials sectors. Better than expected economic growth and strong foreign fund inflows supported Taiwanese bourses. China's economic growth remained strong and Hong Kong continued to benefit from the expansion of regional economies. Towards the end of the period, investors were concerned about mounting inflationary pressures and tightening measures in China, political unrest in the Middle East and the natural disaster in Japan.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, supported by selected holdings in the information technology and consumer discretionary sectors. Notably, a position in Taiwanese phone manufacturer HTC, which benefited from rising demand for Android and Windows based smartphones, was the largest contributor to performance. A holding in online media and mobile value added services provider Sina also added to the fund's value. The firm's share price was supported by solid earnings and the success of Weibo, its Twitter like service. In the consumer discretionary space, exposure to casino operator SJM Holdings and luxury automobile seller Brilliance China Automotive Holdings buoyed returns amidst rising spending by Chinese consumers. Within industrials, the leading plastic pipe and plumbing fittings manufacturer China Liansu benefited from its growing market share and the faster pace of urbanisation in China. Conversely, holdings in consumer staples were hurt by inflation concerns. Positions in the financials sector also dampened performance.

The manager raised exposure to a number of Macau based casino operators in order to benefit from the increasing spending power of mainland Chinese tourists. Conversely, holdings in retailer China Resources Enterprise and personal items producer Hengan International were sold due to escalating raw materials costs. Within materials, additional shares were bought in Formosa Chemicals & Fibre and Nan Ya Plastics in light of favourable demand/supply fundamentals for ethylene.

Iberia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 172 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Iberian equities rose over the last 12 months. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in peripheral countries. Towards the end of the period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and inflationary concerns evolved.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. An underweight stance in telecommunication services firms, including Telefonica and Portugal Telecom detracted from relative returns as these shares outperformed the benchmark over the period. Banks were hurt by the debt crisis in the eurozone. Consequently, positions in Banco Popular Espanol and BPI-SGPS slid. However, an underweight stance in the banking sector added to relative performance. At a stock level, the below benchmark position in Banco Santander was the largest contributor to relative returns. Elsewhere, news that Grifols had agreed to buy US firm Talecris to become the world's third largest maker of blood plasma products sent its shares higher.

The fund was moved to an underweight stance in financials, where the positions in Banco Espirito Santo and Banco Comercial Portugues were sold. However, towards the end of the period, the manager became more confident about the gradual recovery in Spain, and moved the fund towards companies that are expected to benefit from the cyclical recovery. A new position was added in Criteria Caixacorp, which recently had an initial public offering. The bank has a good quality loan book and is well positioned as the sector goes through a consolidation phase. Energy holdings were increased; a new position in Repsol was added as its fundamentals were improving. The fund remains overweight in small and mid cap companies; the manager continues to believe that this segment trades at an attractive valuation, with many firms on single digit price/earnings ratios.

India Focus Fund <sup>7</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 3,489 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Indian equities advanced over the review period, but lagged its peer group and regional performance. Concerns about the threat of rising inflation and the subsequent monetary tightening dampened sentiment, whilst damaging revelations about irregularities in the licensing of telecommunications bandwidth adversely impacted investor confidence. However, overall economic data remained robust and manufacturing growth was strong. The latest federal budget bolstered the country's credentials as an investment destination and foreign investment flows recovered. Consumer staples was the best performing sector amidst heightened risk aversion, followed by information technology (IT), consumer discretionary and health care.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, due to positive security selection in the consumer discretionary and financials sectors. The off benchmark holding in watch and jewellery retailer Titan Industries and shoe retailer Bata India contributed strongly in light of consistent earnings outperformance, driven by sales growth. Holdings in two wheeler producer Bajaj Auto and automobile component manufacturer Motherson Sumi Systems were also boosted by the rising affluence in India. Elsewhere, positions in banks, such as Federal Bank enhanced performance, and lack of exposure to real estate firms supported returns. Conversely, the underweight position in consumer staples and energy firms was detrimental. Notably, an underweight stance in ITC, a staples firm that also produces cigarettes, eroded value as share prices rose on earnings growth expectations.

The fund is positioned to benefit from strong growth in domestic consumption and infrastructure development that would help drive India's growth. The manager retained the strong overweight in consumer discretionary names, but trimmed selected positions that reached valuation. Meanwhile, holdings in the energy sector were increased by initiating a position in Coal India and Oil & Natural Gas Corporation, given the strong outlook for energy prices. Elsewhere, the exposure to pharmaceutical producers Dr Reddy's Laboratories and Lupin were enhanced in light of their success in obtaining regulatory approvals for sales in the US market.

Indonesia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 982 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Bolstered by ratings upgrades and strong economic growth, Indonesian equities were among the leading performers in their peer group over the 12 months. Financials performed well on the back of strong earnings and rising margins amidst broad based economic growth, which is likely to boost credit demand. Energy shares outperformed due to escalating international prices. Meanwhile, consumer names benefited on rising income levels and changing consumption habits as a result of higher disposable income. Industrials advanced in anticipation of both infrastructure investment and growing income levels. Utilities and telecommunications brought up the rear as defensive stocks fell out of favour.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over a period when the stock market was driven by momentum. This was largely due to the underweight positions in the energy and industrials space due to stock price strength in largely un-investible stocks such as PT Dian Swastatika Sentosa and Bayan Resources. Elsewhere, underweight in Charoen Pokphand Indonesia detracted from performance as share prices advanced in light of rising food prices. The holding in telecommunications tower operator Sarana Menara Nusantara declined owing to lower than expected growth in tenancy. Conversely, the high conviction position in Bank Negara Indonesia (Persero) boosted performance on better than expected earnings and expanding margins. The stake in XL Axiata, a telecommunications group, advanced on account of continued strong execution and market share gains.

The fund is positioned to take advantage of strong underlying growth momentum in the Indonesian economy, with a focus on benefiting from rising consumption and export growth. The manager substantially raised the exposure to financials as credit growth is likely to be high, non performing loans have fallen and margins are expanding. The manager maintained an overweight stance towards energy related stocks, such as United Tractors and Indika Energy as these companies are expected to benefit from strong mining volumes and stable to rising coal prices. The fund changed its benchmark on 1 November 2010 to a more appropriate free float adjusted MSCI benchmark.

International Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 1,844 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. In the latter part of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities outperformed other regions in US dollar terms.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. Stock selection in the US sub portfolio negatively impacted performance. An underweight holding in Apple proved unrewarding as its shares were buoyed by strong demand for smartphones. Conversely, the holding in Caterpillar was one of the best contributors to the fund's performance. Security selection in Europe, Asian and emerging markets helped returns. In Europe, positions in luxury goods firms such as Hugo Boss helped performance as these companies enjoyed soaring sales due to unabated demand from Asia. Elsewhere, in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets, holdings in Chinese search engine Baidu and social media firm Sina added value. In Japan, the underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector helped returns. At the tactical asset allocation level, an underweight stance in Europe held back returns as it outperformed global equities. The position was maintained due to concerns that fiscal tightening could threaten growth in peripheral eurozone. In addition, better results were expected from Asia ex Japan and emerging markets, which could benefit from the global economic recovery; the overweight stance in the latter proved rewarding.

The manager selection was partially changed in the US, with a bias towards "growth" at the expense of "value style" managers, as the former tends to outperform during a global economic recovery. Overall, the current multi manager portfolio offers a well diversified exposure to global equities and investment styles, which allows the fund to be invested in equities at a lower risk compared to a single manager fund.

Italy Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 280 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Italian equities rose along with the broader European stock market. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in peripheral countries. Towards the end of the period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and the rise in oil and food prices led to concerns about inflationary pressures.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, driven by holdings in the consumer durables & apparels and diversified financials sectors. A holding in investment firm Exor was boosted by positive results and improved sentiment towards Fiat, in which Exor is a controlling shareholder. Conversely, the below benchmark position in Fiat partially offset strong returns from Exor. Elsewhere, holding leather accessories firm Piquadro and eyewear manufacturer Safilo, which benefited from higher sales, contributed to performance. An underweight stance in the banking sector also added to relative returns; banks were hurt by worries over the credit crisis in peripheral Europe.

Market volatility continues to be a major risk, therefore, the manager kept a barbell approach when constructing the portfolio. An overweight stance was maintained in cyclical stocks, particularly consumer and financials names, offset by an overweight position in selected defensive names, such as highway toll operator Societa Iniziative Autostradali e Servizi and utility company Snam Rete Gas. Industrials holdings were increased over the period. In particular, exposure to cable manufacturer Prysmian was increased as it is a potential cyclical recovery story. Among financials, diversified financials and insurance stocks were preferred over banks, but the underweight stance in banks was reduced following recent recapitalisation announcements. A position in insurer Unipol was added, but asset gatherers such as Banca Generali were sold.

Japan Advantage Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: JPY 102,472 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The Japanese market trended downwards through the first half of the review period, as mounting concerns about yen appreciation and an uncertain outlook for the US economy weighed upon stocks. Later in the year, the advent of the second round of quantitative easing in the US helped to stabilise the yen, contributing to a rebound in share prices that continued into the new year. Whilst political instability in the Middle East and an accompanying surge in crude oil prices tempered global markets, the powerful earthquake that struck in mid March 2011 precipitated a significant divergence in the performance of Japanese stocks. In contrast to their overseas counterparts, share prices in Japan retreated as the economic impact of the earthquake, as well as the Fukushima nuclear disaster, continued to drive sentiment.

Over the period, the fund outperformed its benchmark. In particular, holdings in undervalued global cyclical stocks in the automobiles and chemicals sectors proved rewarding. Bridgestone, Honda Motor and Nitto Denko registered sizeable gains as the prospects for global growth improved. Following the Great East Japan earthquake, a long standing underweight position in utilities also supported relative returns. On the other hand, the fund's limited exposure to strong performing commodity plays in the oil & coal and mining sectors partially offset relative returns.

The fund manager continued to focus on companies that are undervalued relative to their balance sheets, cash flow and normalised earnings. In line with this approach, the most attractive names among global cyclicals and domestic financials were identified. The manager increased exposure to attractively priced trading companies such as Mitsui & Co, which are highly levered to gains in commodity prices. Meanwhile, the fund was moved to an overweight position in the real estate and banking sectors, where key holdings Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group, Sumitomo Mitsui Trust Holdings and NTT Urban Development traded on trough valuations. In contrast, the manager took some profits in strong performers in the chemicals and rubber products sectors as valuations expanded, and scaled back exposure to insurers, most notably MS&AD Insurance.

Japan Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: JPY 61,858 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The Japanese market trended downwards through the first half of the review period, as mounting concerns about yen appreciation and an uncertain outlook for the US economy weighed upon stocks. Later in the year, the advent of the second round of quantitative easing in the US helped to stabilise the yen, contributing to a rebound in share prices that continued into the new year. Whilst political instability in the Middle East and an accompanying surge in crude oil prices tempered global markets, the powerful earthquake that struck in mid March 2011 precipitated a significant divergence in the performance of Japanese stocks. In contrast to their overseas counterparts, share prices in Japan retreated as the economic impact of the earthquake, as well as the Fukushima nuclear disaster, continued to drive sentiment.

Over the period, the fund underperformed its benchmark. In the first half, market conditions worked against life insurers and bank stocks struggled. Meanwhile, the fund's limited exposure to major cell phone carriers proved disadvantageous and holdings in retailers fared poorly as the domestic economy slowed. In contrast, stock selection in the electrical machinery sector added value. Canon enjoyed a late rebound as investors positively assessed its mid term growth potential and not holding consumer electronics giant Sony paid off. An underweight position in utilities also supported relative returns.

The manager maintained a diversified portfolio, striking a balance between undervalued financials and global cyclical plays. The fund remained overweight in the broad financials segment, with a focus on undervalued banks and leasing companies. Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group and ORIX were key holdings at the end of the review period. The exposure to trading companies, such as Mitsui & Co, which are highly levered to gains in commodity prices, was increased. On the other hand, the manager took profits in mobile phone operators NTT DoCoMo and KDDI and scaled back the risk exposure to insurance companies following the mid March earthquake.

Japan Smaller Companies Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: JPY 9,134 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The Japanese market trended downwards through the first half of the review period, as mounting concerns about yen appreciation and an uncertain outlook for the US economy weighed upon stocks. Later in the year, the advent of the second round of quantitative easing in the US helped to stabilise the yen, contributing to a rebound in share prices that continued into the new year. Whilst political instability in the Middle East and an accompanying surge in crude oil prices tempered global markets, the powerful earthquake that struck in mid March 2011 precipitated a significant divergence in the performance of Japanese stocks. In contrast to their overseas counterparts, share prices in Japan retreated as the economic impact of the earthquake, as well as the Fukushima nuclear disaster, continued to drive sentiment.

Over the period, the fund outperformed its benchmark. Companies geared towards rising automation and infrastructure related investment in Asia, including Kawasaki Heavy Industries and Nabtesco, were among the top performers in the fund. Meanwhile, Panasonic Electric Works (PEW) made a significant contribution to performance following a takeover bid by parent company Panasonic. At a sector level, the fund's underweight stance in power utilities proved rewarding to returns. In contrast, small cap real estate companies, including Goldcrest and NTT Urban Development, which had outperformed since late 2010, trended sharply lower in the post quake correction.

As the global economic recovery gained strength, the fund held large overweight positions in external demand oriented sectors such as automobiles and machinery. At the end of the period, Nabtesco, SMC and Aisin Seiki ranked among the fund's major holdings. Although the fund remained overweight in electrical machinery, the fact that the manager sold a large holding in takeover target PEW greatly reduced the position in the sector. Meanwhile, the exposure to financials, particularly banks such as Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group, was reduced. The manager shifted the money into other domestic sectors, such as communications, software and retailing, with superior growth potential.

Korea Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 1,208 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Korean equities rose over the 12 months, underpinned by strong economic data, supported by rising exports and solid industrial production. Petrochemicals and transportation names led the advance. Firms in the consumer sector also benefited from Chinese consumption growth and an increase in automobile exports. Meanwhile, financials, including banks and insurance firms, delivered lacklustre performance. As global economic conditions stabilised, a number of South Korean companies benefited from the rise in international trade and investment. In terms of market capitalisation, large and mid cap companies outperformed their smaller counterparts. Elsewhere, strong inflationary pressures forced the Bank of Korea to raise its benchmark interest rates from a low of 2% in April 2010 to 3% in March 2011.

The fund strongly outperformed its benchmark, due to an overweight exposure to the materials and consumer discretionary sectors. High conviction holdings in petrochemical producers, such as LG Chem, OCI and Hanwha Chemical bolstered the fund's performance, given robust earnings and rising margins, driven by escalating crude oil prices. Meanwhile, positions in automobile producers Kia Motors and Hyundai Motor buoyed returns as they registered strong domestic and global sales growth and gained brand recognition, which is expected to drive future growth. Conversely, non exposure to petroleum refiner S-Oil eroded value as share prices advanced in line with rising oil prices and refining margins. The overweight stance in Samsung Techwin, which manufactures security and defence equipment, also weighed on fund performance due to a fall in earnings.

The fund manager trimmed the stake in financials in favour of consumer discretionary, industrials and materials firms. Holdings in insurance services providers, such as Samsung Life Insurance and Korea Life Insurance were sold due to limited growth opportunities in a highly competitive environment. In the materials space, the manager took profits in LG Chem and raised exposure to OCI at attractive valuations. Meanwhile, the holding in steel producer POSCO was trimmed and a position in Hyundai Steel was initiated.

Latin America Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 2,455 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Latin American equities enjoyed strong double digit returns over the period in the backdrop of a continued recovery in global growth, accommodative monetary policy in the developed world and a weak US currency. Chile outperformed the rest of the region, as the strong copper price and continued flows from local pension funds lent support to its domestic bourse. Brazil was the laggard, held back by the large Petrobras share issue and later, inflation concerns, despite becoming the fifth largest economy in the world at the end of 2010.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. Stock selection in Mexico detracted from returns, as did the underweight positions in Chile and Colombia. Furthermore, overall positioning in the consumer staples sector hurt returns. The underweight stance in Mexico's leading retailer Walmex hampered performance as it generated strong same store growth. No exposure to Chilean retailer Cencosud held back relative returns as it turned around its operations quicker than anticipated. Conversely, the overweight holding in Brazilian beverage producer Ambev benefited performance as it enjoyed rising per capita consumption whilst employing efficient operating practises. Within materials, the overweight stance in Mexican miner Industrias Penoles aided returns as silver prices rose, whilst steel positioning was mixed as local firms struggled to compete with low cost competitors from abroad.

Although domestic demand is robust, valuations appear less rich in the financials and commodity sectors compared to consumer names. Consequently, the fund's largest overweights are in the financial, energy and materials sectors, whilst the largest underweights are in telecommunications, utilities and consumer stocks. Exposure to Brazilian oil company HRT was increased. The holding in Cemex was sold as it struggled with its high debt load and depressed construction activity. In the consumer staples sector, exposure to large chicken and beef company BRF - Brasil Foods was increased as it benefited from higher margin processed foods. A position in Brazilian infrastructure concession group CCR was also initiated as it is expected to generate higher toll revenues and healthy margins.

Malaysia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 273 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Malaysian equities were boosted by strong demand for energy and the rally in consumer discretionary shares. Optimism about economic growth resulted in strong foreign fund inflows through 2010, but concerns about rising inflation and profit taking led to outflows at the start of 2011. Materials, financials and telecommunications firms performed well on better than expected earnings growth. Despite industrials delivering strong returns, gains were limited by adverse political developments in the Middle East and North Africa. Economic growth slowed due to a moderation in domestic demand, which was mitigated by a pick up in exports. The economy will likely expand rapidly in line with a recovery in global growth and reconstruction in Japan, aided by the implementation of the Economic Transformation Programme.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, due to adverse positioning in the energy sector and unfavourable security selection in consumer discretionary names. Overweight in nursing and health care education provider Masterskill Education Group was the single largest detractor from performance on concerns surrounding student loan recovery. Meanwhile, not holding Petronas Dagangan weighed on returns as its share price tracked energy prices higher. Conversely, the overweight stance in oil and gas services provider Dialog Group bolstered performance on the back of robust earnings growth and a positive outlook for lucrative projects. The stake in Titan Chemicals and Petronas Chemicals Group boosted performance as the former was acquired by a South Korean company and the latter benefited from rising oil prices.

The fund is positioned to take advantage of the strong underlying growth momentum in the Malaysian economy, with a focus on benefiting from rising consumption and export growth. The manager realigned the financials exposure by offloading Bursa Malaysia and introducing an overweight holding in commercial bank Hong Leong Bank, due to attractive valuations relative to potential growth. The manager also added to the position in CIMB Group Holdings, which is likely to benefit from regional expansion. Meanwhile, the exposure to consumer staples was trimmed for better opportunities elsewhere.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: SEK 2,312 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Nordic equities rose as global economies and corporate earnings improved. Its equity markets outperformed the rest of Europe, as the region's strong public finances and companies' exposure to global growth were favoured.

The fund underperformed its benchmark as positions in renewable energy and oil services suffered. The underweight stance in capital goods and engineering firms whose share prices rose significantly also hampered returns. The position in Vestas Wind Systems detracted from returns as management indicated that the market remains uncertain. In addition, the firm did not release its earnings guidance for 2011 and changed its revenue recognition policy. In April 2011, the off benchmark position in Sevan Marine fell precipitously as it spun off its drilling unit through an initial public offering (IPO) at a much lower price tag and its secondary share issue was not fully subscribed. In May 2010, offshore drilling contractor Transocean fell heavily because of the BP oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. Whilst its shares recovered in 2011, all the gains were lost in April, when BP sued Transocean over the oil spill. Conversely, holdings in the industrials sector contributed to returns. Specifically, positions in Outotec, which rallied following solid third and fourth quarter results, DSV and Proffice helped performance. However, a small position in Atlas Copco and lack of exposure to SKF detracted from performance as their shares rallied. Lastly, FLSmidth, which derives 70% of its sales from emerging markets, a theme that was out of favour in 2011, detracted from returns. The detractors offset a lot of the fund's relative performance, but the best gains came from companies that consistently produced better than expected results. These included Novo Nordisk, Elekta and Nokian Tyres. The sizeable underweights in Nokia and Hennes & Mauritz, whose share prices were negative, also contributed to relative returns.

The fund's weighting in industrials was increased significantly and was financed by a reduction in technology, oil & gas and basic materials names. In industrials, new positions were initiated in FLSmidth, Alfa Laval, Niscayah Group, Schindler Holding, DSV and Assa Abloy.

Pacific Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 766 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific equities advanced strongly over the review period. Notwithstanding the European sovereign debt crisis, monetary and regulatory tightening in China and political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, confidence was boosted by rising corporate earnings and optimistic global growth outlook. Investors were also sanguine about the impact of the earthquake in Japan and signs of unease about inflation. Energy and materials shares underpinned gains due to rising international prices, whilst telecommunications firms advanced strongly. Meanwhile, information technology (IT) and utilities names brought up the rear.

The fund strongly outperformed its benchmark, due to positive security selection in the industrials and consumer discretionary sectors. A non benchmark holding in South Korea based apparel firm Basic House was the largest contributor to performance, given its sales success in China. Meanwhile, the holding in Japanese telecommunications firm Softbank bolstered performance as it benefited from its iPhone distribution rights and subscription growth. Elsewhere, a position in EVA Precision Industrial Holdings contributed to returns. Conversely, non exposure to Australian mining firm BHP Billiton and mobile handset producer HTC were leading detractors from performance. These stocks are not held due to the manager's preference for single commodity exposure and concerns of increased competition and margin sustainability, respectively. Elsewhere, exposure to Korean LED optical component maker MNTech detracted from returns as it missed profit targets.

In terms of positioning, the manager raised holdings in the industrials and materials sectors at the expense of financials and IT. In industrials, a position in EVA Precision Industrial Holdings was added given increased product diversification into the automobile and home appliances industries. Within financials, the manager sold the stake in Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group and Fuji Fire & Marine Insurance due to the increase in claims post the Japan earthquake. Within materials, Rio Tinto was sold to pick up a stake in Iluka Resources for its superior growth potential.

Singapore Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 273 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Strong gains in the consumer discretionary, industrials and health care sectors bolstered Singaporean equities over the 12 month period. Investor sentiment turned positive on firmer signs of a recovery in advanced economies and a pickup in regional growth. Singapore's economy grew by 14.5% in 2010, primarily due to strong trade related activities. Domestic consumer demand continued to rise on the back of the strong wage growth witnessed last year. In the first quarter of 2011, Singapore's economy expanded by 23.5% quarter on quarter. With inflation a key concern across the region, successive tightening measures were rolled out to rein in burgeoning credit growth and curb rising inflation.

The fund slightly underperformed its benchmark. The overweight exposure to Hong Leong Asia, a diversified industrial conglomerate, disappointed as its earnings fell. The non benchmark exposure to education provider Masterskill Education Group was hurt by fears of student loan defaults. The underweight position in China based shipbuilder Yangzijiang Shipbuilding Holdings also eroded relative value. Conversely, holdings in the health care, consumer discretionary and consumer staples sectors contributed to returns. The high conviction holding in Genting Singapore and Genting Berhad surged on earnings as well as optimism about growth as acquisitions made by the latter were welcomed by investors. Meanwhile, a position in food processing firm China Minzhong Food bolstered performance as rising food prices in China enhanced earnings. Elsewhere, the overweight stance in health care firms Biosensors International Group and Raffles Medical Group added value.

Singapore's economy has recovered and the growth momentum is likely to remain stable. The fund is positioned in favour of consumer discretionary names at the expense of a reduced stake in financials. The financials exposure was trimmed by reducing shares in DBS Group Holdings and United Overseas Bank in the absence of growth catalysts. Whilst maintaining an underweight stance in property, the manager initiated a position in property developer UOL Group, which also benefits from its office and hotel business. Holdings in consumer discretionary were raised substantially by adding to the stake in Genting Singapore.

South East Asia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 9,002 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities were volatile, but advanced over the 12 month period on signs that the worst impact of the global economic crisis had faded. The emergence of the European debt crisis, Chinese monetary and regulatory tightening and the rising threat of inflation in Asia, and later, geo-political tensions in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan caused volatility. The consumer discretionary, materials and energy sectors were the leading performers, as the outlook for consumption growth remained strong and international energy and materials prices surged. Increased capital expenditure in light of growing international trade and government sponsored infrastructure development programs boosted industrials.

The fund outperformed its benchmark due to positive security selection in information technology (IT). The off benchmark holding in social media firm Sina buoyed returns in view of robust growth in advertising revenue. The overweight position in optical lens manufacturer Largan Precision benefited from exposure to the smartphone market. Meanwhile, South Korea-based automobile manufacturers Kia Motors and Hyundai Motor bolstered fund performance owing to higher earnings on the back of sales growth. Elsewhere, the position in Keppel and industrial plant construction firm Samsung Engineering rose on an increase in new orders. Conversely, not holding smartphone producer HTC weighed on performance as share prices surged on rising sales. Overweight in China-based automobile and battery producer BYD Company eroded value as its sales declined.

The manager positioned the fund to benefit from growing industrialisation and economic restructuring as the balance of growth shifts to domestic consumption. Over the period, the stake in financials was increased; a position in Taiwan-based Chinatrust Financial Holding was introduced given its promising earnings growth potential. Elsewhere, the manager sold IT component manufacturers such as MediaTek, as they reached valuation. Instead, exposure to industrials, which benefit from higher capital expenditure, and petrochemical producers, which have expanding margins due to higher oil prices, was raised.

Switzerland Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: CHF 485 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Swiss equities rose as both the economy and corporate earnings improved. The fiscal health of peripheral eurozone led to the markets intermittently retreating and, in 2011, the unrest in the Middle East and the rise in oil and food prices dampened market sentiment.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, largely due to an overweight position in three major stocks that significantly declined over the period. Sonova suffered as the firm issued a profit warning in March, the Zurich Borse filed an inquiry on insider trading and its CEO and CFO resigned. In April, Logitech International slid as it missed its quarterly earnings estimates. In May 2010, offshore drilling contractor Transocean fell heavily because of the BP oil leak. Whilst its shares recovered in 2011, all the gains were lost in April, when BP sued Transocean in connection with the oil spill. The overweight stance in EFG detracted from performance as it published loss making first half 2010 results due to a CHF 859.5 million impairment charge related to its specialist and hedge fund businesses. The underweight stance in Nestle and ABB held back returns as both the companies' share prices were strong. However, the loss from Nestle due to the structural underweight (SICAV rules do not permit more than 10% of fund assets to be held in a single stock) was offset by the underweight stance in Roche Holding relative to the benchmark, which was subsequently reduced following news on the negative effects of its blockbuster drug Avastin. Conversely, holdings in Cie Financiere Richemont, Sika and Kuehne & Nagel International contributed to performance on better than expected earnings.

Over the period, health care and materials positions were reduced, whilst industrials and consumer discretionary names were increased. In the health care segment, the manager reduced holdings in Roche Holding and exited Actelion and Nobel Biocare Holding. In industrials, selected holdings were increased and new positions were initiated in Unique Zurich Airport and Tornos.

Taiwan Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 625 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Taiwanese equities registered strong gains over the review period due to the announcement of the Economic Cooperation Framework Agreement (ECFA), an all encompassing free trade agreement signed with China in June 2010, which lifted the overall market. Robust economic data boosted by private consumption, falling unemployment, industrial production growth and rising exports supported stocks. At a sector level, consumer staples were the best performers on the back of supermarket and convenience store names that are benefiting from secular growth in their Chinese operations. Meanwhile, information technology (IT) names registered growth, but gains were limited over fears about supply chain disruption for component manufacturers following the Japan earthquake.

The fund underperformed its benchmark due to weakness in its materials, IT and semiconductor equipment holdings. In particular, not owning HTC, a smartphone producer, at the beginning of the review period detracted from performance. The manager was concerned about increased competition in the segment, but given the popularity of Android handsets, an overweight position was initiated during the period. The underweight stance in chemicals producer Nan Ya Plastics also hampered performance against a backdrop of an improving outlook for the industry. The manager added to this position over the period. Conversely, an off benchmark holding in Sina helped returns given its strong online advertising spending and the success of its Twitter like service. Similarly, non benchmark exposure to Chinese language search engine Baidu continued to rise due to an increase in internet users and the popularity of ecommerce.

The manager believes that certain Taiwan based firms, especially in the services sector stand to gain from China's 12th Five Year Plan and improving cross Strait opportunities. The exposure to banks was increased by adding to the existing holding in Chinatrust Financial Holdings. A new position was initiated in Mega Financial Holdings, given its ability to deliver strong loan growth. Exposure to the IT sector was reduced, mainly on account of a change in the fundamentals of some Taiwanese IT names.

Thailand Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 741 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Strong economic growth, boosted by rising private spending and exports, underpinned the surge in Thai equities. Foreign investment flows were strong during 2010 and, after some profit taking towards the end of the year and into the beginning of 2011, modestly resumed again. With inflation emerging as a key concern, the central bank lifted the key benchmark policy rate by a total of 1.5% since July 2010, from a low of 1.25% to 2.75% in April 2011. Consumer discretionary, consumer staples and health care were the best performing sectors during the period.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, due to positive security selection in the consumer discretionary, financials and materials sectors. The high conviction holding in packaging products manufacturer Indorama Ventures was the single largest contributor to returns. The firm surged on strong earnings growth momentum, driven by acquisitions leading to higher volume growth and competitive costs. The overweight stance in retailer Home Product Center PCL advanced as its market share increased and it delivered strong earnings growth. Meanwhile, non exposure to Siam City Bank added relative value. Conversely, the overweight position in coal miner Banpu was primarily hurt by rising costs. The underweight stance in telecommunications services provider True Corp eroded value as easing regulatory concerns and an acquisition boosted its share price.

The exposure to consumer discretionary names was decreased by selling Home Product Center and Robinson Department Store as their share prices are fully valued. Holdings in media firm BEC World were also trimmed. A portion of the proceeds were used to initiate a holding in health care services provider Bangkok Dusit Medical Services as further industry consolidation will provide a more favourable earnings outlook. Meanwhile, exposure to the energy sector was raised by initiating a position in PTT Aromatics and Refining, which is a key beneficiary of the government's plan to lift liquefied natural gas (LPG) prices at Thai refineries in line with global prices. Elsewhere, financials holdings were realigned to more attractively valued banking and real estate names.

United Kingdom Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: GBP 119 MILLION

Manager's Overview

UK equities gained over the 12 months, as accommodative monetary policy, encouraging earnings and bid activity supported investor sentiment. Economic data showed improvement, but progress remains uneven. Market gains were spread across sectors, with technology and materials stocks at the forefront as investors looked for companies with greater growth potential. However, the stock market suffered periodic setbacks, notably due to the re-emergence of the European debt crisis, the political turmoil in the Middle East and the aftermath of the Japanese earthquake and tsunami.

Over the period, the fund made strong gains, but underperformed its benchmark. The overweight exposure to the banking sector detracted from returns, as worries about the eurozone debt crisis and strict new regulations on capital requirements weighed down key holdings such as Lloyds Banking Group and Barclays. Selected holdings in the support services sector, particularly in outsourcing firms Serco and Capita, also held back performance, due to worries about the impact that government spending cuts will have on their profits. On a positive note, strong stock selection in the oil & gas sector, in particular an underweight stance in BP and an overweight position in BG Group, contributed to returns. The underweight stance in BP helped relative performance as its shares fell significantly over fears about the rising costs of cleaning up the oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. Shares in leading gas producer BG Group rose after it announced the discovery of oil in its highly prospective Santos Basin field, offshore from Brazil.

The economic outlook for the UK is subdued, as the extent of the impact that the government's austerity measures will have on economic growth is still unclear. Nevertheless, the global recovery is helping to underpin earnings of UK companies with international exposure. The manager continues to focus on this theme within the portfolio, notably with an overweight stance in mining. The manager also increased exposure to quality franchises trading at attractive valuations, notably WPP and Johnson Matthey. The position in engineering firm Rotork was closed as share valuations were no longer attractive.

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. In the latter part of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, the second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities rose the most in euro terms.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, primarily due to stock selection in the US sub portfolio. An underweight holding in Apple proved unrewarding as its shares were buoyed by strong demand for smartphones. Conversely, Caterpillar was among the best contributors to performance as it strongly outperformed the US market. Security selection in Europe, Asian and emerging markets helped returns. In Europe, positions in luxury good firms such as Hugo Boss helped performance as these companies enjoyed soaring sales due to unabated demand from Asia. Elsewhere, in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets, holdings in Chinese search engine Baidu and social media firm Sina added value. In Japan, the underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector helped returns. At the tactical asset allocation level, an underweight stance in Europe held back returns, as Europe outperformed global equities. The position was maintained due to concerns that fiscal tightening could threaten growth in peripheral eurozone. In addition, better results were expected from Asia ex Japan and emerging markets, which could benefit more from the global economic recovery; the overweight stance in the latter proved rewarding.

The manager selection was partially changed in the US, with a bias towards "growth" versus "value style" managers, as the former tends to outperform during a global economic recovery. Overall, the current multi manager portfolio offers a well diversified exposure to global equities and investment styles, which allows the fund to be invested in equities at a lower risk compared to a single manager fund.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 18 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. In the latter part of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities rose the most in euro terms, whilst Japan lagged.

The fund underperformed its benchmark primarily due to security selection. Notably, in the US segment of the portfolio, stock picking in health care and technology hardware firms undermined performance. Exposure to Cisco Systems hurt returns as its earnings guidance disappointed. Additionally, an underweight holding in strong performer Apple hampered performance as its shares were buoyed by strong demand for smartphones. In Europe, holdings in luxury goods firms were beneficial to returns as these companies enjoyed soaring sales due to unabated demand from Asia. In Japan, the underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector helped returns. Elsewhere, stock picking in the Asian and emerging market portions also proved beneficial to performance. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards Europe and emerging markets supported performance, as did an underweight stance in the US and Japan. Conversely, the below benchmark position in the UK detracted from returns.

The overweight stance in emerging markets was maintained in view of the improved macroeconomic scenario and rising commodity prices, whilst an underweight stance in the UK and the US was retained over the period. The US is typically a defensive area and might underperform global equities in this phase of the macroeconomic recovery. An above benchmark position was retained in Europe. Elsewhere, Japan was scaled down to an underweight position due to weak domestic lead indicators.

Manager's Overview

Major asset classes ended the period higher as signs of continued improvement in the global economy provided support. Over the period, commodities generated the highest returns, whilst bonds and cash lagged. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. In the latter part of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed equity markets. Against this backdrop, European investment grade corporate bonds outperformed government bonds. Within equities, Europe ex UK rose the most in euro terms.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, largely due to security selection in the US and Japan. In the US, exposure to Cisco Systems hurt returns as its earnings guidance disappointed. In Japan, banks faced heavy selling pressure post the earthquake due to concerns about increased loan/loss reserves and an uncertain economic outlook. Security selection in other equity regions and the bond segment contributed to the fund's returns. In bonds, holdings in asset backed securities, including commercial mortgage backed deals of Skyline and Amstel Corporate Loan added to the fund's performance. In terms of asset allocation, an underweight stance in bonds and an overweight position in equities bolstered gains. Within equities, an overweight holding in Europe and Asia ex Japan and an off benchmark position in emerging markets helped returns, as these regions outperformed over the review period.

The fund was re-launched as of 1 April with an aim to deliver the benefits of additional relative returns over the benchmark at a lower risk. The fund's benchmark was changed by including other asset classes, such as commodities and cash, and the limits placed on tactical asset allocation (i.e. deviation from the benchmark) were extended as a more flexible deviation can help to achieve higher returns and reduce risk. Finally, the fund's name was changed from Fidelity Gestion Equilibre to Fidelity Patrimoine to better identify its enhanced features.

Manager's Overview

European equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. The European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East and European inflationary concerns dampened market sentiment.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Mining groups Kenmare Resources and Tiger Resources benefited from positive news on their projects and production results. In the energy sector, an underweight stance in BP supported relative returns as its shares retreated following concerns over clean up costs and compensation related to the oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. Energy services firm Saipem's stock gained in response to healthy results and significant new contracts. However, the holding in Sevan Marine detracted from performance due to balance sheet issues that the group is trying to fix by raising capital. An underweight stance in Nestle held back relative returns as it posted solid earnings. The position in hearing aid company Sonova negatively impacted performance as it issued a profit warning for multiple reasons. The Zurich Borse made an investigation into insider trading by senior management, which resulted in the CEO, Chairman and CFO of the firm having to resign.

Overall, pro cyclical sectors, such as consumer discretionary, industrials, technology and materials are among the overweight holdings. The manager bought MTU Aero Engines Holding and Zodiac Aerospace as rising oil prices led to weakness in the aerospace & defence sector. An underweight stance is maintained in defensive consumer staples, utilities and telecommunications companies. Among consumer related firms, the manager sold positions in expensively valued SABMiller and Henkel, which may face pricing pressures.

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets, however, faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. In the latter part of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities rose the most in euro terms, whilst Japan lagged.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, largely due to the impact of security selection. Notably, in the US segment of the portfolio, stock picking among health care and technology hardware firms undermined performance. A below benchmark holding in Apple proved unrewarding to returns as its shares were buoyed by strong demand for smartphones. In Japan, banks faced heavy selling pressure post the earthquake due to concerns about increased loan/loss reserves and an uncertain economic outlook. A holding in luxury goods firm Hugo Boss was beneficial to the performance of the European portion of the fund. The firm enjoyed soaring sales due to unabated demand from Asia. However, positions in selected materials firms, which were hit by increasing input costs, weighed on returns. Elsewhere, security selection in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets added value. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards Europe and emerging markets supported performance, as did an underweight stance in the US and Japan. Conversely, the below benchmark position in the UK detracted from returns.

The manager maintained the overweight position in emerging markets, which benefited from the improved macro scenario and rising commodity prices. An underweight stance was retained in the UK and the US. The US is typically a defensive area and might underperform global equities in this phase of the macroeconomic recovery. An above benchmark position was retained in Europe. Elsewhere, Japan was scaled down to an underweight position.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. Towards the end of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities outperformed other regions in US dollar terms.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, largely due to security selection in the US sub portfolio. In particular, exposure to Cisco Systems hurt returns as its earnings guidance disappointed. In Europe, holdings in luxury goods firms were beneficial to returns as these firms enjoyed soaring sales on unabated demand from Asia. However, selected materials firms, which were hit by increasing input costs and aggressive monetary tightening in China, weighed on returns. In Japan, the underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector helped returns. Elsewhere, in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets, holdings in Chinese search engine Baidu and social media firm Sina added value. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards emerging markets supported performance, as did an underweight stance in the US and Japan.

The manager enhanced the overweight stance in emerging markets, as the region is expected to benefit from the improved macro scenario and rising commodity prices. Europe was also increased to a neutral position on attractive valuations. Conversely, Japan was scaled back to underweight in December (before the earthquake in March) due to expensive valuations and no attractive lead indicators. Asia ex Japan was decreased from overweight to neutral on valuation concerns. The manager maintained an underweight stance in the US, although to a lesser extent towards the end of the period. Regional exposure was biased towards global cyclical sectors, such as industrials, metals & mining and energy, as they can benefit from the current expansive macro economic scenario.

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. In the latter part of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities rose the most in euro terms, whilst Japan lagged.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. Security selection in the US segment of the portfolio detracted from returns. Holdings in health care and technology hardware firms undermined performance. In the technology sector, Cisco Systems' earnings guidance disappointed as a result of margin pressure that management claimed was short term product launch driven. Conversely, stock picking in other regional equity segments supported performance. In Europe, holdings in luxury goods firms, where companies enjoyed soaring sales due to unabated demand from Asia, added to the fund's value. The impact was partially mitigated by positions in materials, which underperformed amid rising cost pressures. The underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector in Japan helped returns. Stock picking in the Asian and emerging market portions also proved beneficial to performance. In terms of asset allocation, the underweight stance in Europe detracted from returns, whilst a bias towards emerging markets bolstered gains.

Over the period, the manager increased exposure to Europe at the expense of the US with the belief that the former has more cyclical characteristics than the latter and could benefit more from the global economic recovery. The position in Europe was also increased due to attractive valuations and the positive impact of the European Central Bank's announcement of a sovereign coordinated mechanism to help peripheral Europe, which may set the scene for a better approach to debt issues in the region. The manager maintained the neutral stance towards Japan.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period outperforming bonds, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. In the latter part of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed equity markets. Against this backdrop, European investment grade corporate bonds outperformed government bonds. Within equities, Europe ex UK rose the most in euro terms.

The fund slightly underperformed its benchmark over the period. Security selection in all segments, with the exception of US equities, contributed to returns. In particular, exposure to Cisco Systems hurt returns as its earnings guidance disappointed. In Europe, holdings in luxury goods firms, which enjoyed soaring sales due to unabated demand from Asia, added value. The underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector in Japan helped returns. Stock picking in the Asian and emerging market portions also proved beneficial to performance. Name selection in the bond segment, which constitutes more than half of the portfolio, was notably rewarding, as holdings in asset backed securities contributed to returns. In terms of asset allocation, an underweight stance in bonds helped returns, as did the off benchmark holding in emerging market equities. Conversely, the underweight position in Europe detracted from performance.

The manager maintained an overweight stance in equities and an underweight position in bonds, given the better macroeconomic outlook, setting the scene for a rebound in equities. Within equities, the manager added positions in Europe at the expense of the US due to attractive valuations. Europe was also supported by the European Central Bank's announcement of a sovereign coordinated mechanism to help peripheral Europe, which may improve sentiment in the region.

Euro Balanced Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 552 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. European investment grade corporate bonds, including sub investment grade debt outperformed government bonds over a period that was characterised by sovereign debt risk in peripheral eurozone. Downgrades of some countries, particularly Greece, to below investment grade led to volatility. After Greece, Ireland and Portugal were bailed out due to rising fiscal deficits. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. Towards the end of the period, the devastating earthquake in Japan and civil protests in the Middle East led to volatility. Meanwhile, after almost two years, the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Within the equity portion of the portfolio, the focus on companies that can "grow from within" was rewarded. Selected consumer discretionary names benefited from strong demand in Asia, especially China. In particular, Hugo Boss completed its restructuring and generated strong business in Europe and Asia. Within the bond portion of the portfolio, the overweight position in investment grade credit and issue selection contributed to returns. The fund also benefited from a higher yield component. Holdings in asset backed securities, including commercial mortgage backed deals of Skyline, Real Estate Capital and Amstel Corporate Loan added to performance.

Within the fund's equity holdings, the underweight stance in consumer staples firms was increased due to pricing pressure by selling stocks such as Henkel. Holdings in some consumer discretionary names that reached fair valuation, including Continental, were reduced; the money was invested in attractively valued high growth media names such as Modern Times Group. Among bonds, the manager added to the fund's credit beta (i.e. its aggressive positioning in credit relative to the benchmark) by increasing the overweight position in banks through Senior debt of DnB NOR Bank and Credit Suisse, as well as covered bonds of BBVA and UBS.

Growth & Income Fund <sup>1</sup>

Manager's Overview

The asset classes the fund invests in delivered positive returns in US dollar terms. As signs of continued improvement in the global economy provided support, commodities, real estate and equities generated higher returns than defensive assets. Within equities, Europe, emerging markets and Asia ex Japan outperformed the US and Japan; the global industrial and mining sectors did better than defensive sectors. Within bonds, investment grade and high yield outperformed government bonds.

The fund generated positive returns and was placed in the first quartile of its peer group (Morningstar GIF USD Moderate Allocation), but underperformed its benchmark. This was mainly due to tactical asset allocation and security selection in a few sub portfolios such as the US and the property sector. However, name selection in the bond segment and other equity regions helped returns. Tactical asset allocation detracted from performance, due to defensive asset allocation in the second half of 2010, with an overweight stance in bonds versus equities. That was based on macroeconomic indicators that pointed to subdued economic growth and low inflation, usually a better environment for bonds than equities. Equity markets, however, rebounded on the announcement of a second round of quantitative easing, anticipating faster global recovery.

Towards the end of the period, macroeconomic indicators improved and pointed to an "overheat" phase of the economy, where economic growth is above trend and inflation rises rapidly. The manager shifted the fund to a more aggressive position, adding to the equity exposure at the expense of bonds. Within equities, an underweight stance in Japan was closed at the trough of the correction after the earthquake to bring it to an overweight position. Holdings in Europe were increased after the surprise agreement in March to establish a eurozone sovereign mechanism to address debt concerns in peripheral Europe. Elsewhere, an underweight position in Asia ex Japan was maintained. At the sector level, the manager shifted to an overweight position in cyclical sectors such as industrials and technology, whilst trimming holdings in the defensive consumer and telecommunications sectors.

Manager's Overview

The asset classes the fund invests in delivered positive returns in US dollar terms. As signs of continued improvement in the global economy provided support, commodities, real estate and equities generated higher returns than defensive assets. Within equities, Europe, emerging markets and Asia ex Japan outperformed the US and Japan; the global industrial and mining sectors did better than defensive sectors. Within bonds, investment grade and high yield outperformed government bonds.

The fund delivered positive returns, but underperformed its benchmark, due to tactical asset allocation and security selection in a few sub portfolios such as the US, the global industrial sector and real estate investment trusts (REITs). However, name selection in the bonds segment and other equity regions helped returns. Tactical asset allocation detracted from returns, due to defensive asset allocation in the second half of 2010, with an overweight stance in bonds versus equities. That was based on macroeconomic indicators that pointed to subdued economic growth and low inflation, usually a better environment for bonds than equities. Equity markets, however, rebounded on the announcement of a second round of quantitative easing, anticipating a faster than expected global recovery. On the positive side, the fund maintained an overweight position in commodities during the review period.

Over the first part of 2011, macroeconomic indicators improved and pointed to an "overheat" phase of the economy, where economic growth is above trend and inflation rises rapidly. The manager shifted the fund to a more aggressive stance, adding to equities and commodities at the expense of bonds. At a regional level, an underweight position in Japan was closed at the trough of the correction after the earthquake, to bring it to an overweight position. Holdings in Europe were also increased after the surprise agreement in March to establish a eurozone sovereign mechanism. Elsewhere, an underweight position in Asia ex Japan was maintained. # Multi Asset Strategic Defensive Fund 4

Manager's Overview

The asset classes the fund invests in delivered positive returns in euro terms. As signs of continued improvement in the global economy provided support, commodities, real estate and equities generated higher returns than defensive assets. Within equities, Europe, emerging markets and Asia ex Japan outperformed the US and Japan; the global industrial and mining sectors did better than defensive sectors. Within bonds, investment grade and high yield outperformed government bonds.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, largely due to tactical asset allocation and security selection in a few sub portfolios such as the US and real estate investment trusts (REITs). However, name selection in the bonds segment and other equity regions helped returns. Tactical asset allocation detracted from performance, due to defensive asset allocation in the second half of 2010, with an overweight stance in bonds versus equities. That was based on macro indicators that pointed to subdued economic growth and low inflation, usually a better environment for bonds than equities. Equity markets, however, rebounded on the announcement of a second round of quantitative easing, anticipating a faster than expected global recovery. On the positive side, the fund maintained an overweight position in commodities.

Towards the end of the review period, macro indicators improved and pointed to an "overheat" phase of the economy, where economic growth is above trend and inflation rises rapidly. The manager shifted the fund to a more aggressive stance, adding to equities and commodities at the expense of bonds. At a regional level, an underweight position in Japan was closed at the trough of the correction after the earthquake, to bring it to an overweight position. Holdings in Europe were increased to neutral after the surprise agreement in March to establish a eurozone sovereign mechanism. Elsewhere, an underweight position in Asia ex Japan was maintained. At the sector level, the manager shifted to an overweight position in the industrials and technology sectors, whilst trimming holdings in the consumer and telecommunications sectors.

Manager's Overview

The asset classes the fund invests in delivered positive returns in US dollar terms. As signs of continued improvement in the global economy provided support, commodities, real estate and equities generated higher returns than defensive assets. Within equities, Europe, emerging markets and Asia ex Japan outperformed the US and Japan; the global industrial and mining sectors did better than defensive sectors. Within bonds, investment grade and high yield outperformed government bonds.

The fund delivered positive returns but underperformed its benchmark, due to tactical asset allocation and security selection in a few sub portfolios such as US equities and real estate. However, security selection in other equity regions such as Japan, Asia ex Japan and emerging markets, as well as the fixed income sub portfolio contributed to performance. Tactical asset allocation detracted from returns, due to defensive asset allocation in the second half of 2010. That was based on macroeconomic indicators that pointed to subdued economic growth and low inflation, usually a better environment for bonds than equities. Equity markets, however, rebounded on the announcement of a second round of quantitative easing, anticipating faster global recovery. On the positive side, the fund maintained an overweight stance in commodities and had a positive tactical contribution from currency allocation.

Towards the end of the review period, macroeconomic indicators improved and pointed to an "overheat" phase of the economy, where economic growth is above trend and inflation rises rapidly. The manager shifted the fund to a more aggressive stance, adding to equities and commodities at the expense of bonds. At a regional level, an underweight position in Japan was closed at the trough of the correction after the earthquake. Positions in Europe were increased to neutral after the surprise agreement in March to establish a eurozone sovereign mechanism. Asia ex Japan was reduced to an underweight position as valuations look stretched. At the sector level, the manager shifted to an overweight position in the industrials and technology sectors, whilst trimming holdings in the consumer and telecommunications sectors.

Asian Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 20 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Despite a large number of new issues coming to the market and increasing supply in April, the Asian bond market managed to sustain a rally over the month. Demand for risk assets was well supported, following confirmation that the US Federal Reserve is committed to maintaining its purchase program under the second round of quantitative easing until the end of June and keeping interest rates low. Inflation concerns resulted in the Bank of China raising interest rates by 0.25 percentage points earlier in the month, but the move was anticipated and had little impact on the market. Credit spreads for Asian investment grade bonds was mostly flat over the month.

The fund was launched in April 2011. The fund manager used the period since launch to steadily build a portfolio of high quality investment grade bonds that are well diversified across different Asian countries and sectors. Emphasis is placed on attaining a high level of income whilst controlling for risk. The fund holds bonds in Hong Kong conglomerate Hutchison Whampoa.

Asian High Yield Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 2,430 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Investors' ongoing search for yield helped drive the positive performance in Asian high yield bonds over the reporting period. Strong company earnings and historically low corporate default rates underpinned valuations in the Asian high yield bond market. In this environment, credit spreads for Asian high yield have contracted by approximately 0.8%, delivering some capital returns to investors. However, most of the returns for the asset class have come from income. In early 2011, there was moderate volatility with a pullback in risk assets as the unrest in the Middle East and the Japan earthquake unnerved investors. Despite the increased market uncertainty, Asian high yield bonds remained well supported and continued their run of positive returns.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. The fund's underweight position in Novelis, an aluminium rolled products maker, which joined the benchmark in the first quarter of 2011, was the main detractor from performance as the firm performed strongly on the back of high demand among US investors. Conversely, the overweight exposure to Indonesian coal producer Bumi Resources was the biggest contributor to returns as investors continued to favour the company as well as the overall prospects for the coal sector.

The outlook for Asian credit fundamentals remains stable to improving. The manager continues to emphasise on attaining a high level of income whilst ensuring that the portfolio is adequately diversified across countries, sectors and individual holdings. There is also a healthy pipeline of new issues coming to the Asian high yield market and the manager will look to selectively invest in some of these new opportunities. During the period, the manager added to the holding in Bumi Resources to increase its overweight position and trimmed the exposure to Evergrande Real Estate Group.

Core Euro Bond Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 312 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European investment grade corporate bonds, including sub investment grade debt outperformed government bonds over a period that was characterised by sovereign debt risk in peripheral eurozone. Downgrades of some countries, particularly Greece to below investment grade led to volatility and wider credit spreads. Ireland and Portugal were also bailed out, due to rising fiscal deficits. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. Towards the end of the period, the devastating earthquake in Japan and civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa region led to bouts of volatility. Meanwhile, after almost two years, the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. The overweight position and issue selection in Subordinated Lower Tier II debt in banks hurt returns. Detractors included Credit Agricole and Banco Santander. Holdings in government bonds of Ireland, Spain and Italy also held back returns. On the positive side, the underweight stance in Portugal and Greece (subsequently downgraded to sub investment grade) bolstered performance. The overweight position in credit, particularly in industrials buoyed overall returns. Contributors included BP and mining company Vale. Issue selection in the consumers and communications sectors, including pharmaceutical companies Merck & Co and Rhoen-Klinikum, as well as Telecom Italia added value.

Taking advantage of the volatility, the manager increased the fund's positive credit beta (i.e. its aggressive positioning in credit relative to the benchmark) by increasing the overweight stance in financials through Senior bank debt of DnB NOR Bank and Credit Suisse and covered bonds of Nordea Bank. Positions were also added in supranational entity European Union. Exposure to the industrials segment was increased by initiating positions in Xstrata and McDonald's. The overweight stance in the communications, consumers and utilities sectors was retained. By the end of the period, the overweight position in German bunds and government bonds of Italy were reduced, whilst the exposure to Spanish debt was increased further.

Emerging Market Debt Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 699 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market debt recorded stellar performance over the 12 month period. Amid an improving economic backdrop and diminishing perceived credit risk, these securities saw greater demand from investors who were attracted to the higher yields offered relative to government bonds. However, the asset class did witness bouts of volatility as concerns over European debt led to risk aversion. In January, spreads rose modestly despite the increase in civil unrest in the Middle East and the civil war in the Ivory Coast. The review period ended with another solid monthly return; Ivory Coast rallied once again as the country continued to recover from the bloody aftermath of the contested election.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. An overweight position in Ivory Coast was the primary detractor from returns. Though the bond performed well earlier in the period, the fall out from the contested presidential election had a severely negative impact on its performance. An underweight stance in Turkey also held back returns, as did a small overweight exposure to Pakistan. The wave of violence in the Middle East early in 2011 negatively impacted the performance of Middle Eastern debt, including Pakistan. Conversely, outperforming positions included overweight positions in Venezuela and Argentina and corporate bond holdings in Russia.

The fund's main overweight positions among sovereigns are Argentina and Venezuela. Within corporate bonds, Russia is a large overweight. Corporate bonds constitute approximately 20% of the fund's assets. In addition, the fund has a modest allocation in emerging market equities (around 1.4%) and less than 1.5% in emerging market local currency debt. Local debt of Ghana and Peru have replaced Mexican peso as the main local currency exposures. The portfolio duration is about 95% of the benchmark. The manager still believes that interest rates will remain relatively low as wage gains will not be sufficient to offset rising food and energy prices (and therefore believes that we remain in a benign inflationary environment).

Euro Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 489 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European investment grade corporate bonds, including sub investment grade debt outperformed government bonds over a period that was characterised by sovereign debt risk in peripheral eurozone. Downgrades of some countries, particularly Greece, to below investment grade led to volatility. After Greece, Ireland and Portugal were also bailed out, due to rising fiscal deficits. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. Towards the end of the period, the devastating earthquake in Japan and civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa region led to bouts of volatility. Meanwhile, after almost two years, the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The overweight position in investment grade credit and issue selection contributed to returns. The fund also benefited from a higher yield component. Holdings in asset backed securities (ABS), including commercial mortgage backed deals of Skyline, Real Estate Capital and Amstel Corporate Loan added to performance. An overweight stance in the communications and industrials segments also boosted returns. The fund's tactical positioning in government bonds buoyed performance. In particular, the underweight stance in Portugal and Greece (subsequently downgraded to sub investment grade) helped returns.

Over the period, taking advantage of the volatility in the markets, the manager added to the fund's credit beta (i.e. its aggressive positioning in credit relative to the benchmark). This was achieved by increasing the overweight position in banks through Senior debt of DnB NOR Bank and Credit Suisse, as well as covered bonds of BBVA and UBS. The overweight stance in industrials was increased through new positions in BP and mining company Xstrata. The overweight exposure to consumer non cyclicals was reduced by taking profits in pharmaceutical companies Merck & Co, Pfizer and Roche Holding. The manager moved the fund into an underweight stance in German bunds and an overweight position in Spanish government debt.

Euro Corporate Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 71 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European investment grade corporate bonds, including sub investment grade debt outperformed government bonds over a period that was characterised by sovereign debt risk in peripheral eurozone. Downgrades of some countries, particularly Greece to below investment grade led to volatility. Ireland and Portugal were also bailed out, due to rising fiscal deficits. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. Towards the end of the period, the devastating earthquake in Japan and civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa region led to bouts of volatility. Meanwhile, after almost two years, the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, driven by the positive credit beta (i.e. its aggressive positioning in credit relative to the benchmark) and issue selection. The additional yield earned from credit also bolstered returns. Security selection in asset backed securities contributed to performance in light of improving liquidity in the sector. Holdings in Quirinus, BBVA and Broadgate boosted returns. The overweight stance in communications and industrials, including Telefonica and mining company Anglo American added to performance. The fund also benefited from favourable selection in consumer non cyclicals. Contributors included pharmaceutical companies Merck & Co and Roche Holding; profits were subsequently taken in these holdings. The underweight stance in financials, including Credit Agricole and BNP Paribas detracted from performance.

Taking advantage of the volatility over the period, the manager added to the fund's credit beta by reducing the underweight position in financials. Additions included Senior bank debt of Intesa Sanpaolo, DnB Nor Bank and UBS, whilst profits were taken in Subordinated Lower Tier II debt of Bank of America. The manager readjusted positions in defensive sectors and sold GDF Suez and Bord Gais in the utility segment, whilst adding Vodafone Group and Royal KPN in the communications space. Holdings were also added in industrials through Volkswagen, Xstrata and BP.

Euro Short Term Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 98 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European investment grade corporate bonds, including sub investment grade debt outperformed government bonds over a period that was characterised by sovereign debt risk in peripheral eurozone. Downgrades of some countries, particularly Greece to below investment grade led to volatility. Ireland and Portugal were also bailed out, due to rising fiscal deficits. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. Towards the end of the period, the devastating earthquake in Japan and civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa region led to bouts of volatility. Meanwhile, after almost two years, the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The fund's overweight stance in investment grade corporate bonds contributed to performance. Within credit, issue selection in financials, including BBVA, Intesa Sanpaolo and Nordea Bank bolstered returns. Furthermore, security selection in asset backed securities (ABS), including commercial mortgage backed securities of Broadgate and Epic (More London) added to relative performance. The tactical positioning in government bonds of peripheral Europe, including an underweight stance in Ireland, Portugal and Spain boosted the fund's returns.

The manager retained the overweight position in credit, but selectively rotated positions into names with a better risk/reward profile. The overweight stance in the consumer non cyclical space was reduced by exiting pharmaceutical companies Merck & Co and Pfizer. The overweight position in financials was trimmed by taking profits in Senior bank debt of Westpac Banking and Svenska Handelsbanken and Subordinated Lower Tier II issues of ING Bank and Barclays. Exposure was initiated to covered bonds of BBVA and Nordea Bank. The manager also initiated positions in supranational entity European Union and German government owned development bank KfW. Likewise, the manager bought holdings in Statoil and Siemens within industrials.

European High Yield Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 2,448 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The European high yield market significantly outperformed both government bonds and investment grade corporate bonds over the one year period. The ongoing search for yield was rewarded as riskier assets outperformed in the midst of unabated flows into high yield bonds. A confluence of natural and geopolitical events towards the end of the period caused markets to retreat, but only long enough to digest current events and determine that positive economic momentum should rule the day. Healthy company balance sheets and strong corporate earnings added force to the high yield market as credit spreads narrowed across sectors. With rising inflation, an increasing concern across most of the euro region, the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points, to 1.25% in April.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period, primarily due to security selection within the telecommunications sector, including payment in kind (PIK) note of Irish telecommunications firm Eircom and Lighthouse International. An underweight stance relative to the benchmark and security selection in industrials also held back returns. However, losses were partly offset by positive contribution from financials, mainly on account of favourable name selection, including Allied Irish Banks, Royal Bank of Scotland and Lloyds. The fund also benefited from holdings in Eco-Bat and TMD Friction in the industrials sector.

The fund is broadly neutral in terms of the positioning in credit relative to the benchmark (credit beta), although the manager increased the underweight stance in BB rated securities. The underweight position in banks was increased by reducing the holdings in Royal Bank of Scotland, French bank BPCE and Russian Standard Bank. The manager also took profits in Subordinated Tier I debt of UBS. Within industrials, new positions were initiated in Continental, Fiat Industrial Finance Europe and TMD Friction. The overweight stance in the defensive telecommunications and utilities sectors was maintained. The manager also trimmed the hedge positions through iTraxx Credit Default Swaps (CDS), protecting against default of a basket of European high yield issuers whilst increasing the single name CDS hedges.

Global Corporate Bond Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 22 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed all major government bond markets over the review period. Corporate bonds continued to record strong returns, as companies enjoyed good fundamentals and robust profit margins. The eurozone sovereign debt crisis dominated the news as Greece, Ireland and Portugal had to be bailed out. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. Rising food and energy prices globally fuelled inflationary pressures across economies, and the European Central Bank raised its interest rate by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April. Despite the volatility in the financial markets following the earthquake in Japan and the civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region, credit spreads tightened.

The fund underperformed its benchmark during the period since launch in September 2010. At the beginning of the period, the long interest rate duration position relative to the benchmark hurt returns as bond yields rose. The position has since been reduced and the fund is underweight duration currently. Security selection within consumer non cyclical names such as the underweight stance in Kraft Foods also hurt returns. Conversely, the overweight position in Subordinated Lower Tier II financials boosted the fund's performance. The overweight exposure to Westpac Banking, insurance companies Legal & General Group, and Eureka helped returns. However, the underweight stance in Senior financial sector debt tempered the gains.

The fund invests primarily in global investment grade corporate debt securities. The fund is marginally overweight in credit relative to the benchmark. Within telecommunications, the fund added new positions in Vodafone Group and Deutsche Telekom, and increased exposure to Verizon Communications, whilst taking profits in Telefonica. The manager retained the underweight stance in the banking sector, but selectively added exposure to the sector via new positions in Societe Generale and covered bonds of BBVA. The fund maintained its hedge positions through iTraxx credit default swaps (protecting against default of a basket of issuers).

Global High Grade Income Fund <sup>5</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 34 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Over the past 12 months, the market has witnessed continuing volatility in Europe; increasing political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA), which led to oil price rises; and a devastating earthquake in Japan. The peripheral eurozone crisis further intensified after Spain, Greece and Portugal were downgraded by ratings agencies and stress tests on Irish banks revealed that they would need more funds to boost their reserves. US Treasuries were also affected, as rising inflation and improving US economic data increased expectations that the Federal Reserve may start withdrawing some of its monetary stimulus measures. The earthquake and subsequent tsunami in Japan added to the level of uncertainty. Despite its difficult fiscal situation, the Bank of Japan pumped ¥15 trillion into the financial system to ensure stability and doubled the size of its asset purchase plan.

At the end of the period, the fund held approximately 87% of its assets in government bond issues (i.e. government bonds issued in the domestic currency) and 13% in sovereign bond issues (i.e. government bonds issued in a foreign currency), maintaining an average credit rating of AAA. Currency exposure was the biggest contributor to the fund's positive returns, whilst income from bonds aided returns. Among the biggest currency gains were the Swedish krona and Australian dollar versus the US dollar. The strong performance of the Swedish krona is attributable to the overall strength of the Swedish economy, leading the central bank to raise rates three times over the last 12 months. Higher commodity prices continued to support the strength in commodity related currencies such as the Australian dollar and the Canadian dollar. European currencies also strengthened following the European Central Bank's decision to raise interest rates to counter rising inflation. As at the end of the period, the fund's duration was 0.95 years.

The fund continues to seek diversification and high income by investing in high quality and low duration government and government related bonds across a basket of different currencies. Bonds are selected on the basis of the credit quality of issuers and on the attractiveness of their yields. Over the period, holdings in Singapore government bonds were sold and US Treasuries were purchased.

Global High Yield Bond Fund <sup>1</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 926 THOUSAND

Manager's Overview

Global high yield markets performed strongly over the period as corporate bonds outperformed government bonds; within credit, high yield bonds outperformed investment grade bonds. Stronger company earnings and historically low global corporate default rates underpinned valuations in the asset class. Investors' ongoing search for yield also helped drive the positive performance. In this environment, credit spreads in each of the three underlying high yield markets, US, European and Asian high yield, contracted by over 2% and returns were fairly even across all three markets. In early 2011, however, there was moderate volatility with a pullback in risk assets as the unrest in the Middle East and the Japan earthquake shocked investors. Since then, however, markets have rebounded and global high yield bonds finished the reporting period on firmer grounding.

Over the period since its launch in June 2010, the underlying allocation between the US, European and Asian high yield markets was evenly split, whilst the fund retained exposure to both the US dollar and the euro. Positive credit selection in the energy, chemicals and insurance sectors contributed to returns, though the underweight position in selective holdings detracted from overall performance. The euro appreciated against the US dollar over the reporting period, which contributed to total fund returns.

Looking ahead, credit fundamentals remain fairly stable to improving across the board, which should continue to support performance. There is also a healthy pipeline of new issues coming to the market and the manager will look to selectively invest in some of these new opportunities. Over the period, the position in Clear Channel Communications was increased. The radio and outdoor advertising provider is positioned to capitalise on its leading market share position and potential restructuring opportunities. The manager increased the underweight exposure to banks by reducing the position in Royal Bank of Scotland, French bank BPCE and Russian Standard Bank.

Global Inflation-linked Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 451 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global inflation-linked bonds outperformed nominal government bonds over the 12 month period. Rising food and energy prices globally fuelled inflationary pressures across economies, and the European Central Bank raised its interest rate by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April. Headline inflation remained above the Bank of England's target range and the value added tax increase in January is expected to further add to consumer price inflation (CPI) in the coming months. Significant increases in energy and other commodity prices boosted overall inflation in the US as well. However, the central bank believed that the medium term inflation remained subdued and below the levels mandated by the Federal Reserve. Overall, inflation-linked bonds continue to offer value both from a historical context, as well as in light of inflation tail risks.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. The fund's small exposure to credit proved detrimental to performance and holdings in the insurance and energy sectors underperformed. However, losses were mitigated by positive security selection in the banking sector. Within inflation-linked bonds, the fund's exposure to US Treasury Inflation Protected Securities (TIPS) added value as TIPS outperformed nominal government bonds over the period. The overweight exposure to short dated index linked Gilts and Canadian inflation linkers also contributed to returns. Holdings in French inflation securities linked to the French CPI further enhanced returns.

Currently, the fund is overweight towards inflation relative to the benchmark. The exposure to Japanese inflation-linked bonds was reduced and holdings in US TIPS were trimmed. During the period, the fund moved to an overweight position in Canadian and Australian linkers. Exposure was also added to German and Italian inflation securities. The fund has an overall short nominal duration position relative to the benchmark. It is overweight in Europe and underweight in the US, Canada and the UK. The fund continues to maintain a moderate exposure to high quality investment grade corporate bonds.

Global Strategic Bond Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 21 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed all major government bond markets over the review period. Corporate bonds continued to record strong returns, as companies enjoyed good fundamentals and robust profit margins. In Europe, the peripheral sovereign debt crisis continued and Portugal became the third country in the region to seek an international bailout. Debt restructuring worries also intensified and Greek, Portuguese and Irish bonds declined. Meanwhile, rising food and energy prices globally fuelled inflationary pressures across economies, and the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April. Despite the volatility in the financial markets following the earthquake in Japan and the civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region, credit spreads tightened over the period.

The fund performed in line with its benchmark over the period. The overweight position in credit, particularly in lower rated bonds, contributed to performance amid tightening credit spreads. The additional yield earned from corporate bonds also added to returns. The overweight position in financial sector names, including Santander, Lloyds TSB and insurance company ING Groep further buoyed returns. Security selection within industrials (Eco-Bat, Anglo American) outperformed and holdings in inflation-linked bonds of the US, the UK and Canada contributed to performance.

The fund was launched in March 2011 and invests primarily in a diversified portfolio of fixed income securities, including global investment grade corporate debt, government bonds, inflation-linked bonds, emerging market debt and high yield securities. The fund is overweight in credit relative to the benchmark and has a small exposure to emerging markets via names such as Gazprom and Transneft. The fund also holds inflation-linked bonds of the US, the UK, Germany and Italy. Overall, the fund has a short interest duration position relative to its benchmark and is overweight in the ten year part of the euro yield curve.

International Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 376 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed all major government bond markets over the last year. Corporate bonds continued to record strong returns over the period, as companies enjoyed good fundamentals and robust profit margins. The eurozone sovereign debt crisis dominated the news as Greece, Ireland and Portugal had to be bailed out. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. Rising food and energy prices globally fuelled inflationary pressures across economies, and the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April. Despite the volatility in the financial markets following the earthquake in Japan and the civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region, credit spreads tightened over the year.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The overweight position in credit, particularly in lower rated bonds, contributed to performance amid tightening credit spreads. The additional yield earned from corporate bonds also added to the fund's returns. Issue selection in asset backed securities boosted performance amid the sector's continued recovery. Name selection within Subordinated Tier I financials also buoyed returns. The overweight positions in Societe Generale, Barclays and Commerzbank were large contributors to performance. However, gains were tempered by the overweight stance towards the sector.

The fund manager remained overweight in credit relative to the benchmark, but some positions with less upside potential were trimmed. The fund moved from a long to a short duration position relative to its benchmark, particularly in the US and Canada. However, it remains overweight in Europe, and the underweight stance in the UK was reduced. Holdings in Australian, UK and German inflation-linked bonds were added. Within industrials, exposure to Germany based HeidelbergCement was increased and a new position in AngloGold Ashanti was added. The overweight stance in banks was decreased over the year by reducing exposure to Lloyds TSB and Bank of America, and taking profits in HBOS.

Despite the volatility in the financial markets following the earthquake in Japan and the civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region, credit spreads tightened over the year.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The overweight position in credit, particularly in lower rated bonds, contributed to performance amid tightening credit spreads. The additional yield earned from corporate bonds also added to the fund's returns. Issue selection in asset backed securities boosted performance amid the sector's continued recovery. Name selection within senior and Subordinated Tier I financials also buoyed overall returns. The overweight positions in Societe Generale, Citigroup and insurance company Fukoku Mutual Life Insurance were large contributors to performance. However, gains were tempered by the overweight stance towards the sector.

The fund moved from a long to a short duration position relative to its benchmark by reducing the overweight holding in Europe and increasing the underweight stance in the UK. The manager added holdings in Australian and UK inflation-linked bonds. The consumer non cyclicals and communications sectors were moved to an underweight position by taking profits in pharmaceutical company Pfizer, Imperial Tobacco and Verizon Communications. The overweight stance in banks was decreased over the year by selling holdings in UBS and JPMorgan Chase & Co. However, exposure was selectively added to Citigroup and HSBC Holdings, and a new position was picked up in insurance company MetLife.

Sterling Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: GBP 192 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Corporate bonds, including sub investment grade debt outperformed government debt over the period, supported by strong risk appetite. Concerns over the fiscal sustainability of peripheral Europe, the downgrades of some of those countries, and the subsequent bailouts of Greece, Ireland and Portugal impacted sentiment, leading to a flight to core government bonds. Nevertheless, an improving global economy and a second round of quantitative easing in the US led to a strong risk appetite in the second half. Towards the end of the period, the devastating earthquake in Japan and civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa region led to bouts of volatility. Inflation was at twice the Bank of England's (BoE) 2% target, which prompted speculation of interest rate rises from the current level of 0.5%. The bank, however, left the interest rate unchanged.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. The short duration stance relative to the benchmark in the UK held back relative performance as yields fell over the period. The overweight position in asset backed securities also detracted from performance. Conversely, favourable issue selection, particularly in banks, including Lloyds TSB and Commerzbank bolstered returns. However, gains were mitigated by an underweight allocation to the banking sector. The fund also benefited from an overweight stance in specialist financial firm 3i Group. The overweight stance in industrials, including rail companies Great Rolling Stock and Porterbrook Rail, as well as lead recycler Eco-Bat added to returns.

The fund manager retained an overweight stance in corporate bonds, but reduced the overweight exposure to financials. This was achieved by trimming positions in Royal Bank of Scotland, Bank of America and Lloyds TSB. The overweight exposure to the telecommunications, utilities and consumer staples sectors was reduced through Telecom Italia, Southern Gas and Anheuser-Busch InBev. Likewise, holdings in asset backed securities of Peel and Enterprise Inns were trimmed. The overweight stance in industrials was further increased through new positions in Great Rolling Stock, Russian Railways and Fiat Industrial. Holdings were also added in supranational entity European Investment Bank.

US Dollar Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 387 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Credit markets outperformed US government bonds over the review period. Corporate bonds continued to record strong returns, as companies enjoyed good fundamentals and robust profit margins. Near zero benchmark interest rates pushed investors towards higher yielding assets and sub investment grade bonds were the best performing fixed income asset class over the period. In order to promote a stronger pace of economic recovery and to help ensure that inflation is at levels consistent with the central bank's mandate, the Federal Reserve (Fed) announced a second round of quantitative easing in November, as well as an extension of tax cuts. The federal funds rate, however, was left unchanged at 0–0.25%.

The fund outperformed its benchmark during the period. The overweight position in credit, particularly in lower rated securities contributed to performance amid tightening of credit spreads. The additional yield earned from corporate bonds also added to returns. Issue selection within the energy sector aided the fund's performance. The overweight positions relative to the benchmark in BP, Transocean and Shell helped returns. The fund further benefited from favourable selection in the banking sector, in particular, Subordinated Lower Tier II debt. However, gains were tempered by the overweight stance towards the sector.

The fund's long duration position was maintained over the period, particularly in the US, as the manager does not expect the Fed to increase interest rates anytime soon. The long duration position in Europe was also retained. The manager increased the overweight stance in the energy and communications sectors through new positions in BP, Transocean and News America, and increased the holding in Verizon Communications. Whilst continuing to be overweight in financials, holdings were reduced by taking profits in names such as Morgan Stanley and insurance company Old Mutual. The overweight stance in Wells Fargo & Co and Rabobank were also trimmed.

US High Yield Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 7,082 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The US high yield market continued its positive performance over the period, as the rally experienced in 2009 continued through 2010 and into the first quarter of 2011. The asset class was aided by the continuing economic recovery, corporate deleveraging and supportive monetary conditions. Corporates benefited from better than anticipated earnings and a more stable outlook for the financial sector. Capital markets were active, with strong high yield bond issuance as well as initial public offerings, leveraged buyouts and a pickup in merger activity. The corporate default rate also continued to decline. These improving fundamentals resulted in spread tightening throughout the period. The market backdrop remains positive, as investors continue to be focused on their search for yield.

Over the period, the fund underperformed its benchmark. Name selection in the technology, publishing/printing and broadcasting industries proved detrimental to returns. The underweight position in ecommerce solutions provider First Data hurt relative returns as the issuer reported better than anticipated quarterly results. The company, however, remains challenged by pricing pressures from domestic retail merchant customers. The holding in Readers Digest also detracted from performance. Conversely, issue selection in the chemicals, utilities and health care sectors added value. The underweight stance in BB-tier credit also helped returns.

The fund manager increased the position in Clear Channel Communications. The radio and outdoor advertising provider is positioned to capitalise on its leading market share position and potential restructuring opportunities. The manager initiated exposure to Dana Holdings. The axle and drive train manufacturer continues to show better than expected organic growth due to backlogged demand through 2014. Elsewhere, Apria Healthcare Group was sold on relative valuation concerns. The holding in Brocade Communications Systems was also sold and exposure to OPTI Canada was reduced following its recent market appreciation.

Euro Cash Fund <sup>1</sup>

Manager's Overview

Over the last 12 months, headlines were dominated by the sovereign debt crisis in peripheral Europe. Downgrades of some countries, particularly Greece, to below investment grade led to market volatility. Ireland and Portugal were also bailed out during the period as their market funding costs became unsustainable amid rising fiscal deficits. Meanwhile, European Union (EU) policymakers agreed to increase the lending capacity of the European Financial Stability Fund and outlined the terms for a permanent European Stability Mechanism. Also, Ireland completed a stress test of its major banks, concluding that it requires an extra EUR 24 billion in capital. Although considerable downside risks remain, in particular the credit quality of peripheral Europe, global economic indicators have improved steadily from a trough in August 2010. After almost two years, the European Central Bank (ECB) raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April to counter the risk of a broad based rise in inflation. Consequently, the Euro London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR) rose and yield curves shifted upwards.

Against a backdrop of rising money market rates between the 30 and 90 day portion of the yield curve, the fund manager increased exposure to holdings in that bracket. This proved favourable to returns, owing to the attractive term premium on offer. Exposure to issues beyond 90 days was trimmed; this resulted in a lower weighted average maturity overall.

Given the fund's focus on high quality credit, over 50% of its assets are invested in Aa2 or higher rated issuers. A high level of liquidity is maintained by primarily investing in commercial paper, time deposits and certificates of deposit, which together total 86% of the fund's assets. Given the relative strength of core European and UK banks over their peripheral European counterparts, the portfolio is weighted towards France, the Netherlands, Germany and Sweden at the country level. Furthermore, the fund's weighted average maturity was reduced to 34 days after the ECB's policy decision on 7 April.

US Dollar Cash Fund <sup>1</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 516 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The US dollar London Interbank Offered Rates (Libor) trended downwards over the 12 month period and the US dollar money market curve flattened over the year with short term rates falling less than the longer dated ones. Whilst recent economic data pointed to improvements in the US economy, high unemployment, stable long term inflation expectations and the earthquake in Japan encouraged policymakers to maintain their monetary stimulus efforts and keep the federal funds rate unchanged at 0 to 0.25%. The Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) also announced a second round of quantitative easing in November, as well as an extension of tax cuts in order to promote a stronger pace of economic recovery and to help ensure that inflation is at levels consistent with the central bank's mandate.

The relatively long weighted average maturity (WAM) of the fund boosted returns as yields fell across the curve. The manager continues to hold a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities in accordance with the key aims of liquidity and capital preservation. Exposure to issues maturing below 14 days has been increased over the year. The manager holds approximately 39% of the fund in securities with less than 14 days to maturity.

Over the review period, the fund's exposure to issues maturing beyond 60 days was maintained at around 24%. At the same time, the fund holds 18% in issues maturing within seven days, thus maintaining high liquidity. Commercial paper and certificates of deposit remain the preferred security type held in the fund. The fund's exceptionally high quality credit profile is maintained with 24% of its assets invested in Aaa rated issues.

MoneyBuilder Europe Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 13 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose during the period under review, owing to continued economic and corporate earnings growth and relatively inexpensive market valuations. However, markets were volatile on the back of concerns over the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. The European Union and the International Monetary Fund provided loan support to shore up the finances of several peripheral countries over the period. In addition, the European Central Bank continued to inject liquidity and bought government bonds of peripheral nations. Geopolitical unrest in the Middle East and North Africa and rising inflationary pressures precipitated further market uncertainties over the period.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Security selection in the energy and consumer discretionary sectors contributed the most to performance. At the stock level, an underweight position in BP was the largest contributor to relative returns. Shares in the company were negatively impacted by a major oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. An overweight position in BMW proved positive to performance as the company benefited from higher sales, together with plans to increase volumes in China. Shares in luxury goods company Burberry Group were boosted by market speculation of a bid interest from a US private equity firm. In contrast, shares in construction materials firm CRH declined following a profit warning. The position was reduced over the period.

The portfolio continues to be a blend of styles with a slight growth tilt. It is biased towards the consumer discretionary and technology sectors and is overweight in energy relative to its benchmark. The manager holds selected energy services companies such as Saipem and Aker Solutions, which are a play on rising capital spending from integrated oil companies. Firms with pricing power look attractive and exposure to companies with this theme has been increased. In contrast, the manager has less exposure to the consumer staples, telecommunications and utilities sectors.

MoneyBuilder European Bond Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 3 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European investment grade corporate bonds, including sub investment grade debt outperformed government bonds over a period that was characterised by sovereign debt risk in peripheral eurozone. Downgrades of some countries, particularly Greece to below investment grade led to volatility. After Greece, Ireland and Portugal also had to be bailed out during the period due to rising fiscal deficits. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. Towards the end of the period, the devastating earthquake in Japan and civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa region led to bouts of volatility. Meanwhile, after almost two years, the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. In the Euro Bond Fund, the overweight position in investment grade credit and issue selection contributed to returns. The fund also benefited from a higher yield component. Holdings in asset backed securities (ABS), including Skyline and Real Estate Capital added to performance. The fund's tactical positioning in government bonds, including an underweight stance in Portugal and Greece (subsequently downgraded to sub investment grade) bolstered performance. In the European High Yield Fund, holdings in Eco-Bat and TMD Friction in the industrials sector boosted returns.

Over the period, the manager increased exposure to the Euro Bond Fund. Within the fund, the overweight stance in credit was increased by adding to the overweight position in banks. These included Senior debt of DnB NOR Bank and Credit Suisse, as well as covered bonds of BBVA. The overweight stance in the industrials segment was increased through fresh positions in BP and mining company Xstrata. In the European High Yield Fund, the manager increased the underweight exposure to banks by trimming positions in Royal Bank of Scotland and French bank BPCE, whilst also taking profits in Subordinated Tier I debt of UBS. The fund maintained its overweight position in the defensive telecommunications and utilities sectors.

MoneyBuilder Global Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 19 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. Towards the end of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities rose the most in euro terms, whilst Japan lagged.

The fund generated positive returns but underperformed its benchmark over the period, due to the impact of security selection. In the US, an underweight holding in strong performer Apple proved unrewarding to returns as its shares were buoyed by strong demand for smartphones. Stock picking in banks, such as Barclays hampered the performance of the European segment. Elsewhere, security selection in Asian and emerging markets contributed to returns. The underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector in Japan helped relative returns. In emerging markets, the position in Chinese online gaming firm Tencent Holdings bolstered gains. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards emerging marks added value. An underweight stance in Japan and the US also helped performance. Conversely, an underweight position in Europe during the first half of the review period detracted from returns as European equities outperformed during that period.

The manager increased the overweight stance in emerging markets at the expense of Japan during the second half of the review period. Emerging markets were supported by strong domestic fundamentals, whilst Japan reported week lead indicators. A below benchmark stance in Europe was closed, whilst the underweight position in the defensive US market was retained.

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed all major government bond markets over the year. Corporate bonds continued to record strong returns, as companies enjoyed good fundamentals and robust profit margins. The eurozone sovereign debt crisis dominated the news as Greece, Ireland and Portugal had to be bailed out. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. Rising food and energy prices globally fuelled inflationary pressures across economies, and the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25% to 1.25% in April. Global equities advanced, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results, as well as reasonably attractive valuations and heightened deal activity. Weak economic data at the start of the period and worries about the ongoing sovereign debt issues in Europe dampened sentiment for European bonds.

The fund delivered positive returns over the period. Within the fixed income portion, the overweight position in credit, particularly in lower rated bonds, contributed to performance amid tightening credit spreads. The additional yield earned from corporate bonds also added to returns. Issue selection in asset backed securities boosted performance amid the sector's continued recovery. Elsewhere, security selection in Asia bolstered performance. In particular, exposure to South Korean petrochemical producers proved supportive, whilst holdings in Thailand added value. Conversely, the overweight stance in US equities weighed on returns due to holdings in the consumer and technology space.

The manager retains an underweight exposure to bonds relative to the benchmark and reduced exposure further during the review period in view of tightening credit spreads. Meanwhile, the exposure to commodities was enhanced on rising international prices and expectations of growth given robust demand in emerging markets. Attractive valuations, loose monetary policies in the developed world, and economic and earnings growth led to an increased allocation to European equities.

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed all major government bond markets over the last year. Corporate bonds continued to record strong returns over the period, as companies enjoyed good fundamentals and robust profit margins. In the US, Treasuries were impacted by the Federal Reserve's second round of quantitative easing announced in November, as well as by an extension of tax cuts. Meanwhile, global equities rose notably, as the initial anxiety about a "double dip" recession in the US was replaced with optimism about a broad based recovery in global economic activity. Encouraging economic data releases from the US and continued strength in emerging markets, coupled with additional liquidity from stimulus support boosted commodity prices. At the sector level, energy and materials stocks outperformed amid escalating oil and commodity prices.

The fund delivered positive returns. European asset allocation proved beneficial to performance, with equities rising in response to an encouraging economy and robust corporate earnings. As the fund reached its end date, the manager increased the allocation to cash in the second half of the year. The fund closed on 29 April 2011.

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Reasonably attractive valuations and heightened deal activity also helped performance. Weak economic data during the start of the period and worries about the ongoing sovereign debt issues in Europe dampened sentiment. Later, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, rising inflationary pressures, monetary tightening and the earthquake in Japan also weighed on investor confidence. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing (QE2) in the US and Japan, and improving business confidence buoyed markets. European equities rose the most in US dollar terms, whilst Japan lagged. At the sector level, energy and materials stocks outperformed amid escalating oil and commodity prices.

The fund delivered positive returns, but underperformed its benchmark due to adverse security selection in US equities. Holdings in firms such as Cisco Systems held back returns following conservative earnings guidance, whilst an underweight stance in Apple detracted from performance. Security selection in the consumer discretionary sector also hurt returns. Meanwhile, security selection in the European portion of the fund was beneficial, with significant contribution from stock selection, especially in the financials, energy and information technology sectors. Quarter on quarter results above consensus expectations produced strong returns among software firms Velti and Blinkx, electrical equipment firm XP Power, and financials GlobeOp Financial Services and VZ Holding. Holdings in Asia Pacific ex Japan equities also contributed positively, due to superior security selection.

The manager enhanced the allocation to European equities given an improvement in the outlook for growth as relatively inexpensive valuations, loose monetary policies in the developed world and economic and earnings growth are key factors supporting these equities against major macro headwinds. This was done at the expense of exposure to the US, where the outlook for growth is unclear as the end of QE2 approaches. The allocation to Japan was also reduced post the recent earthquake.

Fidelity Target™ 2010 (Euro) Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 16 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, outperforming bonds and cash, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. Towards the end of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, within the fixed income segment, European investment grade corporate bonds, including sub investment grade debt outperformed government bonds. In equities, Europe ex UK rose the most in euro terms, whilst Japan lagged.

The fund generated positive returns, but underperformed its benchmark over the period. This was primarily due to security selection in the fixed income segment over the fourth quarter of 2010, when holdings in banks and Subordinated Lower Tier II debt detracted from performance. A small negative contribution came from European equities as well. Selected holdings in mining companies proved detrimental to returns as shares were hit by escalating input costs and monetary tightening in China. Conversely, positions in the luxury goods sector added value, as these companies enjoyed soaring sales due to unabated demand from Asia. In terms of asset allocation, a more defensive position than the benchmark for most of 2010 hurt returns. The manager had expected a pull back in equities due to a slowdown in global growth, but equities outperformed defensive assets in 2010.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash. During the period, in keeping with the fund's objective, the manager shifted the portfolio to a more defensive stance. Exposure to bonds and cash was enhanced and equity holdings were reduced. The fund rolled down to 100% euro denominated cash as at the end of December. It will stay invested in euro cash with reduced fees in line with the FF Euro Cash Fund until further notice.

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, outperforming bonds, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. Towards the end of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, European investment grade corporate bonds outperformed government bonds. Within equities, Europe ex UK rose the most in euro terms, whilst Japan lagged.

The fund generated positive returns but marginally underperformed its benchmark, due to security selection in the equity segment of the portfolio. Holdings in the US and Europe detracted from returns. Within Europe, selected financials and material stocks weighed on performance. Positions in materials names were hit by increasing input costs, aggressive monetary tightening in China and liquidity issues arising from defaulting central banks. Elsewhere, in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets, exposure to Chinese online gaming firm Tencent Holdings added to the fund's value. The underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector in Japan helped performance. Security selection in the fixed income segment was notably rewarding, as holdings in asset backed securities contributed to returns. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards equities at the expense of bonds towards the end of the review period was beneficial to returns.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2015. During the period, in keeping with the fund's objective, the manager shifted the portfolio to a more defensive stance. Exposure to bonds was enhanced and equity holdings were reduced. Towards the last few months, the manager preferred equities over bonds, based on expectations that economic recovery and positive earnings revisions would support riskier assets.

Elsewhere, in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets, exposure to Chinese online gaming firm Tencent Holdings added to the fund's value. The underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector in Japan helped relative returns. Name selection in the fixed income segment was rewarding, as holdings in asset backed securities (ABS), including commercial mortgage backed deals of Skyline and Amstel Corporate Loan added to performance. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards equities at the expense of bonds towards the end of the review period was beneficial to returns.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2020. During the period, in keeping with the fund's objective, the manager shifted the portfolio to a more defensive stance. Exposure to bonds was enhanced and equity holdings were reduced. However, towards the last few months, the manager preferred equities over bonds as growth indicators are improving and there is plenty of liquidity, which could support riskier assets.

In the technology sector, Cisco Systems' earnings guidance disappointed as a result of margin pressure that management claimed was short term product launch driven. In Europe, selected holdings in materials firms detracted from returns as these were hit by increasing input costs. Elsewhere, in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets, exposure to Chinese online gaming firm Tencent Holdings added to the fund's value. The underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector in Japan helped relative returns. Holdings in the fixed income segment were also rewarding. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards equities at the expense of bonds towards the end of the review period was beneficial to returns.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2025. During the review period, in keeping with the fund's objective, the manager shifted the portfolio to a more defensive stance. Exposure to bonds was enhanced and equity holdings were reduced. However, towards the last few months, the manager preferred equities over bonds as macroeconomic indicators started to show signs of a better environment globally, setting the scene for a rebound in equities.

Fidelity Target™ 2030 (Euro) Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 57 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. Towards the end of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities rose the most in euro terms, whilst Japan lagged.

The fund generated positive returns but underperformed its benchmark, due to security selection in the US segment of the portfolio. Exposure to technology hardware and health care firms undermined performance. Notably, an underweight holding in strong performer Apple proved unrewarding to returns as its shares were buoyed by strong demand for smartphones. In Europe, positions in luxury goods firms were beneficial to returns as these companies enjoyed soaring sales on unabated demand from Asia. However, the impact was partially offset by selected holdings in materials firms, which were hit by increasing input costs. Elsewhere, security selection in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets added value. The underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector in Japan helped relative returns. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards equities at the expense of bonds towards the end of the review period was beneficial to returns.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2030. During the review period, the manager maintained a small bond exposure in keeping with the fund's objective. However, towards the end, the bond position was closed and the manager held only equities as improving growth indicators and plentiful liquidity indicated that this asset class would perform well.

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. Towards the end of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities rose the most in euro terms, whilst Japan lagged.

The fund generated positive returns but underperformed its benchmark over the period, due to the impact of security selection. In the US, exposure to technology hardware and health care firms undermined performance. Notably, an underweight holding in strong performer Apple proved unrewarding to returns as its shares were buoyed by strong demand for smartphones. In addition, conservative earnings guidance from Cisco Systems held back performance. In Europe, positions in luxury goods firms were beneficial to returns as these companies enjoyed soaring sales on unabated demand from Asia. However, the impact was partially offset by selected holdings in materials firms, which were hit by increasing input costs. Elsewhere, security selection in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets added value. The underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector in Japan helped relative returns. In terms of asset allocation, a bias towards Europe at the expense of global equities bolstered returns as Europe outperformed other regions.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2035. The manager maintained a small bond exposure in 2010 to benefit from slow global growth. However, towards the end of the review period, the bond position was closed and the manager held only equities as improving growth indicators and plentiful liquidity indicated that this asset class would perform well. The fund has not started its migration yet and is still nearly 100% invested in equities in line with the benchmark.

Fidelity Target™ 2040 (Euro) Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 11 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities advanced, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. Towards the end of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, a second round of quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities rose the most in euro terms, whilst Japan lagged.

The fund generated positive returns but underperformed its benchmark, due to security selection. In the US, exposure to technology hardware and health care firms undermined performance. Notably, an underweight holding in strong performer Apple proved unrewarding to returns as its shares were buoyed by strong demand for smartphones. In addition, conservative earnings guidance from Cisco Systems held back the fund's performance. In Europe, positions in luxury goods firms were beneficial to returns as these companies enjoyed soaring sales on unabated demand from Asia. However, the impact was partially offset by selected holdings in materials firms, which were hit by increasing input costs. Elsewhere, security selection in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets added value. The underweight stance in the stricken power utilities sector in Japan helped relative returns. In terms of asset allocation, the bias towards Europe at the expense of global equities bolstered returns as Europe outperformed other regions.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2040. The manager maintained a small bond exposure in 2010 to benefit from slow global growth. However, towards the end of the period, the bond position was closed and the manager held only equities as improving growth indicators and plentiful liquidity indicated that this asset class would perform well. The fund has not started its migration yet and it is still nearly 100% invested in equities in line with the benchmark.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: SGD 7 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. Towards the end of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, quantitative easing by major central banks and buoyant confidence helped markets. European stock markets rose the most in Singapore dollar terms.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, largely on account of security selection. Notably, stock picking in banks, such as Barclays hampered the performance of the European segment of the portfolio. In the US, selected technology holdings hurt returns, as did a bias towards financials. In particular, exposure to Wells Fargo & Co weighed on returns. Conversely, in Singapore, positions in selected health care equipment firms added value. Elsewhere, holdings in Asian and emerging markets contributed to returns. As expectations of a slowdown in global growth gained ground at the beginning of the period, the manager favoured the defensive US market. A bias was maintained towards Asian and emerging markets, which were expected to benefit the most from economic stimulus measures. Meanwhile, an underweight position in Europe was preferred in light of concerns about the impact of fiscal tightening. This positioning proved detrimental to returns, whilst the bias towards emerging markets helped.

Towards the end of the period, the emerging markets exposure was reduced as it looked fully valued, whilst the European holdings were increased as the agreement for a sovereign mechanism was expected to improve sentiment towards the region. Small off benchmark positions in bonds and cash, introduced towards the end of 2010, were also closed. At the end of the period, the fund was positioned in line with its benchmark. The Live 2020 Fund is a life cycle product and is designed to optimise asset allocation over the life of the product. The initial portfolio is made up of 100% equities; this will gradually decrease so that the fund has a more balanced asset allocation in the future.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. Nevertheless, quantitative easing by major central banks and buoyant confidence helped markets. European stock markets rose the most in Singapore dollar terms. Commodities also generated strong positive returns, whilst bonds and cash fell.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, largely on account of security selection in Europe and the US. Notably, stock picking in banks, such as Barclays hampered the performance of the European segment of the portfolio. In the US, selected technology holdings hurt returns, as did a bias towards financials. In particular, exposure to Wells Fargo & Co weighed on returns. Conversely, in Singapore, positions in selected health care equipment firms supported performance. Elsewhere, holdings in Asian and emerging markets contributed to returns. As expectations of a slowdown in global growth gained ground at the beginning of the period, the manager favoured the defensive US market. A bias was maintained towards Asian and emerging markets, which were expected to benefit the most from economic stimulus measures. Meanwhile, an underweight position in Europe was preferred in light of concerns about the impact of fiscal tightening. This positioning proved detrimental to returns, whilst the bias towards emerging markets helped.

Towards the end of the period, the manager reduced exposure to emerging markets, which looked fully valued, whilst increasing holdings in Europe, where the agreement for a sovereign mechanism could help sentiment. A small bias in bonds and cash, introduced towards the end of 2010, was also reduced. A neutral stance was maintained in commodities. At the end of the period, the fund was positioned in line with its benchmark. The FF Live Today Fund is part of the FF Live life cycle funds and aims to achieve a combination of income and long term capital growth. It invests in a wide range of assets covering bonds, equities, commodities and cash. The manager can opportunistically deviate from the benchmark.

Manager's Overview

US equities registered robust gains. Initial enthusiasm about the economic recovery and the strength in corporate earnings was curbed by weak global signals. A concurrent deceleration in economic indicators brought fears of an economic "double dip" back to the fore and caused a sell off. However, investors who had re-adjusted their growth expectations lower soon found succour in robust manufacturing and services sector data, as well as improving labour market conditions. The launch of a fresh round of quantitative easing supported the uptrend. Better than expected earnings announcements and buoyant deal activity helped offset the weakness in the housing market.

The fund registered robust absolute gains. Energy holdings, such as Marathon Oil, Halliburton, Frontier Oil and Baker Hughes were boosted by high oil prices. Within the technology sector, the new position in the leading online job portal Monster Worldwide was supported by a pick up in hiring activity and a favourable earnings outlook, whilst eBay's better than anticipated quarterly results showcased strength in its PayPal business. The manager took profits in the former. In contrast, Cisco Systems detracted from performance as its earnings guidance disappointed as a result of margin pressure that management claimed was short term product launch driven. The manager remained invested in the stock for its attractive valuation, its exposure to the growth of networking markets and the sustainability of margins. Elsewhere, the position in directory business SuperMedia held back returns following an analysts' downgrade and was sold.

The manager reduced exposure to cyclical sectors, such as materials, financials and consumer discretionary that had done well and used the proceeds to add to the positions in the health care and consumer staples arena where there were more attractive investment opportunities. At the end of the review period, the portfolio's largest exposure was in the technology sector, which offers access to a diverse set of businesses with uncorrelated drivers. The manager did not find suitable investment opportunities in the utilities arena.

Manager's Overview

US equities registered robust gains over the period. Initial enthusiasm about the economic recovery and the strength in corporate earnings was curbed by weak global signals. A concurrent deceleration in economic indicators brought fears of an economic "double dip" back to the fore and caused a sell off. However, investors who had re-adjusted their growth expectations lower soon found succour in robust manufacturing and services sector data, as well as improving labour market conditions. The launch of a fresh round of quantitative easing by major central banks supported the uptrend. Better than expected earnings announcements and buoyant deal activity helped offset the weakness in the housing market.

The fund delivered robust returns over the period. The position in Chevron was a key contributor to performance amid soaring crude oil prices, as investors focused on the integrated energy firm's ability to generate both strong cash flows and deliver high returns on capital. Holdings in health care firms Biogen Idec and Pfizer added to the fund's value. The former, a biotechnology company, posted strong results and its new oral multiple sclerosis drug formulation proved to be effective in clinical trials. The latter focused on making its research more effective and its management team reviewed the divestment of some businesses to maximise value. Conviction in Caterpillar also contributed to returns as it acquired mining equipment manufacturer Bucyrus and became a global leader in this segment. Meanwhile, new technology holdings in Apple and semiconductor and components manufacturer Vishay Intertechnology lifted returns. Robust sales of Apple's iPad and iPhone underpinned its earnings, whilst the latter's quarterly results revealed that its volumes had returned to pre crisis levels and a strong order backlog would bolster its fourth quarter results.

Technology holdings constitute a key sector level allocation. The long term story is attractive, given secular demand growth in smartphones, PC tablets and cloud computing. Valuations, particularly for bellwether stocks, are compelling. Health care positions are also well represented, led by holdings in biotechnology firms and health insurers.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 59 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities registered robust gains. Initial enthusiasm about the economic recovery and the strength in corporate earnings was curbed by weak global signals. A concurrent deceleration in economic indicators brought fears of an economic "double dip" back to the fore and caused a sell off. However, investors who had re-adjusted their growth expectations lower soon found succour in robust manufacturing and services sector data, as well as improving labour market conditions. A fresh round of quantitative easing supported the uptrend. Better than expected earnings announcements and buoyant deal activity helped offset the weakness in the housing market.

The fund generated robust absolute gains over the period. The energy exposure, specifically in new oil equipment and services names such as Helmerich & Payne, added value. With higher oil prices, there is a need for investments in modern equipment to resolve supply issues that investors had to acknowledge. However, shares in newly included uranium producer Cameco fell in the aftermath of the earthquake related nuclear disaster in Japan, which clouded the demand outlook somewhat. Elsewhere, agrochemicals holdings lent support; in particular, Potash Corporation of Saskatchewan's stock rose after BHP Billiton launched a hostile takeover. These developments also supported the position in The Mosaic Company, highlighting the hitherto underappreciated strong secular growth in emerging market demand. In contrast, conservative earnings guidance from communications equipment firm Cisco Systems held back performance and prompted the manager to reduce this holding.

The large energy holding reflected the manager's belief that the long term demand/supply dynamics remain positive. Positions in materials are focused on gold stocks, which are expected to do well amid the prevailing geopolitical uncertainty and inflationary concerns, and fertiliser names that are benefiting from strong farm economics. The manager also found some great franchises at attractive valuations in the financials and health care sectors that have been weighed down by regulatory uncertainty. Defensive utilities and telecommunications stocks were the least represented in the portfolio.

FAWF Asian Special Situations Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 143 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Despite charting an uneven course, Asia Pacific ex Japan equities ended the 12 month period with significant gains on account of signs that the worst impact of the global economic crisis had faded. The emergence of the European debt crisis, Chinese monetary and regulatory tightening and the rising threat of inflation in Asia, and later, geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan caused volatility. Consumer discretionary stocks were in the vanguard. The materials and energy sectors tracked international energy and materials prices higher. Increased capital expenditure in light of growing international trade and government sponsored infrastructure development programmes boosted industrials.

The fund generated strong returns over the period, largely on account of holdings in the information technology, financials and consumer discretionary sectors. The stake in handheld device producer HTC was the largest contributor to returns owing to the growing popularity of smartphones. A holding in online media and mobile value added services provider Sina also added value. The firm's share price was supported by solid earnings and the success of Weibo, its Twitter like service. Within the consumer discretionary space, buoyant spending by Chinese consumers supported Macau casino operator SJM Holdings, Far Eastern Department Stores and men's fashion retailer Trinity. However, selected holdings in the health care and utilities sectors hampered performance.

Over the period, the manager added to positions in the financials and materials sectors. In particular, a number of firms producing specialty chemicals, including LG Chem, were added to the portfolio due to increasing demand for their products. A position in China Unicom was introduced as its improved distribution and enhanced subscriber base are expected to boost earnings. Conversely, exposure to the utilities and consumer staples sectors was reduced whilst holdings in the health care sector were sold.

FAWF Europe Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 47 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the review period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and inflationary concerns evolved.

The fund generated strong returns over the period. Energy, industrials and consumer related holdings contributed to returns. In the consumer staples area, speciality bakery Aryzta gained after its upbeat first half results showed an incremental improvement in organic growth. Among industrials, Schneider Electric enjoyed significant contract wins; the holding has since been sold. A position in car manufacturer Volkswagen also advanced following its encouraging third quarter results, when the firm announced that its nine month profits rose due to its luxury Audi brand and demand from China. Investors also welcomed news that its proposed merger with Porsche is on track. Conversely, the position in CRH detracted from returns due to worries about the fragility of growth in the US. Among financials, shares in AXA held back performance after its first half income disappointed and it lost a major client in its investment division.

Matthew Siddle took over the management of the fund on 1 October 2010. He looks for quality companies at an attractive price based on valuations over a full market cycle. The manager has increased the number of positions held in the fund and reduced the concentration in its top holdings. As a result, positions in Ryanair Holdings, Reed Elsevier, AXA, Roche Holding, Novartis and Neopost were sold and exposure to CRH was reduced.

FAWF International Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 45 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose, supported by signs of continued improvement in the global economy and robust corporate results. Markets faced intermittent pullbacks amid ongoing sovereign debt issues and concerns about tough fiscal regulations. Towards the end of the period, political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, mounting inflationary pressure and the earthquake in Japan further weakened sentiment. Nevertheless, quantitative easing by major central banks and improving business confidence buoyed markets. Against this backdrop, Europe ex UK equities outperformed other regions in US dollar terms, whilst Japan lagged.

The fund generated positive returns over the period. Stock picking in Europe was notably rewarding. A position in luxury goods firm Hugo Boss was beneficial to performance as it enjoyed soaring sales due to unabated demand from Asia. Elsewhere, in Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets, holdings in Chinese search engine Baidu and social media firm Sina added to the fund's value. In Japan, limited exposure to the stricken power utilities sector helped returns. However, in the US segment, exposure to Cisco Systems hurt returns as its earnings guidance disappointed. Additionally, a small position in strong performer Apple proved unrewarding to performance as its shares were buoyed by strong demand for smartphones. Conversely, the position in Caterpillar in the machinery sector was among the strong contributors to performance.

Over the period, the manager retained a preference for Asian and emerging markets at the expense of developed markets as the former was in a better position to benefit from economic stimulus and rising commodity prices. Within the US portion, the manager favoured growth over value investments, as the former tends to outperform during upturns in economic activity. The fund has limited exposure to Europe in view of concerns that fiscal tightening could threaten growth in peripheral eurozone.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 3 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The Japanese market trended downwards through the first half of the review period, as mounting concerns about yen appreciation and an uncertain outlook for the US economy weighed upon stocks. Later in the year, the advent of the second round of quantitative easing in the US helped to stabilise the yen, contributing to a rebound in share prices that continued into the new year. Whilst political instability in the Middle East and an accompanying surge in crude oil prices tempered global markets, the powerful earthquake that struck in mid March 2011 precipitated a significant divergence in the performance of Japanese stocks. In contrast to their overseas counterparts, share prices in Japan retreated as the economic impact of the earthquake, as well as the Fukushima nuclear disaster, continued to drive sentiment.

The fund generated subdued returns over the period. In the first half, market conditions worked against life insurers and bank stocks struggled. Meanwhile, the fund's exposure to major cell phone carriers proved disadvantageous and holdings in retailers fared poorly as the domestic economy slowed. In contrast, stock selection in the electrical machinery sector added value. Canon enjoyed a late rebound as investors positively assessed its mid term growth potential and not holding consumer electronics giant Sony paid off. Utilities also supported returns.

The manager maintained a diversified portfolio, striking a balance between undervalued financials and global cyclical plays. The fund retained a large exposure to the broad financials segment, with a focus on undervalued banks and leasing companies. Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group and Orix were key holdings at the end of the review period. The exposure to trading companies such as Mitsui & Co, which are highly levered to gains in commodity prices, was increased. On the other hand, the manager took profits in mobile phone operators NTT DoCoMo and KDDI, and scaled back the risk exposure to insurance companies following the mid March earthquake.

FAWF Pacific Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 53 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific equities advanced strongly over the period. Notwithstanding the European sovereign debt crisis, monetary and regulatory tightening in China, and political unrest in the Middle East and North Africa, confidence was boosted by rising corporate earnings and an optimistic global growth outlook. Investors were also sanguine about the impact of the earthquake in Japan and signs of unease about inflation. Energy and materials shares underpinned gains due to rising international prices, whilst telecommunications firms advanced strongly. Information technology (IT) and utilities names brought up the rear.

The fund performed strongly over the period. The holding in Lynas Corporation, a rare earth minerals producer, was the single largest contributor to performance as it benefited from higher international prices. Industrials holdings also added value. A position in China State Construction International Holdings advanced due to an expansion in social housing and infrastructure spending projects under the 12th Five Year Plan. Additionally, owning 51Jobs Inc, a China based online employment services firm, boosted returns given the strong outlook for an increase in its user base. Elsewhere, South Korea based apparel firm Basic House contributed to performance, due to its sales success in China. Conversely, owning China based CNinsure Inc detracted from performance over accounting related concerns. The manager, however, maintained the position, and the firm now has a takeover offer from private equity group TPG. Elsewhere, exposure to Korean LED optical component maker MNTech held back returns as it missed profit targets.

The manager raised holdings in the industrials and materials sectors at the expense of financials and IT. In industrials, a position in EVA Precision Industrial Holdings was added given increased product diversification in the automobile and home appliances industries. In financials, the stake in Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group and Fuji Fire & Marine Insurance were sold due to an increase in claims post the Japan earthquake. In materials, Rio Tinto was sold to pick up a stake in Iluka Resources for its superior growth potential.

FAWF US Large-Cap Stock Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 45 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities registered robust gains. Initial enthusiasm about the economic recovery and the strength in corporate earnings was curbed by weak global signals. A concurrent deceleration in economic indicators brought fears of an economic "double dip" back to the fore and caused a sell off. However, investors who had re-adjusted their growth expectations lower soon found succour in robust manufacturing and services sector data, as well as improving labour market conditions. The launch of a fresh round of quantitative easing supported the uptrend. Better than expected earnings announcements and buoyant deal activity helped offset the weakness in the housing market.

The fund generated robust absolute gains. Energy holdings such as Marathon Oil, Halliburton, Frontier Oil and Baker Hughes were boosted by high oil prices. Within the technology arena, the new position in leading online job portal Monster Worldwide was supported by a pick up in hiring activity and a favourable earnings outlook, whilst eBay's better than anticipated quarterly results showcased strength in its PayPal business. The manager took profits in the former. In contrast, Cisco Systems detracted from performance as its earnings guidance disappointed as a result of margin pressure that management claimed was short term product launch driven. The manager remained invested in the stock for its attractive valuation, its exposure to the growth of networking markets and the sustainability of its margins. Elsewhere, the position in directory business SuperMedia held back returns following analysts' downgrade and was sold.

The manager reduced exposure to cyclical sectors such as materials, financials and consumer discretionary that had done well and used the proceeds to add to the positions in the health care and consumer staples arena where there were more attractive investment opportunities. At the end of the review period, the portfolio's largest exposure was in the technology sector, which offers access to a diverse set of businesses with uncorrelated drivers. The manager did not find suitable investment opportunities in the utilities arena.

FAWF US Dollar Bond Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 8 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Credit markets outperformed US government bonds over the review period. Corporate bonds continued to record strong returns over the period, as companies enjoyed good fundamentals and robust profit margins. Near zero benchmark interest rates pushed investors towards higher yielding assets and sub investment grade bonds were the best performing fixed income asset class over the period. In order to promote a stronger pace of economic recovery and to help ensure that inflation is at levels that are consistent with the central bank's mandate, the Federal Reserve (Fed) announced a second round of quantitative easing in November, as well as an extension of tax cuts. The federal funds rate, however, was left unchanged at 0-0.25%.

The fund generated strong returns over the period. Exposure to credit, particularly in lower rated securities contributed to performance amid tightening of credit spreads. The additional yield earned from corporate bonds also added to returns. Security selection within the energy sector aided performance. The holdings in BP, Transocean and Shell helped returns. The fund further benefited from favourable selection in the banking sector, in particular, Subordinated Lower Tier II debt.

Over the 12 month period, the fund's long duration position was maintained, particularly in the US as the manager does not expect the Fed to increase interest rates anytime soon. The long duration position in Europe was also retained. The manager increased the fund's exposure to the energy and communications sectors through new positions in BP, Transocean and News America, and increased the holding in Verizon Communications. Whilst maintaining the exposure to financials, the manager reduced holdings by taking profits in names such as Morgan Stanley and insurance company Old Mutual and trimmed positions in Wells Fargo & Co and Rabobank Nederland.

FAWF US High Income Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 143 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The US high yield market continued its positive performance over the period, as the rally experienced in 2009 continued through 2010 and into the first quarter of 2011. The asset class was aided by the continuing economic recovery, corporate deleveraging and supportive monetary conditions. Corporates benefited from better than anticipated earnings and a more stable outlook for the financial sector. Capital markets were active, with strong high yield bond issuance as well as initial public offerings, leveraged buyouts and a pickup in merger activity. The corporate default rate also continued to decline. These improving fundamentals resulted in spread tightening throughout the period. The market backdrop remains positive, as investors continue to be focused on their search for yield.

The fund generated strong returns over the period. Issue selection in the chemicals, utilities and health care sectors were key contributors. Within the chemicals sector, the position in Tronox aided returns. Elsewhere, holdings in TXU helped the fund's performance. The Texas based utility company was bolstered by its ability to extend its maturity profile, supported by its attractive asset base. Conversely, security selection in the technology, publishing/printing and broadcasting industries proved detrimental to overall returns.

The fund manager increased the position in Clear Channel Communications. The radio and outdoor advertising provider is positioned to capitalise on its leading market share position and potential restructuring opportunities. The manager initiated exposure to Dana Holdings. The axel and drive train manufacturer continues to show better than expected organic growth due to backlogged demand through 2014. Elsewhere, Apria Healthcare Group was sold due to valuation concerns. The holding in Brocade Communications Systems was also sold and exposure to OPTI Canada was reduced following its recent market appreciation.

FAWF Global Balanced Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 17 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The asset classes the fund invests in delivered positive returns in US dollar terms. As signs of continued improvement in the global economy provided support, commodities, real estate and equities generated higher returns than defensive assets such as bonds and cash. Within equities, cyclical regions and sectors outperformed defensive positions. Europe (including UK), emerging markets and Asia ex Japan outperformed the US and Japan; the global industrial and mining sectors did better than defensive sectors such as health care and utilities. Within bonds, investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed government bonds.

The fund generated positive returns over the period. Selected fixed income holdings contributed significantly to returns. The exposure to credit, particularly lower rated bonds, proved beneficial amid tightening credit spreads. The additional yield earned from corporate bonds also added to returns. Name selection in asset backed securities boosted performance amid the sector's continued recovery. In addition, stock picking in several regional equity segments added value. In the initial part of the period, the manager maintained a defensive stance, favouring bonds over equities as macroeconomic indicators pointed to the likelihood of subdued economic growth and low inflation. Subsequently, as macroeconomic indicators improved, the fund was shifted to a more aggressive stance, which added value.

Towards the end of the period, the manager enhanced the equity exposure and introduced a position in commodities, whilst reducing exposure to bonds. Within equities, the position in Japan was increased during the correction after the March 2011 earthquake. Holdings in Europe were enhanced after the surprise agreement over a eurozone sovereign support mechanism. At a sector level, the manager added to holdings in industrials and technology, whilst trimming positions in the consumer and telecommunications sectors.

Institutional America Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 165 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities registered robust gains. Initial enthusiasm about the economic recovery and the strength in corporate earnings was curbed by weak global signals. A concurrent deceleration in economic indicators brought fears of an economic "double dip" back to the fore and caused a sell off. However, investors who had re-adjusted their growth expectations lower soon found succour in robust manufacturing and services sector data, as well as improving labour market conditions. The launch of a fresh round of quantitative easing supported the uptrend. Better than expected earnings announcements and buoyant deal activity helped offset the weakness in the housing market.

The fund delivered healthy absolute gains, but underperformed its benchmark. Stock selection in information technology hurt returns. The overweight holdings in Seagate Technology and Western Digital were pressured by falling hard drive prices and rising competition. The former was sold and exposure to the latter was reduced. An above benchmark position in Cisco Systems hurt returns after a series of earnings disappointments and an uninspiring outlook. It is committed to preserving its margins, and remains a long term quality business at an attractive valuation. Meanwhile, an underweight stance in Exxon Mobil and not holding ConocoPhillips detracted from returns amid a sharp rise in crude oil prices. An overweight position in drugstore operator CVS Caremark hurt performance following a downward revision to its 2011 earnings forecast. Encouragingly, above benchmark exposure to capital goods manufacturers lifted returns amid clearer signs of a global economic recovery and takeover activity in the industry. Conviction in Biogen Idec added value as it posted strong results and its new oral multiple sclerosis drug formulation was effective in clinical trials.

Technology is a key overweight position at a sector level. The long term story is attractive, given secular demand growth in smartphones, PC tablets and cloud computing. Valuations, particularly for bellwether stocks, are compelling. The fund is overweight in health insurers and biotechnology firms, which accounts for an above benchmark stance in health care.

Institutional Asia Pacific (ex-Japan) Fund <sup>1</sup>

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities were volatile, but advanced over the 12 month period on signs that the worst impact of the global economic crisis had faded. The emergence of the European debt crisis, Chinese monetary and regulatory tightening, and the rising threat of inflation in Asia, and later, geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan caused volatility. The consumer discretionary, materials and energy sectors were the leading performers, as the outlook for consumption growth remained strong and international energy and materials prices surged. Increased capital expenditure and government sponsored infrastructure development programs boosted industrials.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period, as selected consumer discretionary and information technology (IT) positions dragged returns. The holding in car producer BYD Company strongly detracted from performance as sales and earnings fell. Not holding Hyundai Motor also eroded the fund's value as its shares rose on surging car sales. The overweight stance in Hon Hai Precision Industry weighed on performance due to concerns about supply chain disruptions following the earthquake in Japan. Conversely, the holding in Macau based casino operator SJM Holdings benefited from a rise in earnings and an optimistic growth outlook. The high conviction holding in Kia Motors and Genting Berhad (Malaysia) advanced on rising sales and positive acquisitions, respectively. Not holding China Life Insurance and China Mobile also added relative value.

The fund is positioned to benefit from a structural shift in the Asia Pacific region. In particular, the manager enhanced the strong overweight in the consumer discretionary space and increased the underweight stance in financials, with security selection driving sector allocation. A holding in Gome Electrical Appliances was added for its presence in second tier Chinese cities where rising income levels are expected to boost home appliance sales. Meanwhile, the exposure to industrials was enhanced by adding ship and vessel manufacturers and diversified industrial conglomerates.

Institutional Asia Pacific (ex-Japan) Opportunities Fund <sup>1</sup>

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities were volatile, but advanced over the period on signs that the worst impact of the global economic crisis had faded. The emergence of the European debt crisis, Chinese monetary and regulatory tightening, and the rising threat of inflation in Asia, and later, geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan caused volatility. The consumer discretionary, materials and energy sectors were the leading performers, as the outlook for consumption growth remained strong and international commodity prices surged. Increased capital expenditure and government sponsored infrastructure development programs boosted industrials.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, largely due to positions in the materials, energy and consumer discretionary sectors. Individual holdings in health care stocks also hampered performance. The position in Parkson Retail, a store operator in China, declined after it missed earnings estimates, partly due to higher than expected costs following accelerated store openings in the country. Within the information technology sector, a holding in personal computer manufacturer Lenovo Group was a major detractor from performance. Its shares fell early in the period over concerns about export demand and again towards the end due to fears of supply chain disruption following the Japan earthquake. In contrast, the non benchmark exposure to Chinese language search engine Baidu, which reported strong revenues, was the largest contributor to returns.

The manager held an overweight position in Australia based WorleyParsons in the energy sector as its outlook improved with a noticeable pick up in plans for energy and petrochemical plant construction worldwide. A position in oil and gas company Santos was added on increasing signs that its liquefied natural gas (LNG) expansion plans were likely to crystallize. A position in ship manufacturer Hyundai Mipo Dockyard was initiated and exposure to container terminal operator COSCO Pacific was raised as recovery in international trade improved the outlook for the sector. Conversely, consumer discretionary holdings, including selected media stocks, were trimmed.

Institutional Emerging Markets Equity Fund <sup>1</sup>

Manager's Overview

Continued recovery in global growth, accommodative monetary policy in the developed world and a weak dollar provided a positive backdrop for emerging markets over the period. A second round of quantitative easing by the US Federal Reserve and record low yields on US treasuries stoked demand for risk assets, including commodities. Oil prices rose over 30% in five months given supply concerns amid the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East. The smaller emerging Asian and Latin American markets were the strongest performers, whilst the major markets of China, Brazil and India lagged.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The underweight exposure to Brazil, including the decision to avoid integrated oil major Petrobras helped returns as a strengthening Real, high relative valuations and its large secondary issuance hampered stock market performance. Rapid growth in Chinese internet penetration drove revenues in the off benchmark position in Sohu.com and the overweight holding in Tencent Holdings. Global smartphone adoption aided iPhone component producer Largan Precision. Automobile stocks were notable contributors, with China's largest SUV manufacturer Great Wall Motor and Korean parts maker Hyundai Mobis adding value. Stock selection in Russia and Korea, notably the overweight positions in Gazprom, Russian miner Mechel and Korean telecommunications firm KT Corp, hurt returns. An off benchmark holding in Chinese insurer CNinsure was the single largest detractor from returns as corporate governance concerns affected investor sentiment.

The fund's largest sector overweights are in consumer discretionary and materials. Positions in copper miners Equinox and Kazakhmys were closed; exposure to precious metals holdings were increased and new positions in UK listed AngloGold Ashanti and Russian silver producer Polymetal were added. Mobile internet technology is an important theme and is played both through component producers such as Samsung Electronics and online content providers such as Tencent Holdings. Exposure to the industrials and telecommunications sector is below benchmark due to fierce competition in the former and lack of real growth opportunities in emerging markets in the latter.

Institutional Euro Blue Chip Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 114 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone countries. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May 2010. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the review period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and inflationary concerns evolved.

The fund significantly outperformed its benchmark over the period, as the continuous focus on companies that can grow from within was rewarded. Selected consumer discretionary names benefited from strong demand in Asia, especially China. In particular, Hugo Boss completed its restructuring and generated strong business in Europe and Asia. Elsewhere, a cautious stance towards consumer staples firms, which are being pressured by higher input costs, proved helpful to returns. Moreover, the overweight exposure to chemicals companies helped as rising commodity prices supported the sector. An underweight stance in utilities also added value as the segment suffered from fears of regulatory restrictions. Elsewhere, stock selection in the energy sector dampened returns, with the position in Sevan Marine declining due to balance sheet issues that the group is trying to fix by raising capital.

The underweight stance in consumer staples firms was increased amid pricing pressure by selling stocks such as Henkel. In the energy sector, the position in Total was sold as it faces modest production growth. The manager also reduced holdings in some consumer discretionary names that reached fair valuation, including Continental. This money was invested in attractively valued high growth media names such as Modern Times Group. Positions were also added in industrials and chemicals firms that are expected to gain market share or benefit from a pick up in demand. For instance, exposure to Siemens was increased.

Institutional European Larger Companies Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: EUR 79 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose, as both the economy and corporate earnings were encouraging. However, stocks intermittently came under pressure due to worries about the fiscal health of peripheral eurozone. As a result, the European Union and the International Monetary Fund announced an emergency loan package of around $1 trillion for European countries in early May. The European Central Bank also delayed its withdrawal of emergency liquidity measures and bought government bonds in the peripheral countries. Towards the end of the period, the geopolitical unrest in the Middle East dampened market sentiment and inflationary concerns evolved.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. CRH was a key detractor from performance, due to worries about the fragility of growth in the US. Among financials, investors failed to recognise strong volumes for stock exchange operator Deutsche Boerse, whilst AXA fell after its first half income disappointed and it lost a major client in its investment division. Key health care holdings also proved unfavourable to returns. A position in hearing aid company Sonova Holding fell due to lower than expected sales. On a positive note, security selection in energy stocks helped performance. A cautious stance in BP benefited the fund as its shares slumped, following concerns over clean up costs and compensation related to the oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico. In the consumer staples sector, speciality bakery Arysza gained after its upbeat first half results showed an incremental improvement in organic growth. Among industrials, the holding in Schneider Electric enjoyed significant contract wins and has since been sold.

Matthew Siddle took over the management of the fund on 1 October 2010. He looks for quality companies at an attractive price based on valuations over a full market cycle. The manager has increased the number of positions and reduced the fund's concentration in its top holdings, but has only marginally changed the active money. Long term positions in Ryanair, Reed Elsevier, AXA, Roche Holding, Novartis and Neopost were sold and exposure to CRH was reduced.

Institutional Global Focus Fund <sup>4</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: USD 119 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Equities rose despite intermittent concerns related to the sovereign debt crisis in peripheral Europe and political unrest in oil producing nations. Investors were initially upbeat about global growth prospects, but soon became worried about the likelihood of another recession in the US, where economic indicators stalled temporarily. The announcement of further quantitative easing offset some of these fears. A subsequent improvement in US economic indicators and continued rapid expansion in emerging markets supported sentiment, although the latter battled inflationary pressures. Corporate profitability remained robust and deal activity gathered pace.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. Technology holdings contributed; in particular, improved investor perception about US employment growth prospects buoyed jobs website operator Monster Worldwide. Meanwhile, desktop virtualisation beneficiary Citrix Systems reported better than expected quarterly revenues. The manager took profits in both. In contrast, Cisco Systems' results disappointed, but the manager felt it was attractively valued and would benefit from growth in data/video traffic. Elsewhere, materials positions lent support. Fertiliser firm CF Industries benefited from an encouraging demand outlook given higher crop prices, whilst elevated platinum prices supported autocatalysts business Umicore.

Amit Lodha assumed responsibility for the fund in October 2010. Like his predecessor, his macro view informs where he looks for investment opportunities, but his primary focus is on stock selection. The manager favours firms with pricing power, strong balance sheets and healthy cash flows. At the end of the period, large overweights in technology and health care reflected opportunities to invest in attractively valued businesses with good cash flows and innovative products. The modest above benchmark stance in energy reflected a positive long term view on oil prices, despite some short term reservations about the sustainability of the currently inflated price levels. The susceptibility of consumer staples and utilities to rising raw material/commodity costs justified their underweight positioning.

Institutional Hong Kong Equity Fund <sup>1</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: HKD 639 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese equities rose over the period, led by gains in energy, materials and information technology stocks. The government continued its efforts to reduce bank lending, rein in inflation and slow economic growth to a more sustainable pace. The 12th Five Year Plan, introduced in March 2011, reinforced the government's focus on shifting the economy from an export to a consumption driven model and on achieving sustainable growth by improving social safety nets. Hong Kong benefited from the expansion in regional economies and from strong retail sales given the inflow of Chinese tourists.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, supported by selected holdings in the consumer discretionary sector. Notably, a position in Brilliance China Automotive Holdings was the top contributor to performance, given strong first half earnings and exposure to the luxury car segment. Exposure to Macau casino operator SJM Holdings also buoyed returns amid rising spending by Chinese tourists. A high conviction holding in online media firm Sina also added value, given solid earnings and the success of Weibo, its Twitter like service. Positive earnings momentum lifted the position in search engine Baidu, which benefited from an increase in the number of internet users and the popularity of ecommerce. Materials and industrials stocks were buoyed by a rise in commodity prices. Conversely, holdings in consumer staples were hurt by inflation concerns and financials positions dampened performance due to profit taking in some property names.

The fund maintains an overweight position in stocks that are likely to benefit from increasing consumerism in the region. However, a holding in China Yurun Food Group was sold after contamination of its competitor's hogs dampened sentiment. Exposure to the industrials and materials sectors was increased. In the former, the position in Hutchison Whampoa was raised in light of improved earnings in its mobile phone division due to the increased adoption of the iPhone in Hong Kong. Exposure to ship manufacturer COSCO (Singapore) was increased given the improved sector outlook. The underweight position in utilities and telecommunications was maintained due to better investment opportunities elsewhere.

Institutional Hong Kong Opportunities Fund <sup>1</sup>

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: HKD 756 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Hong Kong equities performed strongly over the review period. Investors gained confidence as the economic recovery took an increasingly firm hold, with a rebound in exports and improving employment numbers. Better than expected expansion in China and the authorisation to undertake yuan cash settlements in Hong Kong boosted sentiment. However, in the second half of the period, equities endured market volatility related to concerns arising from rising inflation and monetary tightening in China. Nonetheless, strong economic and corporate earnings growth proved supportive for equities.

The fund outperformed its benchmark, largely due to stock selection within the information technology space and positioning in the industrials and telecommunications sectors. High conviction holdings in internet stocks such as Sina, Baidu and Ctrip.com contributed significantly to returns. Within industrials, the exposure to selected airlines and container manufactures proved particularly rewarding to performance as economic growth remained strong. The strategy to remain underweight in China Mobile also enhanced relative returns as investors focused on growth stocks. Conversely, the overweight stance relative to the benchmark in automobile manufacturer BYD Company was the biggest detractor from performance as the company's sales fell. In addition, certain property names in Hong Kong also proved unrewarding.

The fund maintains an overweight exposure to stocks benefiting from strong domestic demand growth in China, although consumer discretionary holdings were trimmed due to valuation concerns. The biggest overweight exposure is in the technology sector, through internet related businesses that are benefiting from a fast expanding internet user base, increasing monetisation of services and growing advertisement revenues. Over the period, exposure to the energy and materials sectors was also increased as the global economic recovery aided demand for oil and commodities. Conversely, the underweight exposure to utilities and telecommunications stocks was maintained due to the bias towards growth orientated sectors.

Institutional Japan Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: JPY 2,349 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The Japanese market trended downwards through the first half of the review period, as mounting concerns about yen appreciation and an uncertain outlook for the US economy weighed upon stocks. Later in the year, the advent of the second round of quantitative easing in the US helped to stabilise the yen, contributing to a rebound in share prices that continued into the new year. Whilst political instability in the Middle East and an accompanying surge in crude oil prices tempered global markets, the powerful earthquake that struck in mid March 2011 precipitated a significant divergence in the performance of Japanese stocks. In contrast to their overseas counterparts, share prices in Japan retreated as the economic impact of the earthquake, as well as the Fukushima nuclear disaster, continued to drive sentiment.

The fund underperformed its benchmark over the period. Negative stock selection in the information technology sector accounted for much of the active return. Technology names such as Fujitsu and Toshiba did not perform, with the latter heavily impacted by the Great East Japan earthquake through its exposure to the nuclear industry. Meanwhile, a focus on generic drug makers at the expense of major pharmaceutical companies was ultimately a negative trade. On the other hand, internet related names Cyber Agent and Rakuten made significant contributions to performance. An underweight stance in the power utilities sector also paid off.

In the capital goods sector, the manager focused on globally competitive electronic materials and machinery companies such as Asahi Glass and SMC. A position in Mitsui & Co, a diversified trading company with solid upstream assets, was also held. Meanwhile, the manager capitalised on the structural growth of internet services to add positions in SNS and in ecommerce names such as Gree. On the other hand, the manager selectively trimmed positions in materials companies where business momentum was peaking. Exposure to companies, including Toshiba and Canon, which were at risk from significant production disruptions following the mid March earthquake was reduced.

Institutional Japan Aggressive Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2011: JPY 1,894 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The Japanese market trended downwards through the first half of the review period, as mounting concerns about yen appreciation and an uncertain outlook for the US economy weighed upon stocks. Later in the year, the advent of the second round of quantitative easing in the US helped to stabilise the yen, contributing to a rebound in share prices that continued into the new year. Whilst political instability in the Middle East and an accompanying surge in crude oil prices tempered global markets, the powerful earthquake that struck in mid March 2011 precipitated a significant divergence in the performance of Japanese stocks. In contrast to their overseas counterparts, share prices in Japan retreated as the economic impact of the earthquake, as well as the Fukushima nuclear disaster, continued to drive sentiment.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period due to exposure to mid cap internet stocks, particularly in the social network service (SNS) and ecommerce sub sectors. Gree, Start Today and Cyber Agent were among the leading contributors to returns. Following the Great East Japan earthquake, a long standing underweight in utilities supported relative returns. In contrast, negative stock selection in key manufacturing sectors detracted from performance. Elpida Memory and Stanley Electric struggled amid fears about a slowdown in the global economy. In domestic oriented sectors, small cap real estate companies and retailers also hurt the fund's performance.

The structural growth of internet services remained a key theme in the portfolio, with the manager increasing exposure to companies, such as Cyber Agent, which are expanding their PC based business models to include mobile and smartphone oriented strategies. The manager maintained an overweight position in other finance, but significantly reduced the exposure to the banking sector. The manager sold SMFG and MUFG, switching to reconstruction beneficiaries in other domestic sectors. Meanwhile, positions in manufacturing companies in the machinery and electrical machinery sectors that saw a deterioration in business fundamentals were closed.

Institutional Pacific (ex-Japan) Fund <sup>4</sup>

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities were volatile, but advanced over the 12 month period on signs that the worst impact of the global economic crisis had faded. The emergence of the European debt crisis, Chinese monetary and regulatory tightening, and the rising threat of inflation in Asia, and later, geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and North Africa and the earthquake in Japan caused volatility. The consumer discretionary, materials and energy sectors were the leading performers on a positive outlook for consumption growth and surging energy and materials prices. Increased capital expenditure and government sponsored infrastructure development programs boosted industrials.

The fund underperformed its benchmark, as selected consumer discretionary names and the underweight positions in materials disappointed. The holding in car and battery producer BYD Company strongly detracted from performance as car sales and earnings fell. Meanwhile, an underweight stance in Hutchison Whampoa eroded the fund's value as share prices advanced on higher earnings. The overweight exposure to housing materials producer James Hardie Industries suffered due to lacklustre growth in US housing markets. Conversely, the holding in Focus Media Holdings, an outdoor media firm, advanced on better than expected earnings results. Additionally, the holding in Keppel Corporation, an offshore oil rig builder, continued to add value, due to a positive earnings outlook. Elsewhere, the off benchmark holdings in China based online search company Baidu and online gaming firm Tencent Holdings bolstered performance.

The fund is positioned to benefit from a structural shift in the Asia Pacific region. In particular, the fund manager enhanced the overweight holding in the consumer discretionary space and increased the underweight stance in financials. A holding in Gome Electrical Appliances was added for its presence in second tier Chinese cities, where rising income levels are expected to boost home appliance sales. Given continued regulatory tightening in Hong Kong, the exposure to real estate firms was decreased. The exposure to industrials was enhanced by adding Singapore based supply chain manager Noble Group.

Institutional European High Yield Fund <sup>4</sup>

Manager's Overview

The European high yield market significantly outperformed both government bonds and investment grade corporate bonds over the one year period. The ongoing search for yield was rewarded as riskier assets outperformed in the midst of unabated flows into high yield bonds. A confluence of natural and geopolitical events towards the end of the period caused markets to retreat, but only long enough to digest current events and determine that positive economic momentum should rule the day. Healthy company balance sheets and strong corporate earnings added force to the high yield market as credit spreads narrowed across sectors. With rising inflation, an increasing concern across most of the euro region, the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. In financials, the underweight stance relative to the benchmark and favourable security selection in banks bolstered performance. Contributors included Allied Irish Banks, Royal Bank of Scotland and Bank of Ireland. The fund also benefited from holdings in Eco-Bat and Enercoal Resources in the industrials sector. Conversely, the underweight exposure to industrials names, including Rexam, Ineos Group and Ford Motor held back relative returns. Exposure to iTraxx Credit Default Swaps (CDS), protecting against default of a basket of European high yield issuers, also weighed on overall performance.

The fund is broadly neutral in terms of the positioning in credit relative to the benchmark (credit beta), although the manager increased the underweight stance in B rated securities. The underweight exposure to banks was reduced and new positions in government guaranteed debt of Allied Irish Banks and Subordinated Tier I debt of Royal Bank of Scotland were initiated. Profits were taken in UBS and French bank BPCE. The fund maintained its overweight position in the defensive telecommunications sector. New positions were initiated in cable operator Kabel, Poland based media group TVN and Phones4u. In industrials, the manager increased holdings in Wendel and Russian steel maker Evraz Group and added new positions in automobile companies Fiat Industrial Finance Europe and Ford Motor.

Institutional Global Bond Fund

Manager's Overview

Investment grade and high yield corporate bonds outperformed all major government bond markets over the last year. Corporate bonds continued to record strong returns over the period, as companies enjoyed good fundamentals and robust profit margins. The eurozone sovereign debt crisis dominated the news as Greece, Ireland and Portugal had to be bailed out. Yield spreads on these countries relative to German bunds touched record highs before retracing somewhat. Rising food and energy prices globally fuelled inflationary pressures across economies, and the European Central Bank raised its interest rates by 0.25 percentage points to 1.25% in April. Despite the volatility in the financial markets following the earthquake in Japan and the civil protests in the Middle East and North Africa (MENA) region, credit spreads tightened over the year.

The fund outperformed its benchmark over the period. The overweight position in credit, particularly in lower rated bonds, contributed to performance amid tightening credit spreads. The additional yield earned from corporate bonds also added to the fund's returns. Name selection in asset backed securities boosted performance amid the sector's continued recovery. Holdings within Subordinated Tier I financials also buoyed returns. The overweight positions in Societe Generale, Barclays and Commerzbank were large contributors to performance. However, gains were tempered by the overweight stance towards the sector.

The fund manager remained overweight in credit relative to the benchmark, but some positions with less upside potential were trimmed. The fund moved from a long to a short duration position relative to its benchmark, particularly in the US and Canada. However, it remains overweight in Europe, and the underweight position in the UK was reduced. Holdings in Australian, UK and German inflation-linked bonds were added. Within industrials, exposure to Germany based HeidelbergCement was increased and a new position in AngloGold Ashanti was added. The overweight stance in banks was decreased over the year by reducing exposure to Lloyds TSB and Bank of America, and taking profits in HBOS.
